From Salem to Pittsburgh Mills, Money, Mellon Empty Stomachs Dangerous Twice Thanks to Mr. Hoover.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 10. WHEN TRAVELING through the country, if opportunity offers, get off at one railroad station, and motor a few miles to another, observing as you go.

This is written, after an hour and a half motor trip from Salem, O., passing in that short time through parts of Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, all the way on a good road labeled "U. S. 30."

Where the highway cuts through hills, you see holes in the bank from which the owner of land adjoining takes out coal as he needs it. Very convenient.

THROUGH LISBON, East Liverpool and over the Ohio River you enter West Virginia and motor on through the rolling fields. Soon, a sign announces that you have changed from West Virginia into Pennsylvania. Then, past mines, oil wells, gas wells, you enter this powerful growing city of coal, iron, gigantic mills, money and "the Mellons."

Here every prospect pleases, for nothing could be more pleasing than active smokestacks that show factories running, men employed. But there is one disturbing feature.

Coming into Allegheny County, alert policemen stand on the corners, beside each one a state trooper, watching automobiles.

Banditry, with robbing of banks, and occasional murders, has increased suddenly, although, thanks to wise policy of big steel companies, nearly all their men are employed, at least part of the week.

AT THREE in the afternoon a group of men in working clothes stand on a corner, evidently unemployed. One watches a powerful young man, who wears an unpleasant look as he watches the rolling automobiles.

How long does anybody expect him to remain hungry, and see his wife and children hungry, without protest?

His theory that a man willing to work is entitled to food may not appeal to our "best minds," but for their own protection they would do well to adopt it. They may learn from Britain, Germany and France, with histories longer than ours, that empty stomachs are dangerous.

INCOME TAX authorities are still undecided about letting corporations contributing to unemployment funds deduct such contributions as "charity" from income tax. It is dangerous hesitation.

If red tape won't let corporations deduct such gifts as charity, let them deduct it as insurance, against riots and arson.

THIS IS WRITTEN on a typewriter belonging to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, whose publisher, Mr. Bitner, wishes you to know that his newspaper leads the United States in percentage of advertising gains during 1930. Now you know it.

Mr. Bitner's only important Pittsburgh competitor, Paul Block, owner of the Post-Gazette, has, according to Mr. Bitner, achieved the impossible by making a six-day morning newspaper extraordinarily profitable.

MR. BLOCK, however, made a circulation mistake in supporting the defeated Democratic candidate for governor against the successful Mr. Pinchot, recognized, even by his enemies, as absolutely honest.

You live among Republicans here. Pittsburgh has so-called "zero districts" in which no Democratic vote was ever cast.

THERE IS SOME real news today. For instance, thanks to President Hoover's official order, the unfortunate dipsomaniacs who will drink anything that brings forgetfulness, will no longer be poisoned by their own government.

Deadly poisons hereafter will not be used in denatured alcohol by United States authority.

Government chemists find—in petroleum—something that even an ostrich would not swallow. And no bootlegger's redistilling process can possibly take out its offensive taste and smell.

Perhaps it would be kindness to continue poisoning the unhappy dipsomaniac. But unfortunately, high school children have learned to drink bootleg whisky. What about them?

MR. COOLIDGE, writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, says:

"Taxes are already too high. The national grand total is about thirteen billion dollars."

He thinks a higher income tax would delay prosperity. And, indeed, it would. Already men with money are investing it in bonds that pay no tax. They ask:

"Why should I invest in a business that employs labor? If I lose, I stand all the loss, and if I make anything the government takes it away from me."

PRESIDENT HOOVER warns Congress that he will stand no financial nonsense, no playing politics with public funds in order to advertise congressional generosity. For that the President is to be thanked, especially by idle workers that want to see their jobs come back.

IN CHICAGO last night, this reporter sat beside Jimmy Ford, who looked cheerful and well but didn't say much when the Illinois manufacturers at their annual banquet gave him many

Double Execution to Pay for Murder of Road Policeman Near New Castle Year Ago

HARRISBURG, Dec. 11.—Hope for executive clemency for Mrs. Irene Schroeder, notorious gunwoman and robber, and her married sweetheart, W. Glenn Dague, faded today when Gov. John S. Fisher set the date of their execution for January 12 in the electric chair at Rockview prison.

Attorneys for the pair had announced today they would file an appeal to the State Pardon Board shortly after Christmas, and would ask Gov. Fisher for a stay of execution until the next meeting of the board, which will not be until after the inauguration of Gov.-elect Gifford Pinchot on January 20. The Pardon Board will meet on February 18.

Reports from New Castle said the pair showed no emotion when told of the Governor's action.

NEW TRIAL DENIED

After their conviction of first-degree murder in the Lawrence county courts, Irene's and Dague's attorneys appealed for a new trial which was denied. They then appealed to the Supreme Court, which upheld the decision of the trial judge, R. L. Hildebrand, in refusing a new trial.

Mrs. Schroeder and Dague were convicted in the Lawrence County courts for the murder of Corp. Brady Paul, state highway patrolman, on the New Castle-Butler road last December 27. They had held up a chain store in Butler, and news of the robbery was

COURT DELAY ASKED IN SENATE

Wagner Assails Hoover for Lack of Program to Prevent Depressions

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Postponement of consideration of the World Court issue submitted to the Senate yesterday by President Hoover until the next session a year hence was advocated today by Senator Swanson (Dem.), Virginia, a leader of the court advocates.

Meanwhile, the Senate continued its debate on relief measures with legislation to prevent future unemployment being demanded by Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York.

CRITICIZES HOOVER

Addressing the Senate, he criticized President Hoover for not presenting a permanent program for controlling the effects of slack business.

The league court announcement by Swanson, coupled with the demand of Senator Watson, the Republican leader, that the court issue not become involved in the legislative jam of the short session, was believed at the Senate to end any slight prospect still remaining for final action at this session.

The Virginian said it was "obvious" that the Senate could not reach a vote on the court in the session ending March 4. He expressed fear the interests of adherence would be jeopardized by attempting to press for a vote now.

FOES' CLAIMS

It developed today that the court foes privately claim at least 28 votes against American adherence. This total is eight more than previously counted upon by the opposition and 11 more than voted against American entry five years ago.

Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee and advocate of the court, urged a special session of the Senate after March 4 for consideration of the issue.

Senator Wagner, in his address on relief legislation, declared:

"One of the most clearly legible expressions to be found in

WIFE, GIRL, BYSTANDER WOUNDED

Man Caught After Chase Produces 'Confession,' Tells of Planning Attack

Pursued through an East Liberty store, a mother and daughter and a delivery boy were wounded today as they sought to flee from an estranged husband and father who had stopped the women in Penn avenue.

The wounded are Mrs. Margaret Zimmerman, 56, shot near the right lung and in serious condition; her daughter, Miss Ruth Zimmerman, 28, both of 112 North Negley avenue, wounded in the back, and Harry Walker, 16, 1250 Lincoln avenue, shot in the right knee. They were removed to the Pittsburgh Hospital.

WRITES 'CONFESSION'

The husband and father, James B. Zimmerman, 58, drew a six-page confession from his pocket as Patrolman George Stecht and Sanitary Officer Buck Snyder captured him after a short chase in Kirkwood street. Zimmerman told police he had planned the shooting for over a week, and last night prepared the statement.

The shooting occurred in the rear of the Hiland Stationery Company at 5923 Penn avenue. The women fled into the store after being stopped by Zimmerman on the street. As the women entered, R. J. Adler, a clerk, attempted to close the door, but Zimmerman's threats to shoot made Adler relinquish the hold.

Witnesses said Zimmerman hesitated before entering the store. According to J. E. Connelly, of 5928 Penn avenue, who with William Cavanaugh and J. E. Mack were standing across Penn avenue, Mrs. Zimmerman had entered the doorway after her husband made a move as if threatening to strike.

He said:

PURSUE MAN

"Mrs. Zimmerman dropped her umbrella. The man picked it up as if to hit her and she entered the store. Zimmerman walked about 15 feet from the store and turned around. Seeing the daughter on the sidewalk, hes tarted back, drawing a revolver from his pocket at the time. The daughter fled. Seeing

PAIR UNSHAKEN BY DEATH DATE

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 11.—Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague, told by Sheriff Frank Johnson of the Governor's action in setting the date for their electrocution, maintained a stolid indifference. They refused to comment.

Sheriff Johnson, after informing them of the Governor's action, said:

"They showed no interest."

VIOLA, W. Va., Dec. 11.—In a farmhouse where she and her son and daughter are living with relatives, Mrs. Walter Glenn Dague today received without comment the message that her husband and Irene Schroeder were to be executed January 12. She has visited her husband in jail several times and has told friends that she will stick to him until the end.

Anti-Freeze Alcohol Claims Seven Lives

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Denatured alcohol sold as an anti-freeze compound, but used as a beverage, has added two more victims to its two-day total with the deaths of Fred Robarge, 66, and his nephew, Arthur Lamogue. Seven men have succumbed to the poison since Tuesday.

PLAN NEW CURB ON COAL POLICE

HARRISBURG, Dec. 11.—Assailing the right of industry to private police of any kind, State Representative M. A. Musmanno, in an address before the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor here today, urged support of his proposed bill which will substitute property guards for the industrial police now allowed by law.

The bill which Musmanno will introduce at the coming session of the Legislature takes all police power away from the guards, permitting arrests only on company property, or while guarding payrolls in transit.

LEGISLATIVE AIMS

Four majol proposals are contained in a legislative program endorsed for presentation to the 1931 legislature at today's meeting. The proposals are:

Modifications of the coal and iron police law, greatly restricting their authority.

Two Murderers Get Christmas Freedom

HARRISBURG, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Two murderers, once condemned to die for their crimes, are to be released from their penitentiary cells by executive clemency in time to spend Chrismas with their families and relatives.

The two men, Charles E. Scherer, Pittsburgh, and Alessander de Felippis, Ellwood City, had their sentences commuted today by Gov. Fisher. After a formality before the December meeting of the State Board of Pardons next week, both will be released on parole for 10 years.

Bulkley, New Ohio Senator, Sees Hoover

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Senator-elect Robert J. Bulkley (Dem.), of Ohio, who was elected on an anti-dry platform in November, called at the White House today and saw President Hoover. He explained:

"Just paying respects."

Apple Sellers Give Children's Fund Aid

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Real charity, this is.

Unemployed men ekeing out a bare living by selling apples on street corners here have made a voluntary contribution of $5.76 to the children's emergency relief fund.

2 Lost Yukon Fliers Saved, Third Dead in Wilds

WHITE HORSE, Y. T., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Two men who wandered afoot two months in the frozen Yukon wilderness have been saved by an airplane.

Bob Marten, of Wrangell, Alaska, a prospector, and Emil Kading, an airplane mechanic, yesterday were brought to White Horse from the wilds where their pilot, E. J. A. Burke, died of exposure after their plane became disabled.

Their rescue was effected by Everett Wasson, pilot, and Joe Walsh, a prospector, who sighted their signal fire last Saturday, after repeated flights over the site of their camp. They were 40 miles from their plane.

Burke and his companions left Liard Post October 11 to fly back to Atlin, B. C., after delivering some sluice boxes.

Marten and Kading said they flew into a snowstorm and turned back, hoping to reach Wolfe Lake, but were forced to land on the Liard River. The pontoons of the plane struck a rock and were damaged. They camped near the spot for six days then set out for Wolfe Lake on foot.

Wasson plans to make another flight to bring Burke's body out.

PLAN MEETING ON TOWN HALL

Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong of the County Commissioners today said a special meeting of the board would be called to consider the Town Hall project. The subject was too important, he asserted, to be considered at today's regular session. The date for the meeting was expected to be fixed today.

At Harrisburg yesterday Commissioner C. C. McGovern, who has been spending several days at Washington for the Rivers and Harbors conference on the Lake Erie-Ohio River canal project, and at Milford and Harrisburg with Gov.-elect Gifford Pinchot, declared:

"I am ready to vote on the town hall. I want it built for $1,000,000 and to seat 12,000 persons, as a part of the Logan Armory. The state will maintain such a building. If the other commissioners don't want it there I will vote for a downtown location. I am ready to do my part. I would like to see the job started so that a lot of men can get back at work."

Commissioner E. V. Babcock, at his home this morning, said:

"I am ready to sit in conference on the Town Hall any time."

He did not say he was ready to vote on the site.

Judge Ford's Rites Will Be Held Today

Funeral services were to be held this afternoon for Judge Thomas J. Ford at the family residence, in Delafield road, Aspinwall. Judge Ford died Monday in his home after a long illness that forced him to retire last August after many years' service in Common Pleas Court. Burial will be private tomorrow morning in Greenwood Cemetery, near Sharpsburg.

Army and Navy Contest Great Between Halves

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

The Army-Navy game will gross a million for the unemployed.

Seats will be as high as fifty dollars each. And you can't sit in a stranger's lap.

Wish Tom Mix was East. Tom always had to buy an extra seat for his hat.

The Army-Navy game is the season's greatest contest between halves.

Rothenberg Grilled By Park Over Rum

District Attorney Andrew T. Park was expected to make a statement today regarding the alleged failure of a Hill district bootlegging case to reach his office after the defendant had been held for court by Magistrate Lee Rothenberg in Center Avenue Police Court. Rothenberg was grilled for an hour late yesterday by Park and two of his assistants Roy T. Clunk and George F. P. Langfitt. He also brought dockets and records, which were scanned by the prosecutor.

Pavlowa Returning For Long U. S. Tour

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—After a six-year absence abroad, Anna Pavlowa is coming back to dance before American audiences. Her manager, George Engles, received a cablegram from London completing arrangements for a tour through 75 American cities, opening in New York in October.

Pavlowa will be accompanied by her own troupe. It includes Escudero, Spanish dancer, who was formerly La Argentina's partner in Paris.

WALL EXPOSED, SCHOOL CLOSED

Classes in Grant Public school, Grant avenue, Bellevue were dismissed today as excavators bared one of the foundation walls preparatory to constructing an addition to the building.

The dismissal was a precautionary measure taken when it was suggested that buildings have collapsed under similar circumstances. It was not believed however that there was any danger of a collapse.

Bracing was being placed and classes would be resumed tomorrow Principal Agness B. Dickson announced.

Income Tax Change Asked by Mellon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today asked Congress to enact a law permitting corporations to deduct contributions to charity from their income tax returns. The proposed law would be effective on returns from July 1, 1930 to June 30, 1931.

After receiving Mellon's request, Representative Hawley (Rep.), of Oregon, introduced a bill to carry it out.

Tangarine Replaces N. Y. Jobless' Apple

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—The beauties of the tangarine were extolled in New York today. Hundreds of jobless men, estimated to have sold 20,000,000 apples in six weeks, today turned to the tangarine as the public's taste for apples waned. The tangarines are sold two for a nickel, and the profit per box is $2.35.

Leviathan's Skipper Becomes Landlubber

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—The commander of the Leviathan, Commodore Harold A. Cunningham, has resigned to take a job on land where he can be near his wife and children, it was announced today by the United States Lines.

Hoover Grandchildren Talk to Santa on 'Mike'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Peggy Ann and Herbert Hoover III, grandchildren of the President and Mrs. Hoover, delivered their message to Santa Claus today via the microphone of the Sound Newsreel.

Although Peggy Ann is only a trifle over 4 and Herbert has not yet attained the ripe old age of 3, they were forced to bow to public demand and posed at length for pictures in the south grounds of the White House this morning. They took advtange of the occasion to get a couple of good licks against Christmas.

Herbert, it developed, has a definite ambition in life. He wants to be a policeman just like one of those he has seen since coming to the Executive Mansion last Sunday to join his grandparents. He wants a complete uniform, including badge and stick, but neglected to ask for the gun and blackjack.

Peggy Ann put in a bid for a doll—"Avery big one." Then remembered it might get lonely by itself, she asked modestly for some smaller ones. She also wants a wagon. Herbert said he might like a wagon, too.

The two children, with their mother, Mrs. Peggy Hoover, and their grandmother, posed for the camera men. Peggy Ann and Herbert made their initial appearance on tricycles.

Their little Sister Joan, only six months old failed to get in the picture and Santa Claus will have to gues what she wants.

KING NAMED SECRETARY OF REVENUE IN PINCHOT CABINET

MANSFIELD BOOMED FOR DAIX JOB

Governor-Elect's Forces Back Allegheny County Man For President Pro Tem

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Gov.-elect Gifford Pinchot today announced that Dr. Clyde L. King, former secretary of the commonwealth, would be the secretary of revenue in his cabinet.

Mr. Pinchot also announced that William A. Schnader, now attorney general, would continue in that post, and that former Attorney General George W. Woodruff would be special counsel "in public utility regulation."

STAHLNECKER SLATED

P. S. Stahlnecker will be secretary to the Governor. Mr. Stahlnecker is now secretary to Mr. Pinchot and held the position of secretary to the governor in the first Pinchot administration.

Pinchot is expected to make some announcement here today or tomorrow regarding his effort to prevent State Senator Augustus F. Daix, Jr., of Philadelphia, from being re-elected president pro tem of the Senate when the legislature convenes in January.

MANSFIELD BACKED

Senator William D. Mansfield, McKeesport, one of the Allegheny County members, was considered by many the candidate of the Pinchot forces for president pro tem as the Governor-Elect arrived in this city from Pottsville.

After two days of conferences with up-state senators in Harrisburg, Mr. Pinchot, it was reported at the capitol, is not satisfied over prospects of defeating Senator Daix, as many members informed him they are pledged to vote for the Philadelphian in the Republican senatorial caucus January 5.

At the same time, Augustus F. Daix, III, son of the senator, declares the latter will remain in the race and is confident of winning. The younger Daix said:

"We know Gov.-Elect Pinchot is supporting Senator Mansfield, but my father will fight to the end. We have made a thorough canvass of the Senate members."

Woman Slain, Man Calls Police, Gives Up

HARRISBURG, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Joe Hill, 27, Negro, was held by police here today in connection with the fatal shooting of Ethel James, also a Negro. Last night police received a call from an asphalt plant stating that a man had shot a woman and that he would surrender if police came. Police arrested Hill, who, they said, confessed the shooting.

TO THE RESCUE — By Quin Hall

the revolver, we sought to reach the door before Zimmerman entered.

"Snyder was with us and started through the store after Zimmerman. We ran around Whitfield street to capture Zimmerman if he came out the rear. Snyder had reached him first."

Joseph Waddle, of 414 Paulson avenue, told the same story.

Jacob Dingle, of 305 Collins street, Millvale, a shipper, attempted to fell Zimmerman with a box as the man fled from the store. Other eye-witnesses to the shooting in the store were Gabriel Butkay, of 32 Sharon street, Mt. Oliver, and James Harrison, 502 North Highland avenue.

Homicide Detectives Pat Scott and Frank Dodson, questioning the daughter at the hospital, were told:

"We were walking in Penn avenue. Mother was suddenly grabbed by the arm. She screamed and ran for the store and I followed, running past customers and clerks to the rear of the building.

TELLS OF THREATS

"My father had not lived at home for four weeks because of domestic trouble. He would not work and was irritable. He had made threats to catch mother some time ago."

Zimmerman, removed to the hospital for scalp laceration treatment, was identified by his daughter, Walker, who is the wage earner for his mother and grandmother, was wounded as Zimmerman opened fire upon the women. As Zimmerman started to flee from the shipping room, Dingle struck him over the head with a box.

Zimmerman was formerly an elevator operator in the Highland Building.

BLAMES FAMILY

Closing his confession with the signature "respectfully," Zimmerman had detailed marital troubles he blamed for the shooting. Placing the blame on his wife and daughters, a second girl being Miss Emily Zimmerman, 21, Zimmerman wrote in part:

"I loved them at all times, and still love them, but as they turned against me, I said I would put an end to it all. Now this is a warning to others when you have a husband that is true and always done his best to make things go at home only treat him as a man should be treated.

"The only trouble as I see it is, I was not working and bringing in any money. Wife and daughter broke my heart so I must break theirs now this way. I am not crazy. I have played the races. They said I gambled. But as I won they got the money, looking for all. I am getting up in years and am injured. I am turned down on jobs as I am too old."

FAVORS POWER RATE CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—George Otis Smith, now director of the Geological Survey, appointed by President Hoover to be chairman of the new Federal Power Commission, told a Senate committee today he favors government regulation of interstate power, and by inference, voiced opposition to a recent ruling by Attorney General Mitchell.

Mitchell issued an opinion September 22 to the effect the Appalachian Power Company might be given "minor license" to operate a power project on the New River in Virginia. Such a license would not require the company to file the costs of its construction with the Power Commission, which is required of all power companies by the Federal Water Power Act.

Since then the Clarion Power Company, Johnstown, Pa., has instituted an injunction suit in District of Columbia Supreme Court to prvent the old Power Commission from "holding hearings or otherwise determining" its construction cost.

STATE CLOSES N. Y. BANK

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Joseph A. Broderick, state superintendent of banks, today took possession of the Bank of United States, a New York institution, operating in New York City, with 58 branches scattered throughout Greater New York.

A statement of September 24, 1930, gave the resources of the bank as $254,043,942, with deposits of $202,972,469.

Supt. Broderick announced that he had been informed that clearing house member banks will render assistance in the form of loans against the net claims of the depositors to the extent of 50 per cent of all claims properly authenticated.

Leading bank officials of the city had been in conference practically all night. Acting Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who had come here from Albany, joined the conference early today. Representatives of the Federal Reserve Bank also took part in the sessions.

First Finger-Snapping Jazz Opera 'Hit' for Mary

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Grand opera trimmed with jazz made its appearance in Chicago last night with the world premier of "Camille." The Chicago Civic Opera was the scene of this unusual spectacle. The audience gave approval in a warm, but somewhat reserved manner.

It was an old story, dressed up in modern clothes and manners, adapted from the novel and play by Alexander Dumas, the younger, and set to music by Hamilton Forrest, 28-year-old Chicagoan and former office boy, who said he hoped it would be the forerunner of a series of truly American operas.

The "jazz opera," sung in French, was modern in every respect, from the slang of some of its lines to the telephone on Marguerite's table. Its music at times was the variety that called for and got an accompaniment of finger-snapping.

Mary Garden, making her first appearance of the season as Marguerite, "The Lady of the Camellias," responded to 20 curtain calls.

The modernistic note which drew murmurs from an audience accustomed to seeing the somber staid works of the older composers, reached its height in the second act with a cocktail party in the apartments of the courtesan Marguerite. Lifted to a table, she sings a modern, rhythmic melody to the delight of her swaying finger-snapping admirers.

Root in Capital Over League Court

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Elihu Root, former secretary of state, who negotiated with League Court powers a revision of the Senate's reservations, was in the capital today. He had a long conference with Secretary of State Stimson, and later lunched at the White House.

156-Year-Old Turk Joins Musical Show

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Zaro Agha, the Turk whose passport indicates he is 156 years old, has abandoned, temporarily at least the business of appearing before medical societies. He is going to play the part of a Sultan in a musical show, it was announced today.

LOVE LETTERS OF SHEPARD REVEALED

Former Sweetheart Witness Against Army Officer on Trial for Wife's Murder

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Some of the love letters Miss Grace Brandon, young San Antonio stenographer, sent Maj. Charles A. Shepard, 59, were made public today by defense counsel as Miss Brandon testified against her former Army sweetheart at his Federal Court trial for the alleged poison murder of his second wife.

The defense announced the letters would be introduced in the trial.

The letters released today, dated between January 1 and March 1, 1930, contain expressions of ardent love, itemized garage bills on the motor car Shepard bought for her on time payments, and reiterations of undying affection.

CAR EXPENSES LISTED

A letter of March 1, 1930, lists expenses totaling $20.81 for operation of the car, and adds:

"Running a car surely costs a lot, doesn't it dear?"

Further on its says:

"Certainly, darling, all my love will always be with you! Yes, dear, surely wish you could have been here on my birthday to share my happiness over the lovely presents you sent; everything is lovely, dearest. No, I did not let anyone take me in their arms the evening of my birthday, dear, but several said I looked irresitible and that they would love to hold me in their arms, but no one can do that except you, dear."

The witness said Shepard had mentioned his "unhappy home life" a number of times.

TELLS OF TRIP TO MEXICO

Miss Brandon told of a trip to Laredo, Tex., with Shepard and another couple. They crossed the Mexican border and had several small glasses of wine at a bar, she said.

Asked what words of affection the army officer used, the witness replied:

"I don't remember exactly; he told me he loved me and had never met any one just like me."

She was on the verge of tears as she described gifts the major had given her, but regained her aplomb.

In July, 1929, shortly after his wife's death, Shephard visited her in San Antonio and asked her to wed him secretly, she testified. She said she told him, however, she would not marry him for a year or a year and a half because she did not want a scandal from marriage right after Mrs. Shepard's death.

Big Oklahoma Gas Gusher Controlled

WEWOKA, Okla., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The huge gas flow of the Deeprock No. 1 Douglas in the Wewoka townsite pool was under control today. Spewing forth 60,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day, the well was shut in late yesterday after running wild several days.

flashed over the police teletype. Paul and Pvt. Ernest Moore were on the lookout.

FOUR IN SUSPECTED AUTO

They stopped the bandit machine in the road between Portersville and New Castle and saw a blonde woman, two men and a child. One of the men was Dague.

The other is supposed to have been Mrs. Schroeder's brother, Tom Crawford. The child was the woman's son, Donnie Schroeder, 4.

CHILD TELLS OF KILLING

Donnie a few days later gave the first real clue to the identity of the killers when he told of his mother and Dague shooting a policeman.

A hunt that extended to Arizona culminated in the capture of Mrs. Schroeder and Dague in the desert near Phoenix. Previously they had engaged a sheriff's posse in a gun fight at Florence, Ariz., after robbing a gas station. Deputy-sheriff Lee Wright later died from his wounds. Dague was shot in the leg in this encounter.

Requisition papers returning the pair to Pennsylvania for trial were signed by Gov. Fisher on January 17, and approved by the Arizona governor.

CLEMENCY PLEA GROUNDS

Attorney Benjamin Jarrett, of Sharon, and Attorney Thomas W. Dickey, of New Castle, were defense counsel at the trial.

Among the reasons for clemency to be submitted, Attorney Jarrett said today, will be Irene's sex, that she is a young woman, and her environment in youth, and home life conditions at the time she reached womanhood were not good, and the plea that "she never had a chance."

The plea of Dague, whom Attorney Jarrett characterized as a "susceptible male," was to be based on the fact that he was influenced by the woman.

These and allegations of doubt as to who fired the shot which killed Corp. Brady Paul will form the basis of the appeal.

Stressing the allegation of doubt as to who fired the fatal shot is expected to bring in the names of Crawford, alleged companion of the pair, never apprehended, and Pvt. Moore, whose testimony was that while dazed from a wound he fired one shot during the shooting on the New Castle road.

$60,000 Estate Left To Widow, Five Sons

David Weir, late of Bascom street, in his will filed today for probate, left one-half of his $60,000 estate to his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Weir. The residue goes to his five sons for their maintenance and education and they are to receive the principal when the youngest becomes of age.

AMEN CORNER CASE TO JURY

The case of Harry Dipple, of Millvale, and Fred M. Drum, of Roup street, on trial for possession of the high-powered beer seized at the Amen Corner picnic, July 16, reached the jury today.

Both denied they were employed by or were members of the organization. Each testified he had purchased a ticket for admittance. Dipple said he had gone behind the improvised bar to draw his own brew, and added that he might have served a drink or two to a fellow picnicker.

Drum denied that he was behind the bar when the agents arrived. He said that Harold (Three Gun) Wilson, deputy prohibition administrator then, himself had pushed him behind the barrier. Councilman Harry Little was a character witness for Drum.

None of the elite of business, professional and political affairs who attended the outing were mentioned at the trial. The alcoholic content of the seized brew was admitted by the defense, and the government did not offer proof.

The trial started late yesterday afternoon. Prohibition Agents F. M. Hohman and W. S. Geis, first witnesses called by the government, testified seeing the two defendants behind an improvised bar, at which two half barrels of beer were on tap.

Hohman said he drank several glasses of beer, which, he testified, had been drawn by Dipple. The two witnesses said they entered the picnic grounds after buying admission tickets at $2.50 each.

TAXES SET, WORK ON BUDGET

Council Ready to Act on Kline Estimates for Running City in 1931

With a tax cut of ½ mill decided upon, Council will begin actual work Monday on the budget submitted December 1 by Mayor Charles H. Kline.

The levy for next year, unanimously approved by Council yesterday, will be $25.50 per $1,000 valuation on land, and $12.75 per $1,000 valuation on buildings.

The current tax rate is $26 per $1,000 on land and $13 per $1,000 on buildings, the law requiring that the building rate be one-half the levy on land.

CUT NEXT YEAR SEEN

The budget does not include provision for 310 additional patrolmen declared by Public Safety Director Clark necessary to properly police the city but does provide for 50 additional patrolmen during 1931.

According to opinions expressed in the City-County Building, another small cut will be possible next year unless unforeseen emergencies arise, and if proper economy is exercised in all governmental departments. The financial situation, according to a report given Council by Controller J. P. Kerr, is better than anticipated several months ago, when real estate owners began to worry about a tax increase.

This report, in which the December receipts and expenditures are estimated, indicates that the end of the year will find the city with about $95,816 free cash instead of a deficit.

KERR'S ESTIMATE

Dr. Kerr reached this figure as follows:

Total receipts (December, including delinquent) estimated	$28,573,942
Total expenditures (included $371,000 for which the city is obligated, but which has not yet been appropriated)	$28,428,126
Balance	$ 95,816

DEPOSIT BOND HELPS

Three factors contributed to the tax decrease. They were:

1. Passage of an ordinance suggested by City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, requiring banks to put up bonds to safeguard city deposits, which released $500,000 of city funds held for insurance purposes.

2. An increase of approximately $13,300,000 in property valuations, most of it on buildings and a considerable part in the Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-ninth and Thirty-second wards.

3. The manner in which collections held up in spite of the depression, aided by the campaign of the city treasurer to collect delinquent water rents and other back taxes. The collections for next year are expected to show an increase over 1930.

RELIEF LARGE ITEM

One of the chief emergencies likely to trouble Council is the amount that will be needed to care for relief, especially during the winter months. The city's relief work, except the placing of additional laborers as jobs are made ready by the engineers, has been held up until a complete check is made of the amount expended to date. One hundred thousand dollars appropriated for the purpose is nearly expended.

The tax cut was approved unanimously yesterday by the Finance Committee of Council, on motion of Robert J. Alderdice, seconded by George Kambach. Absentees were W. Y. English, called out of the city on business, and C. B. Connelley. Both are said to know of the action and to concur.

Trial Heightens Distrust Of Soviet, Coolidge Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

Nothing has occurred for some time so completely demonstrating the weakened moral position which the present regime in Russia holds in the public estimation of the world as the recent treason trial in that distressed country. The significant point of the whole transaction is the almost universal expression that no one knows what to believe about it. To such an extent has confidence in the good faith of the Soviet officials been weakened. Whether such suspicion of them is justified or not, it is apparent that it exists.

Calvin Coolidge

Human relationships that are of any value rest on faith and confidence. When those disappear, the whole fabric of governmental, social and business intercourse disappears with them. At times the Russians are no doubt right in feeling that they are misrepresented but in the treason trial such is not the case. The impression is of their own making. Whatever may be the effect at home it has revealed and aggravated the distrust abroad. In spite of the desire of humanity because of past friendships or present relations to help the Russian people, this spectacle has increased the feeling be bewildered hopelessness in nearly every quarter of the world.

EINSTEIN ARRIVES ASKING U. S. TO END WAR

Death Car Driver Gets Maximum 3 Year Sentence and $1,000 Fine

SENDS PEACE MESSAGE BY AIR

Smilingly Surrenders to Reporters and Answers Many Foolish Questions

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Prof. Albert Einstein, the world's foremost mathematician, ran into a new experience of "time, movement and space" when he arrived here today aboard the Red Star liner Belgenland.

The brilliant German scientist, perfectly at home with the mysteries of the universe, but shy and baffled in the presence of reporters, was pursued from one end of the liner to the other by newsmen and photographers.

WON'T DISCUSS THEORIES

With a merry twinkle in his large brown eyes, Prof. Einstein wittily parried attempts by reporters to get him to expound his complicated theory of relativity in a few simple words. He was asked:

"Can you explain your theory simply for the masses of America?"

Running his fingers through his shock of greying hair, he answered:

"No. It would take me three days to do it."

Einstein gave to the American people by radio a simple, forceful message pleading for an end to militarism.

A MESSAGE IN GERMAN

From the drawing-room of the liner Belgenland he spoke in German:

"Kill the monster of militarism. Your political and economic position today is such that you can entirely destroy militarism whenever you set your hand to it."

The physicist's wife translated his address.

The German mathematical wizard, whose trip to the United States is being made for the purpose of comparing his relativity data with that of a few American scientists who have been able to grasp and work upon his vaulting theories of the universe and its unfathomable structure, is on his way to Pasadena, Cal.

WIFE AT HIS SIDE

As the liner came up the bay his devoted wife sat beside him, her arms about his shoulders. The army of newspapermen and photographers pressed around and a babble of questions were fired at him.

Prof. Einstein took the ordeal which he had feared so much in good spirits, and his first comment was a humorous observation on the reception accorded him.

FRIENDS VISIT THOMPSON IN JAIL

Prison Rules Not Effective In Financier's Comfortable Rooms in Warden's Home

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 11.—The change of J. V. Thompson's address has altered but little his living conditions.

Of course, the costly tapestries and magnificest pictures which adorn the walls of his mansion are missing in the jail quarters he is occupying as a result of his contempt of court sentence. But he has a soft downy bed and large, well-lighted and airy rooms. He also has the privileges of the residence of County Warden William Wilson and can receive visitors at any time.

Prison rules do not apply to Thompson's "cell" in the northwest corner of the warden's residence. There are no visiting hours. His friends come and go as they see fit.

USE FRONT DOOR

Notwithstanding that Warden Wilson so far declines to affirm or deny that the former coal king is housed in his residence in the jail, where the windows have lace curtains and blinds instead of bars, close friends and associates have used the front door of the residence to visit Thompson.

A number of persons who called on the aged financier yesterday found him little affected over the change of his address from "Oak Hill, National Pike West" to "Warden Wilson's residence, Court and Peter streets."

Investigators have been unable to find any official commitment for Thompson for the offenses resulting in his incarceration, the mismanagement of the Messmore and Niccolls estates, so far as the records show he has not been legally committed.

Prominent local men who furnished a $25,000 bond for Thompson following his arrest in Altoona, more than a year ago, have been released from further responsibility.

FREEDOM MOVE SEEN

Rumors of an appeal to a higher court are current, but this is denied by counsel for Thompson. However, it is believed a new legal fight will be made within a few days to have him released.

If an appeal is taken it probably would act as a stay of sentence, and Thompson's release follow. However, Thompson is being advised to allow the sentence to take its course, after which he would bear no further criminal liability, although he would remain responsible through civil action for the collection about his obligations of $350,000 to the estates of Emma Messmore and John Niccolls.

JURY CLEARS ON MURDER CHARGE

Kubiszewski, Whose Machine Killed Boy, Then Pleads Guilty of Manslaughter

After being found not guilty on a murder charge in Criminal Court today, Frank Kubiszewski, 35, of Niagara street, whose automobile struck and killed one boy and injured four others in Lawn street last July, pleaded guilty immediately of involuntary manslaughter. He was given the maximum penalty, three years in the workhouse and $1,000 fine.

Sentence was imposed by Judge George V. Moore.

JURY OUT ALL NIGHT

A jury of nine men and three women, after deliberating all night, returned a verdict of acquittal for Kubiszewski on the murder charge at the opening of court this morning. A directed verdict of acquittal also was returned for John Nowak, passenger in Kubiszewski's car when it ran down and killed William Harris, 5, of Lawn street, near his home, July 28.

When the jury's verdict was read Kubiszewski pleaded guilty to the lesser charge.

Judge Moore in imposing sentence said:

"In this case I believe the statute is inadequate. A verdict of second degree murder would have been justified. We will give him the full extent of the law."

FACES ADDITIONAL CHARGES

Additional charges of aggravated assault and battery and driving while intoxicated will be made against Kubiszewski, as a result of injuries suffered by four other boys, Haggerty indicated.

Nowak, cleared of murder, will be placed on trial soon on charge of involuntary manslaughter, Haggerty announced. Nowak also faces four charges of aggravated assault and battery, preferred by police after the verdict for Nowak's acquittal had been ordered by the court.

CABINET OFFER MADE TO STEEG

PARIS, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Senator Theodore Steeg, radical Socialist and former governor of Morocco, accepted "in principle" today the request of President Gaston Doumergue that he form a new government to succeed the fallen Andre Tardieu ministry.

M. Steeg promised to give a definite answer this evening.

His selection was the third attempt by President Doumergue to secure a premier. The executive's previous two premier-designates, Senators Louis Barthou and Pierre Laval, both abandoned their attempts to set up ministries after a long and bitter struggle when the split political factions indicated that reconciliation under prevailing circumstances was hopeless.

Bank Treasurer Kills Self in Office

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The body of James M. Warren, 40, treasurer of the West Springfield Trust Company, was found in the banking rooms early today and the medical examiner pronounced the case one of suicide. No motive has yet been ascribed for the act. The bank examiner visited the bank a week ago, it was said, and found all accounts in order.

ROCKEFELLER'S TAX LEVY CUT

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has won tax reductions totaling $100,000 on his North Tarrytown estate by action of the town Board of Trustees.

The Rockefeller assessment was about $700,000 and the oil millionaire protested the levy on about 65 pieces of property whose value was $150,000.

The leading citizen of North Tarrytown was expected to be content with the ruling, board members said. The 1931 assessment roll will approximate $18,440,000.

RIPLEY'S VISIT DELAYED

Robert L. Ripley, creator of "Believe It Or Not," scheduled to appear at the Warner Theater in person tonight, has been unavoidably detained because of an engagement in Detroit, and will not be able to appear here until Friday night, according to a telegram received from him today.

Mr. Ripley was originally detained in Chicago, and was consequently delayed in keeping his engagement in Detroit. He said, however, that he will be in Pittsburgh tomorrow to fulfill his engagement at the Warner Theater.

According to his present plans, he will leave Detroit late today, arriving here tomorrow.

Report Many Hurt In Turkish Quake

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—A violent earthquake was felt yesterday at 11 a. m. at Erzindjan, Northeast Turkey. Hundreds of persons were injured and many buildings, including the governor's mansion and telegraph office, were destroyed.

Broken telegraph lines held back advices and details are still lacking. The town of Kemah also was shaken.

DEBUT DELAYS PLOT TRIAL

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Miss Marion Wright made her debut in society last night and will be "too tired" to make another debut—in court—today as a prosecuting witness against William Kuhn, 23-year-old broker's clerk, charged with attempting to extort $25,000 from the debutante under threat of death.

Judge John H. Lyle, on learning of the girl's debut, continued the case when Kuhn was arraigned.

"Why, you'll be too tired to come to court tomorrow," the judge told Miss Wright.

Kuhn is charged with sending threatening notes to Miss Wright, one of which described death from a poisonous dart, capable of hitting its mark at 3,000 feet.

Kuhn is under $7,500 bond.

GARAGE HOLDUP SUSPECTS HELD

The holdup a week ago of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach garage, on the North Side, was believed cleared by detectives today when three suspects were identified by eight of the 11 victims as the participants, according to detectives.

The three were docketed as Antonio Aquaviva, 26, of Akron; Frank Teresi, 32, and Henry Rapoli, 28, both of Ridge avenue.

The victims of the robbery were bound with wire while the thugs looted the safe.

The first clue in the holdup came after the shooting Friday night of two men in a restaurant in West Ohio street, detectives said. One of the victims, Jerome King, wounded in the leg, will be questioned in the robbery, according to the sleuths. A fifth, who gave his name as Walter Cole, was said to have been partly identified as one of the bandits. King is in the Allegheny General Hospital.

NATION'S DRYS LAY PLANS FOR 1932

Mrs. Ella A. Boole Heads Strategy Board; 'Bad Egg, Garlic' Denaturant O. K.'d

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—A fresh alignment of the dry organizations' general staff was ready today to take over planning of strategy for the 1932 presidential campaigns.

The National Association of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment concluded its annual session last night by appointing a combined committee on unified strategy, containing a dozen leaders drawn from the 35 groups which compose the association. At the head of them was Mrs. Ella A. Boole, of the W. C. T. U.

The organization aligned itself with other dry groups in refusing flatly to give support to a national prohibition referendum.

WOODCOCK'S PLEA

The association had heard an appeal by Prohibition Director Woodcock for co-operation in suppressing through education the non-commercial violations of the prohibition law.

The association also indorsed all appropriation bills touching on enforcement, the Wickersham bills for relief of court congestion and the new "spoiled egg and garlic" denaturant which is to replace poisons in commercial alcohol under plans announced yesterday by Dr. James M. Doran.

Resolutions proposing a system of government controlled dispensaries to handle liquor were adopted today by the national constitutional convention for the solution of the prohibition question.

Dr. F. W. Buck, executive secretary of the Federal dispensary Tax Reduction League, said the resolution was an answer to the demand by prohibitionists that some solution of the liquor problem be offered before the opponents continued their campaign against the Volstead Act.

The resolution said that the liquor laws should be immediately amended to "permit the manufacture, transporation and sale of wines and beers of an alcoholic extent not intoxicating in fact." Dispensaries would not be established in states where laws against the sale of liquor remain in force and not more than one would be placed in towns of less than 50,000.

The convention adjourned today.

Elimination of Bids On U. S. Work Asked

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Assistant Secretary Heath, of the Treasury, advocated today removal of competitive bidding restrictions as a means of speeding the $490,000,000 federal construction program to completion by 1935.

Testifying before the House Buildings Committee, he asked that legislation be approved to permit Secretary Mellon to select contractors without competition and at such fees and lump sum prices as he directs. He said that would enable completion of the program three years earlier than originally contemplated.

Capt. Saul Engaged To U. S. Society Girl

DUBLIN, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—While Air Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith and his bride were honeymooning in Australia, following their marriage at Melbourne yesterday, announcement was made that his navigator on the trans-Atlantic flight, Capt. TOUR WINNER OFF TO PARIS

Miss Anna Nydes, the new "Miss Pittsburgh," who won the de luxe tour to Paris in the contest recently conducted by the Sun-Telegraph, left for New York last night on the Iron City Express. She was given a happy farewell at the Pennsylvania Station by scores of friends and relatives.

Miss Nydes will be gone for nearly a month. She sails for Paris on the French liner Ile de France tomorrow night from Pier 57, North River, foot of Fifteenth street. She will return on the same liner, sailing from Havre December 31. Today and tomorrow she is sightseeing in New York with 25 other girls as the guests of Gloria Swanson.

The five girls who won the free trip to Bermuda in the same contest will leave Pittsburgh next Thursday night, sailing for Bermuda the following day.

Berlin Lifts Ban On Christmas Pots

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Salvation Army Christmas pots, which were barred from the streets of Berlin by police order November 28, will tinkle with Yuletide coins after all.

The police president reconsidered his decision and gave permission for the pots to be placed at 25 points on condition that all money collected be spent on the army's Christmas treat to the poor.

Capitol Library Adds 22 Books Each Hour

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—The Congressional Library, one of the world's greatest, added 22 books for every hour of last year with some thrown in for good measure, Librarian Putnam reported in his annual report today. The increase was 196,632 volumes, bringing the total to 4,103,900.

GIRL ACCUSED IN HOLDUP

Confronted by evidence told in confidence to a woman who had shielded her after she alleged she had been kidnaped Sunday night, Anna Selmek, 18, of Tarentum, today admitted, borough police and county detectives said, that she had put Stephen Bayza, of Springdale, her escort, who was beaten, "on the spot." Police are holding Clarence Howard, 35, brother-in-law of the Selmek girl's sister.

Questioned closely for hours following her arrest Tuesday, authorities were unable to shake the girl's story until Sergt. William Hazlett, of Tarentum police, received a call to 410 West Eighth avenue, Tarentum, last night. There a woman, believed dying, told of the alleged plot to "frame" Bayza. Howard's arrest followed.

The pair admitted, according to police, that they planned to rob Bayza, but Howard became frightened when Bayza screamed after being struck over the head with a cigar lighter. The girl and the man fled in Bayza's car without searching him for money, according to their account, police said.

SENATE ASKED TO SIDETRACK COURT

the election returns is widespread public disapproval of the administration's method or rather of method of dealing with unemployment."

The New York senator quoted the President as saying in his annual message, "It is yet too soon to constructively formulate" permanent legislation and said "this plea for delay is but an apology for previous inaction."

He declared:

"We opened this session under the happy auspices of promised co-operation between the two sides of this chamber and between the legislature and the executive.

"To me that meant joint effort in making a lasting contribution to the overshadowing problem of our generation. It did not occur to me that it might mean acquiescence in a policy of further delay and inaction."

Wagner said he was not opposed to the relief measure now pending. He added:

"But I plead for a better way in the future. A place on the bread line is, after all, an unkind and ungenerous reward to the workmen who have made our country."

He urged the enactment of his bills to prevent unemployment, which passed the Senate last session.

DEBATE RELIEF BILL

When Wagner completed his speech, the Senate resumed debate on the $110,000,000 unemployment relief bill.

Senator Couzens (Rep.), Michigan, said:

"There have been a great many crocodile tears shed for the miseries caused by unemployment, but little effort is made by either state or federal governments to aid the unemployed."

Couzens proposed an amendmetn to require the employment of "local labor" on the building projects authorized by the bill.

He said government contractors were shipping labor from one community to another when local labor was available and sometimes providing tents for them to sleep in.

During discussion of relief legislation in the House, Representative La Guardia (Rep.), New York, said he had heard the Census Bureau planned a new unemployment survey early in January. He asserted:

"Any study should not only include a tabulation of those out of work, but part-time employed, and those given jobs on artificially created work."

CONFIRMS STATEMENT

A short time later Director Steuart, of the Census Bureau, confirmed La Guardia's statement.

Democratic spokesmen in the House demanded an explanation for the agriculture committee failing to act on the Senate's $60,000,000 drought loan bill, and were told it was being deferred pending conferences of Republican committee members.

Representative Tilson, the Republican leader, said he hoped the committee could act in time for a House vote on Saturday.

The House committee has approved a bill carrying $30,000,000 for loans for seed, feed and fertilizer loans.

The Senate approved a measure providing $60,000,000 with the added provision the loans could be used to buy food for the farmers and their families.

This is vigorously opposed by the administration, which requested a loan fund of $25,000,000.

compliments and a gold medal. In fact, Mr. Ford did not say anything. His specialty is automobiles, not speeches.

THE ILLINOIS Manufacturers' Association, with 3,000 members, employs 18,000 executives, 800,000 employes and pays one billion dollars in salaries and wages every year. That's a big organization.

It manufactures five billion dollars worth of products, uses each year two billion dollars worth of raw materials, in Cook County alone, and tells you that is $100,000,000 more, in raw materials, than New York County uses, surpassing any county in the United States.

CHICAGO LIKES to surpass New York in as many things as possible while awaiting to take first place in population.

It probably will do that. For when airships take the place of surface ships, Chicago will be the greatest air harbor, east of the Rocky Mountains, unless the honor should go to New Orleans, Miami or Galveston.

THE SENATE, asked to push us into the League of Nations' back door, through the World Court, is assured that amendments and reservations arranged by the great lawyer, Elihu Root, will give the United States all the protection that it needs. The confession that we should need protection is enlightening.

JUST ONE reservation would answer every purpose. It should read:

"You nations of Europe kindly attend to your business, with your league and your courts, while we attend to our business with our Constitution and our Supreme Court. They have worked satisfactorily hitherto."

Great Game Between Halves

—By Arthur "Bugs" Baer—

makes a dignified march across the field between halves.

He does that to get on the winning side.

Of course, if he has guessed right the first half, he stays where he is.

Generally, it's a tough contest. When they read the list of injured, unconscious and battered players you realize it is the biggest social event of the season.

Fifty dollars is a lot of money. But we'll go. Like the war in 1918, this game is a place where a young man must be seen.

Over 6,500,000 Christmas trees are on their way to our homes.

This is forest preservation. In January you can find any forest you want in a back alley.

When you think of 6,500,000 Christmas trees you are thinking of plenty of salad.

They are firs and spruces. All of them were slapped in the face up in New England.

Think of 6,500,000 trees and then think that a New England farmer will fill you full of BB pebbles in July for pulling up a blackberry twig.

You also get arrested for walking on the lawn in the public park. You cannot pick a flower on a government reservation and one sprig of parsley is enough for a sirloin steak.

Up in New Hampshire they explain that the cutting is not destructive. When you chop down a spruce you furnish room for two more spruces to grow.

Thereby increasing the number of tree sitters.

That's why we hate to see 6,500,000 trees crashed in a lump.

To a tree sitter, that's almost like breaking up the parlor furniture. We like to leap from bough to bough in our native habitat, uttering the quaint cries of our species.

It may be all right.

Explanation sounds plausible. If it's legal, then you ain't stealing a watermelon if you leave the seeds for the farmer.

You got the watermelon and he has enough seeds for a million more.

But you had better have a friend on the jury.

Still, we're going to buy our tree and when we are trimming it we aren't going to worry over a beautiful forest of 6,500,000 trees full of toadstools, wildcats and poison ivy.

We'll let the senators cry over forest preservation if they care to age themselves in the wood that way.

We must have our Christmas trees. But this time we would like one with the roots on or the services of an expert tree surgeon who knows how to balance them.

DEFECTS BARED IN AUTO TESTS

Motorists in Pennsylvania operate with good steering, fair brakes and bad lights, the Pittsburgh Motor Club announced today, in revealing the defects of motor cars examined during the November inspection period.

Less than one-third of the 1,563,000 cars inspected had satisfactory lights; two-thirds had good brakes, but 91 per cent had good steering apparatus, the report stated.

More than 200,000 motor vehicles escaped inspection, C. H. Roth, secretary of the club said, in explaining that the club will ask Commissioner Benjamin G. Eynon to require that a car be inspected next year before license plates are granted. Only 309 arrests were made for violating the sticker law.

PLAN TO DROP AGENTS FOUGHT

Elimination of agency passenger and freight stations where ever possible is said to be the policy of the Pennsylvania Railroad. That was indicated before Commissioner Samuel Walker, of the Public Service Commission, when application was made to change the agency passenger and freight station at Bradley Junction, Cambria County, to a non-agent station. It is stated that there are scores of such stations which do not pay.

The application was opposed by the people of the community, who look upon the agency as a convenience to them. However, the railroad takes the position that in this day of the automobile, agencies in many places are a liability and not an asset.

Plan Model City In Waste Meadows

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—A model city and leading industrial center of the United States is planned by the reclamation of an area of waste land twice as large as Manhattan Island—the Hackensack meadows of New Jersey. The proposal in full detail, including plans for a population of more than a half million persons, was made public by the regional plan of New York for consideration of the New Jersey Meadows Reclamation Commission.

Oh, boy! no more colds

SOUNDS like magic. No more colds! What wouldn't you give to go through the winter without them?

Here is one sensible thing you can do. A preventive measure that doctors recommend.

Every night snuff a little "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly up the nostrils. It coats the membranes of the nasal passages. According to doctors, germs are not likely to get in their deadly work if these sensitive membranes are fortified against them by lubrication.

When you are outdoors on a dusty, windy day, use "Vaseline" Jelly in the nostrils to relieve that tickle. The tube is convenient to carry, so you can always have it with you when you need it.

If the throat feels husky, take a teaspoonful of the Jelly and swallow it. Radio stars, whose voices mean their bread and butter, have learned this trick. You can profit from it too.

Lay in a supply of "Vaseline" Jelly—in jars or tubes—at the nearest store. Use it regularly every night.

LAKE ERIE-OHIO CANAL PLAN ADVANCED

Delegates to Conference Certain of Early Action By Engineers and Congress

Confidence that a long stride has been made toward the authorization of the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal was universally expressed by Pittsburgh delegates to the Washington conference on the project on their return here today.

The feeling was general that the Youngstown interests will give Pittsburgh full co-operation in efforts to further the building of the entire canal.

Meetings will be called in Pittsburgh within a few days to consider the next steps to be taken. It is also understood that another delegation will go to Washington when the report of the Rivers and Harbors Committee is presented to Congress.

RAE OPTIMISTIC

James Rae, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, said that he feels that encouraging progress has been made in giving congressmen and senators a clearer idea of the economic value of the canal to the Pittsburgh district. The Board of Army Engineers and the Rivers and Harbors committee have indicated that they consider the project well worth pushing and have intimated that favorable recommendations will be given.

In commenting on statements made by interests favoring the development of a canal using the Allegheny River, Rae said:

"The Board of Army Engineers has made surveys of this route and many others. It has already issued reports showing that the route through Youngstown is the most feasible, since it is shorter and will command a greater tonnage."

T. C. Foley, acting general manager of the Chamber of Commerce, declared that additional facts will be assembled and transmitted to S. Wallace Dempsey, chairman of the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors. He expressed confidence that the canal would be built.

SERIOUSLY CONSIDERED

W. F. Bickel, of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company, said that it was his impression that more than casual consideration is being given the plan in Washington as a result of the conferences.

Public Safety Director Edward G. Lang, who returned today from Washington where he went with the Pittsburgh delegation boosting the Lake Erie and Ohio River ship canal project, said:

"As far as the building of the canal is concerned, the project was never in better shape than it is today. Gen. J. Lytle Brown, chief of United States Army engineers, said its construction was second to none in importance in the United States among river improvements, and that he was as familiar with it as with any undertaking being considered.

"Gen. Brown said that the hearing was eminently satisfactory and that all the data requested would be given to the Rivers and Harbors Committee in time to go to the present session of Congress.

GATHERING DATA

"The canal organization in Pittsburgh will present the department with all the necessary data as to tonnage. Chairman Dempsey, of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of Congress, said that a bill not only would be presented at this session for construction of the canal but that he was in entire sympathy with the project. It must not be overlooked that President Hoover is also in sympathy with inland waterway improvements and is committed to that program.

"While we did not discuss the matter with him we are fully advised of his attitude regarding matters of this kind. The delegation returned from Washington greatly enthused with the result of their visit."

Forest Fire Loss Cut in Driest Year

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Despite the driest season in years, fire damage to national forest lands this year was held to $237,370, a reduction of almost 95 per cent from last year.

This decrease, the forest service said today, was accomplished in the face of an increase in the number of fires from 7,449 in 1929 to 8,203 for the season just ended. Forest area burned over amounted to 195,965 acres, only a fifth of last year's total acreage.

HER VERY OWN DOLLY

EVELYN CYBACH . . . . "THAT'S MY NEW BABY DOLL!"

Evelyn, 105 Samson street, with the Christmas "Tickletoes" doll that the Sun-Telegraph's kindly Doll Lady gave her.

'Tickletoes' Supply Ample To Meet Christmas Rush

DEAR LITTLE GIRLS:—

The Christmas rush is on! It seems to me that every little girl in Pittsburgh wants a "Tickletoes" at the same time. Fortunately I have plenty of my wonder dollies on hand and plenty of help to distribute them.

Yesterday my headquarters was just jammed full of little girls who had come in to get their "Tickletoes" and each and every one of them went away, smiling and happy, with an adorable "Tickletoes" snugly tucked in their arms.

Yes, indeed, I'm spreading a lot of real happiness among the children because I am really not asking them to do anything that's very hard to get a "Tickletoes." This is proven by the fact that scores of little girls have already come in for their "Tickletoes," taken her home and now have her for a playmate.

Here are the names of some of the little girls who have written to me and have already received my letters telling them how easy it will be to get a "tickletoes" before Christmas:

Eleanor Carter, Anna Babst, Marion Cartolano, Margaret Dornburg, Elizabeth Huen, Dorothy Watring, Jeane Lauer, Retta Callery, Elizabeth McCoy, Loreen O'Mara, Sadie Brooks, Beatrice Nicl, Barbara Dixon, Jane Stairs, Jeanne Campbell, Tina Aiken, Elizabeth Robertson, Rhoda Armstrong Iona Schooley, Lillian Jackson, Gertrude Mackosky, Harry Spear, Jean Rhodes, Christina Dasarillias, Margaret Starr, Dorothy Frederick, Catherine Lees, Jane Raffner, Marie Hackenson, Ellen Keine, Agnes Banjoy and Erma Fletcher.

And now just a word about "Tickletoes." I have told you about her so often that you must feel pretty well acquainted with this darling dolly by this time. Yes, she's a big doll—almost as tall as this newspaper is long. She smiles all the time, her eyes sparkle as they open and close, she clasps her hands, sucks her thumbs, plays with her toes and she's different from other dollies because she has three voices instead of one.

She is unbreakable, has rubber arms and rubber legs that you can scrub with a brush and is prettily dressed in organdy with stockings and slippers to match. You never before saw a dolly that is quite as adorable as "Tickletoes."

If you want a "Tickletoes" before Christmas fill in my coupon today, mail it at once and I'll send you a letter telling how you can get one right away. Goodby 'til tomorrow.

WOMAN RECORD FLIER RESTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Delighted at her feat in establishing a new transcontinental record for women, Ruth Nichols, New York society girl, today began a month's rest from flying.

Miss Nichols arrived here yesterday in flying time from Los Angeles of 13 hours and 22 minutes, more than one hour faster than the time of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in his flight last April. Her record was within two hours of the speed dash of Capt. Frank M. Hawks.

Her achievement was hailed by aviators today. She now holds the East to West and West to East crossing records. The records were formerly held by Mrs. Keith-Miller, British flier.

Author to Protest Beating by Police

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Channing Pollock, author and playwright, was to appear before Mayor Walker and Police Commissioner Mulrooney today to protest against alleged brutality of police. Pollock claimed he was beaten by police while passing a Communist demonstration here last Thursday. He said he was assisting a woman to her feet after she had been knocked down by police, when an officer struck him twice with a blackjack.

LABOR SEEKS OLD AGE AID

HARRISBURG, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Old age pensions and abolition of the coal and iron police today were recommended for passage by the 1931 legislature, at a meeting here of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor.

The two subjects, both of which are included in Governor-elect Gifford Pinchot's platform, formed the mainstay of the Federation's legislative program. With others they were adopted by 85 representatives of the various trades holding membership in the labor federation.

After some discussion the delegates decided on a resolution asking a referendum on a constitutional amendment to provide appropriation of sums by the state to meet the pension payments.

'Bugs' Moran Facing U. S. Tax Arrest

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Dec. 11.—(INS.)—As the vagrancy trial of George (Bugs) Moran, Chicago's gangless gang leader, neared its close today, United States government agents announced that Moran is to be seized for alleged income tax evasion.

Federal agents of the Department of Internal Revenue have been taking detailed notes of Moran's testimony in the vagrancy trial, it was revealed.

Two Men on Hill Held Over Stills

Two Hill district residents admitted operating stills before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Center Avenue Police Station today and were held for court.

They were George Anderson, of 18 Congress street, and Joseph Abraham, 1217 Whitcomb street.

Fire Still Raging On Canadian Liner

BLYTH, England, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Fire in the old Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland which started early yesterday, was still blazing fiercely this afternoon. The vessel had a sharp list to starboard and her tall steel masts threatened to topple at any moment.

Asks Alimony, Asserts She Worked to Educate Mate

Alleging she worked during their first three years of married life to support herself and her husband while he attended the University of Michigan, Mrs. Irene Ives Wahrenburg, 1213 Berkshire avenue, Brookline, declared she is now destitute, in a Common Pleas Court petition seeking alimony from Lester E. F. Wahrenburg, mechanical engineer.

He is a member of the firm of Burrell-Mace Engineering Company, Law and Finance Building, with a salary of $400 monthly, to be increased in January to $450, and receives large sums as his share of the profits, she averred.

Mrs. Wahrenburg asked a limited divorce on the grounds of cruelty and indignities. She averred her health and that of their four-year-old son has been impaired by the conduct of her husband.

She alleged that in addition to working for three years after their marriage November 9, 1921, while he attended college, she spent on their support heritance of $3,000 fro father.

PLAN NEW CURB UPON COAL POLICE

1923 legislature, but held unconstitutional.

Amendment of the workmen's compensation law to make miners' asthma compensatable.

Changing the women's labor law to reduce the maximum number of hours of labor from 54 to 44 per week.

Judge A. Phillips, president of the labor federation, presided at the conference, which was held at the capitol.

In his address, Musmanno recalled the Borkowski case of nearly two years ago, when the coal miner was beaten to death at Tyre. He criticized the present coal and iron police bill and declared:

"As it now stands industrial police can still arrest and take to private barracks their victims, and beat and torture them as they did Borkowski."

He asserted that coal and iron police under the present system enjoy the sovereign power of municipal and state police and declared:

"As a matter of fact they should not even be police in the real meaning of the word. The word police immediately suggests the idea of government. The term private police therefore is contradictory. Under our system of government, police can be only public."

POWER OF GUARDS

In fixing the power of the property guards, which Musmanno proposes to substitute for industrial police, he summed it up in his address as follows:

"To arrest any person or persons charged with any offense against the laws of the commonwealth upon warrant issued by any magistrate, alderman or justice of the peace, when such offense shall have been committed on property of the person, copartnership, association or corporation employing such guard; and when such person or persons at the time of the arrest are on the property of the person, copartnership, association or corporation employing such guard.

"To arrest without warrant any person guilty of disorderly conduct or caught in the act of committing any misdemeanor or felony, upon the property of such person, copartnership, association or corporation.

"To guard payrolls of their employers while in transit."

In authorizing property guards to arrest without warrant persons who commit offenses within their presence, Musmanno pointed out they are given no more power than is possessed by any citizen. In giving them power to arrest upon a warrant, he declared that not only must the offense have been committed on the premises of the employer, but at the time of the arrest the offender must still be on the property.

NO PRIVATE JAILS

He also declared that under his bill all persons arrested by property guards must be taken immediately before a committing magistrate or to public jails, lockups or station houses, and the keepers thereof shall receive all persons arrested by such guards.

Musmanno declared:

"The object of this provision is obvious. Had it been in the law of 1929, Borkowski might still be alive."

Under the new Musmanno bill the attorney general of the commonwealth would be charged with responsibility of the enforcement of the law. All appointments would be sent to him for approval and he would be given the power to cancel or revoke any appointment at pleasure.

Musmanno proposes that every guard appointed under the provisions of the bill be required to file bond of $2,000 for the use and benefit of persons who may be injured or damaged by illegal acts or negligence of such guard. This is the same bond required of deputy sheriffs and constables. The bill also provides that all appointments be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds in the county where the guard is employed to serve. In this manner anyone may know at once how many property guards any given industry employs, he pointed out.

Slaying of Aunt Enriches Girl, 15

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—A killer's hand has swept a fortune into the lap of a Los Angeles high school girl, Grace P. Christ, 15, whose widowed mother is in modest circumstances, is to inherit approximately $300,000 under the will of her aunt, Mrs. Rosetta Baker, former actress, strangled to death in San Francisco Monday. The girl said she planned to study music.

Six Lack $1,660,000 Bond, Go to Jail

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Nobody happened to have $1,660,000 in cash or $3,320,000 in real estate handy, so six young men accused of 83 robberies went to jail. Judge John L. Lyle, who specializes in high bonds, fixed that amount as the total necessary for their release. He held them to the grand jury.

U. S. Nips Insect Stowaways on Zep

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Buried in a weighty tome is news of the execution of a motley array of stowaways who came over on the Graf Zeppelin. The annual report of the quarantine bureau reveals that 20 species of insects, possible pests of agriculture, were found in plants in the airship, and were put to death.

WHEAT AS FUEL USED IN IDAHO

NEZ PERCE, Idaho, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Residents of this town, 18 miles from Big Timber and in the midst of a wheat region, are burning wheat for fuel.

Coal costs $16.50 per ton and wood $10 a cord, a business man said today, while wheat costs 60 a ton, delivered to bins and basements.

Wheat produces an even heat and holds fire about as long as coal, one business man said. A garageman, who found his grates too coarse for the new fuel, said he ordered new grates and expected to burn wheat all winter.

Seven Helps In One For Difficult Coughs From Colds

Creomulsion is a better help than some coughs need. It combines seven major helps in one, to do the best that men know for any cough from colds.

There is creosote—the world's supreme help—blended, emulsified and palatable. There are white pine tar, wild cherry bark, menthol, ipecac, etc. Each is best for a certain type of cough. But even doctors might disagree on what is best for yours.

So experts have combined in Creomulsion all major helps in one. This to deal with all conditions in a most effective way. No narcotic in it.

Creomulsion is for people who wish to do the utmost. In coughs from colds that hang on it is essential. One dare not trust such coughs to any lesser help. But don't you think that any cough calls for the best help known?

Creomulsion costs a little more than some helps—$1.25. But your druggist guarantees it. So it costs you nothing if you think it fails to render help that is quick and complete. Careful people, more and more, demand this maximum protection. Use it promptly.

Margaret Orr Lockard has sold through the Grant Realty Company four brick dwellings in Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg, for Don Mazzi to M. J. Malone. Malone deeded in part payment a 117-acre farm near Delmont, Westmoreland County. The same broker also has sold for George R. King to John A. Douglas a five-room frame house in Laketon road and three lots facing on Wright street, Wilkinsburg.

J. Benkin Co. has sold for Gertrude G. Weiss a two-story brick dwelling at 5412 Guarino road, Fourteenth Ward, to Ethel Epstein. The house is built on a lot 40x100 feet. The purchaser will occupy the property as a residence.

Frankstown Estates, Inc., has sold a lot, 68x150 feet, in Frankstown road, to M. K. Mellott. A contract has been let and ground broken for the erection of a brick colonial type home on the lot.

Through the Freehold Real Estate Company the West Liberty Company has sold to William T. Blackham a lot in Rockford avenue, Brookline.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Weiss have sold to Pretious V. Butler a brick home in Hermitage street, Thirteenth Ward, for $6,500. The lot is 25x90 feet. Butler will use the property for a home.

Applications for building permits follow:

Thirteenth Ward—F. Donatelli, two brick and frame dwellings and garages, 7242-44 Forest way, $10,000. J. Arcaro, brick dwelling, 420 Flowers avenue, $4,000.

Fifteenth Ward—J. E. Hines, four brick and tile duplexes, 3870-88 Beechwood boulevard, $26,000.

Nineteenth Ward—F. E. Rosenbauer, frame addition, 718 Bayridge avenue, $8.00.

Fifth Ward—Catholic Institute of Pittsburgh, remodel front, 2905 Fifth avenue, $900.

Scouts Join Police In Aiding Needy

Supplementing the drive of the Carrick police to obtain provisions and clothing for the needy families in the vicinity, 200 Boy Scouts from the Silver Top district will meet at the Carrick Police Station Saturday morning. They will spend the entire day convassing the district for old clothing and food supplies, according to an announcement of Lieut. David Walsh, of the Carrick precinct.

MACKEY URGES RENT RESPITE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Mayor Harry A. Mackey, in a public appeal to landlords and mortgage holders, proposed a three-months' "moratorium" on all payments of rents and carrying charges on mortgages, as an unemployment relief measure. He said:

"A financial respite of this kind, which would delay for only 90 days the payment of rent and interest on mortgages, would, I am sure, go a long way toward relieving the present situation and insure for thousands of our needy people food, clothing and fuel in their homes during the winter months, when the suffering is most acute.

"I feel that little or no hardship would be suffered if the small home owner and the tenants in two-story houses who are having a difficult time to make ends meet, were given a breathing spell to adjust their finances and keep warm and properly nourished."

Parent-Teachers Meet at Emsworth

The Parent-Teacher Association of Emsworth will meet at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the public school auditorium. Robber Promises To Return $6 Holdup Loot

HARRISBURG, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—A youth held up Mrs. Edwin L. Huber, Jr., in her confectionery store and took $6, but promised to return the money Saturday if she told no one of the robbery.

The youth had entered the store early last night seeking change for $20, but Mrs. Huber told him she did not have that much money in her till. He apparently waited a few hours before making the holdup, to give the woman time to take in more money.

On his second visit he pulled out a revolver. Mrs. Huber told him he did not look like a bandit type and offered to lend him several dollars. He returned with the comment that he had "tried that method before, but it didn't work."

Woman Once Fined, Denied Citizenship

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The petition of Mrs. Josephine Sacco, Charleston, for citizenship papers was dismissed by Federal Judge George W. McClintic when the court was informed the woman had paid a fine of $25 in 1925 for possession of a small quantity of whisky.

RUM FINES CUT BY HARD TIMES

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Fines imposed on bootleggers are lower the Federal Court here at the present session because of the business depression, and the prosecutor's belief that larger fines would mean the bootleggers would have to resume operations to pay them.

This was the explanation of Elihu D. Stone, assistant United States district attorney, who is presenting cases. He said the fines now imposed are all the bootleggers can pay and be kept out of the business.

He is urging suspended jail sentences and probation in many cases in addition to the fine, so that if the bootlegger is caught again the probation officer can ask imposition of a jail sentence.

FOG LIFTS, RAIN HOLDS ENGLAND

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Southern England amid the chanel emerged this afternoon from the fog which has tied up land and shipping traffic for two days, but there was no month improvement for rain poured out of clouded skies and there was a gale of considerable force.

In the Swansea area, many districts were flooded. Horseracing at Worcester was impossible and the gale drove a steel alarm up and down the channel.

King George remained indoors, abandoning his plans for a day's shooting at Windsor, but the weather bureau predicted better times to come.

MUSIC
Walter Gieseking
Carnegie Music Hall

PROGRAM

Partita No. 2, C minor ..... J. S. Bach
Three Sonatas: A minor, A major, A minor ..... Domenico Scarlatti
Partita, C major, Op. 17 ..... Erich Korngold
Three Intermezzi: E flat major, B minor, A major ..... Johannes Brahms
Pavane pour une infante défunte ..... Maurice Ravel
Jeux d'eau ..... Ravel
Soirée dans Grenade ..... Debussy
Golliwog's Cakewalk ..... Debussy
Serenade ..... Richard Strauss-Schutt
Arabesque ..... Leschetizky

Walter Gieseking's piano recital in Carnegie Music Hall last night will likely remain one of the outstanding concerts of the year. It was piano playing to be admired and imitated if possible, for as a stylist he is superb.

J. Fred Lissfelt

The program presented the greatest of the classic, romantic and modern composers, and works that are milestones in piano literature. Not since Landowska have we listened to such playing of Bach, unbesmirched by pedal and sentimentality, and standing alone on its design, harmonic sequence, and clarity. In the Scarlatti Sonatas, Gieseking simulated the harpsichord and played with all the elegance of that early Italian school. It was a long way to the Schumann Fantasy, one of the most soul-stirring musical autobiographies. Not alone the nuances of the first movement, nor the tumultuous enrush of the second won us for Gieseking's interpretation, but the magnificent handling of the slow finale (which other pianists allow to simper away into a lament) created a fitting climax to this Schumann masterpiece.

With three well-known Intermezzi of Brahms the pianist entered the realm of contemporary music. The stormy A Minor, snubbed by most players, made an unusual good showing. The enchanting lullaby in the E Flat Major and the lovely lilt of the C Major must contradict the belief that Brahms was ever a cryptic writer.

With Scriabine we were among revolutionists. The Fantasy is one of his early works, not too overburdened with dissonance nor with vital enough ideas to warrant its length. The Albumleaf of Marx has the tang of his songs. Both the Debussy and Ravel numbers are familiar, and for the first time in our recollection has the Debussy Reflections on the Water seemed entirely satisfactory. In no way exaggerated, and always within its idiom.

There were many encores; another Scarlatti sonata, Gartenmusik of Walter Neimann, an entrancing bit of new music, Debussy's Golliwog's Cakewalk, an arrangement of Richard Strauss' Serenade, and another excerpt from a Bach Partita.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

BLONDE HELD IN SLAYING

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Jean Darle, 22-year-old blonde, was held today on an open charge after police said she had confessed slaying Sam Frank, 60, Memphis jewelry auctioneer, in a hotel room here Saturday.

Police were attempting to learn the identity of a man with whom, they said, the girl admitted planning the robbery of the salesman, but whom she refused to name.

Officers said she sobbed her confession when informed her identity was known.

Frank was found dead Saturday morning. His skull had been fractured with a bottle and he had been gagged. An 11-carat diamond ring, a stickpin and some money was taken from him.

According to the alleged confession, Miss Darle, under guise of "having some drinks" in Frank's room, administered several doses of a drug which she feared had not taken effect.

RAIL WORKERS FOR SHORT DAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Chiefs of 21 railroad labor organizations were on record today in favor of the shorter working day and week.

A three-day conference ended yesterday. The conclusion was announced by D. B. Robertson, of the brotherhood of railroad firemen and enginemen, that prompt action to reduce the working time was needed.

His statement did not discuss how the rail men intended to proceed to gain this objective.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Cincinnati Typographical Union, No. 3, voted favorably on inaugurating the five-day week in newspaper and commercial printing offices in Greater Cincinnati employing union compositors. Plans will be perfected immediately to put the five-day week in operation.

Card Game Murder Case Goes to Jury

A jury retired shortly before noon today to deliberate on a verdict in the case of Frank Rodi, 32, of Gibbon street, tried for the murder of James Hannon, 26, of Congress street, who was shot in a card game argument, April 30, and died a month later.

KIDNAPED GIRL FOUND, 1 HELD

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—State police today were holding George Weiss, 39, for Cleveland authorities, who were expected here to take him to Ohio to face charges of kidnaping Anna Szakacs, 12, daughter of his stepsister, Mrs. Steve Szakacs.

Weiss was arrested yesterday at his Port Clinton home, and the police revealed that the miner's "son" was the missing Cleveland girl who had been attending school here dressed as a boy. The girl was taken to the Detention Home at Pottsville to await the arrival of the Cleveland authorities, who are to take her home to her mother.

Police said they believed Weiss had taken the girl in revenge for his eviction last year by his stepsister from the home.

FLORIDA ORANGES win by a big squeeze!

THEY'RE LOADED with goodness. Under their thin peel is a glorious ration of juice and flavor. Florida oranges are sun-sweetened grenades that blaze the way for pleasure and health! The extra weight is all juice. One squeeze proves it! And this year there is a mighty army of small Florida oranges marching from sunshine-groves to you. It's thrifty to capture them for juice. They are tree-ripened and ready to surrender the flavor that only natural cultivation gives. In all sizes, Florida oranges win by a big squeeze! SOCIETY AIDS SEAL SALE

The annual booth sale of Christmas health seals began today with prominent club and society women selling the seals on behalf of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh. The booth sale continues until December 22. It supplants the mail sale that has been in progress since Thanksgiving. The proceeds from both sales support the league's work in tuberculosis prevention and treatment.

Among the organizations in charge of booths are the following: Junior League, Ladies' Hospital Aid Society, Women's Auxiliary of the Allegheny County Medical Society, Review Club, Outlook Alliance, Rodef Shalom Sisterhood, First United Presbyterian Church, Woman's Club of Pittsburgh, Health Colony Club, Beth Shalom Sisterhood, National Council of Jewish Women, National Council of Jewish Juniors, Ladies' Syria Club, Council of Catholic Women, Oakland Woman's Club, Bethany Lutheran Church, Shady Avenue Baptist Church, Housekeepers Club, Beth Israel Congregation, Dormont New Century Club, Girl Scouts Troop No. 16, Knoxville Junior High Reserves.

Criticism of High School Draws Reply

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 11.—An adverse report on Franklin High School, made by John F. Brougher, of the State Department of Public Instruction, has stirred School Board members, and prompted the board and Superintendent C. E. Carter to request a new survey.

The report pointed out that 559 pupils were being cared for in a school designed for 350. Several directors warmly defended Carter and Principal C. H. Pedley.

SHOP METHODS UP AT PARLEY

A shop methods conference was slated to be held by the American Management Association in the William Penn Hotel today and tomorrow. Discussion of shop methods, organization and viewpoints was to keep the 100 or 150 delegates occupied today.

"An Introduction to Shop Methods" was to be read to the convention this morning by E. E. Brinkman, industrial engineer. C. S. Craigmile was to preside at the meeting. In the afternoon, W. T. Foulis, R. H. Maxson and S. M. Woodward were to present papers, with W. P. Coleman presiding.

The association is devoted to improving business efficiency and methods among its members, representing American manufacturing and business firms throughout the United States.

Illegal Deer Kill Reaches High Mark

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 11—The illegal kill of deer in the Somerset and Westmoreland County sections has reached alarming proportions, according to game officials, 65 having been reported thus far for the special doe and the buck season. Thirty-seven of that number were reported in Somerset County, where 29 does have been slain out of season.

CLUB SAVINGS $632,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—(INS)—Christmas club savings deposit distribution this year will amount to $632,000,000, according to unofficial reports made to the Commerce Department.

More than 11,000,000 persons will receive checks from about 8,000 banks. It was estimated that 38 per cent, or $240,000,000 of the total, would go for the purchase of Christmas presents.

Each depositor will receive an average of $54.60 this year, as compared with $59.50 last year, according to the estimate.

State Highway Link Sought for Donora

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 11—Donora Board of Trade is sponsoring a movement to place Donora on an established state highway route. The plan calls for adoption of a new state route from Waynesburg to Donora, and thence to New Eagle and the state route now being projected to Elrama.

Altoona Woman Gets Papal Gift

ALTOONA, Dec. 11—Mrs. Annie C. Wolf, Altoona, was presented with a cross, a gift from Pope Pius XI, at special ceremonies in the Cathedral of the Blessed Sacrament chapel, with Bishop J. J. McCort officiating. The award was in recognition of Mrs. Wolf's long service for the cathedral and her work in behalf of the many charities.

No Defense in Gas Tax Cases Offered

BEAVER, Pa., Dec. 11—Frank Kiss and Albert Bentley, Beaver Falls, and A. E. Korn, Beaver, proprietors of gasoline stations, pleaded no defense to failure to make returns to the state department of revenue of gasoline tax returns. In each case sentence was suspended on condition that costs of suit be paid the county and gasoline tax be paid to the state.

Former Legislator Dies in Sanitarium

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—James V. Lafferty, 48, a former member of the Legislature from Philadelphia, died in a sanitarium in the Allegheny Mountains. His father was builder and owner of the famous elephant structure on the beach south of Atlantic City.

ENDURING GIFTS

How many of us treasure the silver cup or spoon given us "when we were little" and jealously pass them down to our own youngsters! Or the watch or ring given us by Dad on our twenty-first birthday. Gifts of jewelry or silver are like that—and when measured by the enduring pleasure they afford, aren't they truly the least expensive gifts you can buy?

SMUGGLERS INVADE LOVE NEST IN 'FIRST NIGHTER' RADIO DRAMA

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Love, intrigue and smuggling furnish thrills in "The Portrait," the new play to be offered in the "First Nighter" program of KDKA at 6:30. Bootleggers seek to evict newlyweds from their home on the Maine coast, which has been a smuggling rendezvous for years. Eve, the bride, is portrayed by Miss June Meredith, well known for Broadway success, and Arch, the young husband, is played by Jack Doty, erstwhile capable prosecutor in the drama, "The Trial of Mary Dugan."

The Loudspeaker -:- By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Songwriters no longer devote their lyrical moments to Broadway. Not so long ago Broadway occupied most of their hours at the tin pans. Broadway began to lose prestige with them when the expressions "baby" and "sweetie" came in.

The best song of Broadway ever written in our opinion is George M. Cohan's "Give My Regards to Broadway." When he wrote it the street was still capable of furnishing lyric inspiration. It had not succumbed utterly to blatant ballyhoo, fruit juice stands and Chinese restaurants.

Poets are massing for a march to the microphones, but their ranks do not yet disclose Kipling or Noyes or even Edgar Lee Masters. Poetry read to the accompaniment of a pipe organ was once a popular ear-catcher on the air. It ceased when the crooners stormed out of the night clubs and colleges.

With the rise of the crooning, colleges have assumed a new significance in America. Ability to sing a love song with the right blend of sincerity and sentimentality is one of the chief concerns of higher education today.

No Expression For New York

The Composer Hanegger has done justice to the locomotive—his "Pacific 231," an amazing piece of impressionism, has already tapped at Toscanini's door-step and fooled him in—but no one in the republic has yet caught musically the machinism of New York or even Chicago.

Gershwin seems to me the man to do it. He has the necessary skill and imagination. It would be, obviously, a complex piece—a symphony in jazz, roaring with noise and confusion, with overtones of L's and riveters, with special emphasis on taxicabs and subway rattling, with a motif devoted to boat whistles and the foot-tapping excitement that is Harlem.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

SIDEWALKS —of— PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

If you lose the key to your front door you can't take the key to the back door and file it to meet the requirements of the front door. J. D. Oliver is authority for that statement, and he should know. He's a locksmith. He says the lock and key business isn't what it used to be because a locksmith has to spend most of his time working on automobile locks, and they're regarded as sort of outlaw locks.

William Pfarr

People call up Oliver at all hours and tell him their automobiles are locked and the keys are inside and won't he please hurry and open the door? Oliver grabs his little black bag and goes out and opens the car.

When Oliver goes to your home to make a key for your door he won't sit on a chair or use your bridge table for a work bench. He insists on sitting on the floor, tailor-fashion, and sawing away for dear life on a new key, which he holds against the heel of one shoe.

Once Oliver studied drawing under Christ Walter, the downtown artist, and another time he won a slogan contest for a milk company. The slogan was "There's Health in Every Drop."

Speaking of slogans, Quin Hall, the cartoonist, said that years ago he sent a slogan to a pencil company—"Make Your Mark in the World with Our Pencil." He said he never heard from the firm.

Henry Lenon, the clerk in the district attorney's office, years ago was a good friend of Billie Carcoran, who conducted a gymnasium for prizefighters in Wood street.

Carcoran was the manager of Jack McClelland, the fighter, and one day all three went to Chicago to arrange a few fights for McClelland, who was then merely promising.

McClelland was introduced to Buddy Ryan, one of the best fighters of the time. Ryan happened to be a handsome fellow.

"I can lick that guy," McClelland insisted. "Get him for me."

Carcoran was afraid to put his inexperienced boy against such a master, but McClelland insisted. In fact, they fought, and McClelland won. He explained why:

"I can lick anybody that's good-looking. I like to muss 'em up."

Anthony Modarelli, the young Pittsburgh composer, is grateful to Germany for two things. First, when his opera ("Sakuntala") was produced there for its premiere recently, it received a tremendous ovation, which indicates a new prestige for the composer. Secondly, when Moderelli went to Germany to study composition for eight years, he went as a bachelor. He returned a year or two ago as the husband of an attractive German girl. They're living here now.

Something happened in Scottdale recently. The American Bridge Company asked the borough officials' permission to move two big girders, each 120 feet long and 10 feet wide, through the borough. The officials consented, but requested that the moving be done after midnight so that business need not be disturbed.

When the first girder was transported on a long truck a fair share of the borough's population was up waiting. The news had got round that these tremendous girders were to be seen, and the townspeople saw. So the officials notified the bridge company that when the second girder was to be shipped, a few days later, it might as well be done in broad daylight, thus saving the taxpayers sleep. It was.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 11.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Judge Lindsey is for companionate marriage and Bishop Manning is holding out for the usual clergyman's fee for the marriage ceremony. It looks like church laws, or civil laws, or even universal customs. Don't means anything to anybody any more. They say all children reach a "smart aleck" age sometime. Well, our whole country is in that stage now, every man, every denomination, and every organization wants things their way. It's just one of those things we got to pass through, and we will look back and feel ashamed of ourselves afterwards. Yours, WILL.

GIRL'S CHARGES HOLD MAN

George Reilly, 27, of 204 Anderson street, was held for court on three charges by Magistrate T. D. Jones in Morals Court today after Lillian Jones, 14, of 1308 Reedsdale street had testified against him.

Reilly, who formerly roomed at the Jones home, took the girl from the Conray School, Monday, on pretext that her mother was ill, and led her to his room in Anderson street, police testified.

The girl's father, Joseph Jones, testified he was compelled to put Reilly out of his home. Reilly admitted the charges, police said.

SKIDMORE, TWO PALS, INDICTED

George C. Skidmore, fugitive who shot his way through a cordon of officers when they cornered him in a mountain cabin recently, was indicted for murder by the Allegheny County grand jury late yesterday, charged with killing Charles Hamon, 22, of 119 Almond street, during robbery of a gasoline station at Boggs and Warrington avenues, September 20.

Eugene Baldorf and Henry White, alias Uccillino, were indicted with him. It was charged they aided in the robbery, but that Skidmore fired the shot that killed the attendant.

Clarence Williams, Cleo Peterson and Robert Smith, Negroes, were indicted for the murder of August F. Braum, Jr., 52, a butcher, during a robbery of his shop in West Elizabeth, October 4.

John F. Freeman was indicted for the murder October 27 of Curtis Smith, 30, of 1902 Beaver street, McKeesport, who was shot during a holdup in Shipton street, near Webster avenue.

Solomon Juniper and Moses Long were indicted for the murder of H. K. Famber, 47, of 3 Moore street, Pittsburgh, shot October 11 in Joyce avenue near the foot of the Twenty-eighth street steps, when he resisted robbers.

Forego Christmas Vacation, Tilson Asks Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—A proposal that Congress forego its Christmas vacation to speed legislation was laid before Senator Watson (Rep.), of Indiana, Republican leader in the Senate, by Representative Tilson (Rep.), of Connecticut, Republican House leader. Tilson declared:

"I said we'd be willing to work until Christmas Eve and come back the day after Christmas."

Watson planned to confer with other senators, but intimated the Senate would favor a Christmas vacation of some sort.

1 HURT IN FIRE AT WAREHOUSE

A fireman was overcome and damage estimated at $5,000 was caused today when a two-alarm blaze swept through part of the sixth floor of the Pittsburgh Terminal Warehouse Building, at Terminal way and South Fourth street, South Side.

Albert McVickar, 38, hoseman attached to No. 11 engine company, was treated by City Surgeon Daniel E. Sable, when he was overcome by smoke after pushing his way into the Player-Tone Talking Machine Company quarters to fight the flames.

Heavy damage was caused by water and smoke to the talking machine company's quarters and to American Hardware and Supply Company, Edward R. Ladew Leather Company and the Hukill-Hunter Hardware Company, firemen and company executives said.

SCHOOL HEADS TO CONVENE

Mrs. Lena C. Kenney, president, will deliver the opening address at the initial session of the forty-second annual meeting of the School Directors' Association of Allegheny County, in the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow. The convention will end Saturday.

Other speakers tomorrow will be S. H. Replogle, E. C. Noyes and F. H. Remaley, assistant county school superintendents; Dr. William Denison, deputy state superintendent of public instruction; Gale F. Stroup, supervising principal of Stowe Township, and Mrs. Mary Kelso, North Fayette Township school director.

Speakers at the Saturday sessions will be Gertrude Engstrom, executive secretary of the Child Health Council; Dr. Paul Voelkel, president of Battle Creek College, and Harold L. Holbrook, state specialist in vocational guidance.

HEART ATTACKS FATAL TO 3

Heart attacks proved fatal to three persons, two of them women, last night, according to coroner's reports.

Miss Mary E. Taafe, 45, of 604 Bellaire avenue, Brookline, fell dead a few minutes after she had walked into the office of Dr. O. L. Marks, at 531 Brookline boulevard, deputy coroners said.

When Mrs. Rose Byers, of 424 Orchard avenue, Knoxville, found her bathroom door locked she summoned a neighbor, who forced his way into the room and discovered the body of Miss Henrietta Weisbacker, 40, a roomer, in the bath tub, it was reported. Miss Weisbacker had planned to sail for Germany next week.

Duncan F. McIntyre, 60, of Cleveland, was found dead in bed in a room in the Monongahela House, morgue attaches reported. He registered at the hotel Monday.

Community Split Over Street Paving Job

A neighborhood divided against itself was revealed yesterday when two delegations appeared before Council, one seeking to have Marlow street, Twentieth Ward, paved, and the other seeking to have the paving delayed. The cost is estimated at $46,000, of which all but $9,000 would be assessed against abutting property owners. A prolonged hearing brought no definite result.

STATE POLICE REMAIN HERE

The special crime squadron of state police from the Greensburg barracks, which yesterday patrolled Allegheny County to suppress the crime wave sweeping the district, was on duty today and will remain indefinitely, according to Capt. Albert Carlson, of Troop A, Greensburg.

Several arrests were made yesterday for various law infractions.

The details are posted in East McKeesport, Duquesne, at New Kensington Bridge and Washington road, and are in constant touch with the Greensburg barracks, which are serviced with the police teletype system, giving instant news of crime activities. A roving patrol, with machine guns and tear gas, covers the entire county.

BOY, 17, CAUGHT IN STILL RAID

Two persons, including a boy, 17, were under bond today as a result of a raid by prohibition agents on an alleged distillery at 420 Huey street, McKeesport, yesterday.

A 150-gallon still, 45 barrels of mash and 300 pounds of sugar were found in the building, agents reported. The seizure of the plant, said to have been in operation for three weeks, led to the arrest and release on bond of Tony Galserao, 40, and Paul Kovac, 17, according to the agents. Galserao, who was foreign born, has received his first naturalization papers, prohibition agents say.

An automobile containing 80 gallons of moonshine was seized by agents at Hazel and Logan streets. Its driver fled when he saw the federal officers approaching, it was reported.

E. Pittsburgh High Presents Stage Hit

"East Is West," one of the big stage successes of recent years, will be produced tonight and tomorrow night by members of East Pittsburgh High School at the high school building, Howard street, East Pittsburgh. C. F. Leiter, head of the English department of the high school, is directing the production.

Hold 3 in Sugar Theft; Free Woman

Three men were held for further investigation in North Side Police Station today in connection with the theft of sugar from the warehouse of Shoemaker & Son, 819 Lockhart street, North Side, Sunday. The prisoners gave their names as Peter Novrades, 37, who operates a grocery at 205 Anderson street; Enoch Minor, 25, and Nick Surmnas, 50, owner of a restaurant at 1100 Pennsylvania avenue. Pearl Novrades, wife of Peter, was released on her own recognizance.

ADMITS TRYING DRUG THEFT

Described by police as a drug addict, Earl Beabout, 33, of 2410 Larkins way, admitted to Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court this morning that he attempted to rob the Sterling Drug Store, 1734 Fifth avenue, to secure drugs. He was held for court.

Beabout was arrested in the rear of the drug store last night by a squad of police, who testified the defendant was attempting to bore through a panel in the door.

Trees for Streets Of East Liberty

Through the efforts of the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce, the principal streets of that section are to be decorated with small Christmas trees. The trees, which have already arrived in Pittsburgh, will be placed along the curbs of the principal business thoroughfares this evening. Five hundred trees, according to A. P. Flood, manager of the chamber, will be used in the decorations.

Hurt by Elevator, West End Man Dies

Crushed by an elevator in the plant of the Union Screw Manufacturing Company, West End, late yesterday, John Szmergalski, 45, of 56 Steuben street, was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital, where he died an hour later, the coroner's office reported.

Szmergalski, a laborer, was said to have looked down the shaft when the elevator, descending, struck and pinned him against the gate.

Syrian Convicted In Citizenship Fraud

Ahmad Mohamad, 30, a Syrian, was convicted in Federal Court today of obtaining citizenship on a false affidavit as to residence, September 8, 1927. In his affidavit, accompanying his papers, he claimed to have lived on Logan street for more than one year. Witnesses supported his affidavit. Judge Nelson McVicar will pass sentence later in the week, he said today.

Bill Unpaid, Fresh Air Ride Leads to Police Station

The taxicab which John Reed, 45, a cripple, engaged last night was not a "fresh air taxicab," Reed learned.

With his crutches, Reed, who gave his address as "city," hobbled into a cab driven by J. McDermott at Frankstown avenue and Station street, and, according to police, exclaimed:

"Give me a lot of fresh air."

The fare amounted to $2.75 in a tour of East Liberty streets. Reed, financially embarrassed, was driven to the East Liberty Police Station by McDermott when he became aware of the fact, police say. Reed was charged with drunkenness.

Scouts to Hold Memorial For Child Auto Victims

A memorial service, by Boy Scouts of the Allegheny County Council, for the 32 school children who lost their lives in Pittsburgh's traffic last year, is to be held in connection with the Better Traffic Committee's essay contest prize awarding exercises in Carnegie Music Hall tomorrow night.

The service, under the direction of the Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent of parish schools of Pittsburgh, will be in the nature of a dramatic object lesson for the more than 2,000 essay contest finalists who are to attend the prize awarding exercises, according to Walter Rosenbaum, education section chairman of the traffic committee.

During the service there will be a two-minute period of silence in which the audience will stand at attention and the buglers of the bugle and drum corp of the Police and Fire Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will play taps.

At the prize awarding exercises, 250 public and parochial school children, between the fourth and twelfth grades, will be awarded cash prizes and scholarships totaling $1,300 for their efforts in the fourth annual traffic essay contest sponsored by the traffic committee.

Woman Inaugurates Farm Conferences

Miss L. B. Hartt has assumed duties in charge of home economics of the Allegheny County Agricultural Extension Society and today was starting a series of group conferences in various parts of the county for farm women.

Miss Hartt came to Pittsburgh from Philade[illegible]ere she had served for the past two years in the same capacity.

COURT REFUSES TO BAN METER PURCHASE

Judge Drew Upholds City's Rejection of Low Bid; Denies Writ to Taxpayer

An injunction to restrain performance of a contract for about $40,000 worth of water meters, awarded by the City of Pittsburgh last summer to the Pittsburgh Equitable Meter Company, was refused by Judge James B. Drew in Common Pleas Court in the taxpayer's suit of Edward E. Pearlman.

The suit alleged the contract was not awarded to the lowest bidder, as the Neptune Meter Company bid was 42 cents less than that of the Equitable company.

The opinion upheld the right of the director of supplies to consider the Neptune bid as not a responsible one, pointing out that the director was suspicious of the bid because it was "unbalanced" and therefore disregarded it. The opinion cited the policy of the city to standardize meters and parts. The Equitable company has been given contracts to supply about 55 per cent of the city water meters. The suit was against the city and city officials.

DISCUSS MINE VENTILATION

Fewer mine hazards and economical operation were cited as gains to be had by operators in the use of proper ventilation by speakers today before the Coal Mining Institute of America in its second day's session in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

Discussions were held on all subjects with technical outlines to emphasize the importance of modern methods. Dennis L. Doyle, of Johnstown, and George Steinheiser, of Indiana, Pa., spoke during the morning, with F. R. Vinton conducting the question-box session.

Doyle, discussing ventilation in relation to economy, asserted the Penelec Coal Corporation, of Johnstown, reduced operating costs from $38,158.56 to $6,937.92, a saving of $31,220.64 through the installation of correct fans and ventilating systems. Steinheiser declared ventilation was the greatest factor in production of coal toward reducing accidents.

Council Promises Castor St. Bridge

The construction of a bridge at Castor street over the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad was promised by Council to a delegation of residents of that district, provided proper arrangements can be made with the railroad company. About 75 families are marooned since the removal of an old bridge. The cost will be about $5,000.

TWO INJURED IN CRASH OF AUTO, TRUCK

Minister, Boy Hurt Near Elizabeth; Fatality Occurs In Versailles Township

Louis Carpenter, 45, of 1504 Beech street, McKeesport, was killed late yesterday when an automobile he was driving ran off the Foster road, Versailles Township, according to a morgue report.

Carpenter, pinned beneath the car, suffered a fractured skull and was dead when extricated by other motorists. The automobile was badly damaged.

Earl McClain, 13, of Boston, suffered a fractured shoulder and two ribs, and the Rev. J. H. Johnston, a Negro, of Clairton, several fractured ribs in a collision between a truck driven by Robert C. Rupert, of McKees Rocks, and the car driven by the Rev. Mr. Johnston in the Lovedale Hollow road, near Elizabeth, late last night.

The boy was a patient today in the McKeesport Hospital, but the minisiry was permitted to go home. McClain was riding the truck when the accident occurred, according to a police report.

HOLDUP VICTIM OWN SLEUTH

Detective work by the victim of two Homestead bandits two weeks ago has resulted in their arrest, county detectives and Homestead police reported today.

Two weeks ago Samuel Schlessenger, a shoemaker, was robbed in his store of money and jewelry by two armed men and tied to a chair as they escaped.

Last night, accompanied by County Detective Michael McDermott, he went to a rooming house at 432 Third avenue, Homestead, and pointed out Michael Polack, 28, and Andy Yarnack, 26, as the robbers. Arraigned later before Justice of the Peace W. B. Jones, of Homestead, both were held for court.

DROWNED GIRL'S KIN SOUGHT

John Loibl, German consul here, today joined in the search for relatives of Miss Henrietta Weisbecker, 47, who, according to a report to the coroner, drowned herself in a bathtub in her rooming house, 424 Orchard street, Knoxville.

The victim had been despondent over inability to procure employment as a tailoress.

Loibl told Supt. John Black the woman had arranged with him a short time ago for her return to her home in Germany. She failed, however, to tell him of relatives, although several are believed in Germany.

The body will be held at the morgue pending developments.

Pittsburgh Driver Routed by Dog, Escapes Crash

CHARLEROI, Pa., Dec. 11.—A dog which pursued him probably saved the life of Frank R. Morelein, 36, Pittsburgh produce salesman, here. Morelein's car stalled on a hill and he was cranking the motor when the dog ran at him. Morelein ran into a store. An instant later he heard a crash. A runaway truck, driverless, had crashed into the front of his machine.

Flame of Manhole Blast Burns Youth

Woodrow Recker, 18, of 2604 Norwood avenue, was in Presbyterian Hospital today with burns on the face and hands, suffered when he was caught in a sheet of flame as a manhole blew up at Beech and Galveston avenues, North Side, last night. Doctors said his condition was not serious.

FAKE TICKETS SEND 2 TO JAIL

Three young men pleaded guilty in Criminal Court today to selling counterfeit tickets to the Pitt-Notre Dame football game at Pitt Stadium, October 25, and two were given workhouse sentences by Judge George V. Moore.

Nathan Cherkiss, of Philadelphia, was sentenced to serve six months and to make restitution of one-third the sum fleeced from victims. Julius Foreman, of Herron avenue, who has been in jail since his arrest, was given three months. Sentence on Joseph P. Silow, of Philadelphia, was deferred. The court was informed his wife soon is to become a mother, and he was ordered released temporarily under $2,500 bail.

Attorney Frank J. Kier testified he bought three spurious tickets for himself, wife and daughter Frances, society debutante, who is to wed Baron Pellenc.

COURAGE URGED ON HEINZ MEN

More than 200 managers and head salesmen from branches in the United States, Canada and England attended a banquet in the H. J. Heinz service building last night, closing an all-day sales conference. Franklin Bell was toastmaster. Speakers were R. A. McHardy, of Toronto; A. G. Scott, of London; J. S. Hutton, of San Francisco, and J. H. Warlow, general sales manager of the company's British plants.

Fear caused by the stock market crash has seriously impaired business, Howard Heinz declared at an afternoon business session. He added:

"The fact that 42,000,000 people are working in this country should be taken into consideration if the right view of present and future business conditions is to be obtained. Look for the good news instead of bad. It is a time for courage, a time for better work."

Missionary Circles Discuss Mormonism

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Brighton Road Presbyterian Church will meet at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the home of Mrs. J. Belehrad, 3411 Gass avenue. Mrs. W. A. McCredie will lead devotionals appropriate to the Christmas season. Mrs. E. J. Kreuger will discuss "The Truth About Mormonism."

JEWELRY ON CREDIT!!

There is a lot of mystery and mis-statement about installment selling, particularly as applied to Jewelry. This is chiefly due to misunderstanding the simple fundamentals of this business and impressions created by the ridiculous claims of many credit jewelers in their advertising.

Beginning in 1858, we originated the now popular system of selling the most beautiful and coveted of all earth's products (Diamonds) on easy payments. Our faith in the honesty of the public met with ready response and adding other lines of merchandise to meet the demands of our customers we have become the largest exclusive Diamond, Watch, Jewelry and Silverware firm selling on credit in the world.

NO INTEREST OR CARRYING CHARGE!

Our liberal, confidential terms are extended without extra charge. You pay only a small amount weekly, semi-monthly or monthly at your convenience. There is positively no increase in price to cover this service. Any fine piece of Jewelry commonly found in any cash store will be found in our stock at the same or a lower price . . . and sold on convenient payments without any added charge of any kind.

Confidential Credit

Just as these two words imply, all accounts are opened in strict confidence by courteous and carefully trained credit men. No embarrassing credit investigation. You can buy here on credit with absolute assurance that only yourself and ourselves will know your method of purchase.

INCREASE YOUR BUYING POWER!!

Every article in our store has been selected with utmost care from the markets of the world as the best of its kind. Genuine blue white diamonds, unusually brilliant gems, set in artistic hand-made mountings of solid gold and platinum. Imported direct from the European Diamond markets for our large chain of stores in leading cities. Saving you wholesalers, brokers and all middlemen's profits, giving you values unequaled in this country.

Watches from all the leading manufacturers, Elgin, Hamilton, Illinois, Howard, Bulova, Tavannes. At all times an unusually large selection of newest styles at nationally advertised cash prices, on terms to suit you, with no interest or carrying charges. WHY SHOULD YOU PAY CASH FOR A WATCH AND THEN BE AT THE MERCY OF SOME RETAILER FOR SERVICE? With a watch purchased on partial payments, there is never any question about service.

Artistic jewelry of every description. Silverware by the best known, most reliable manufacturers in America, Telechron Clocks, Eastman Kodaks, Edison Radios and other well-known items too numerous to mention. All at cash prices or lower, with terms to suit you.

Our Guarantee of Satisfaction

A responsible guarantee is not an essential thing in many lines, but when the merchandise is gold, silver or precious stones it becomes all important. Hence we say to you, if any article sold by us falls short of our representations, or, if any article sold by us can be bought elsewhere at a lower price or on easier terms, it may be returned at once for full credit.

A HOUSE THAT HAS STOOD THE TEST OF THREE GENERATIONS (ESTABLISHED 1858) IS A SAFE HOUSE TO DEAL WITH!

WOMAN MOTORIST FOILS THUG IN HOLDUP ATTEMPT

ANOTHER LOSES $500, THIRD ATTACKED

8 Holdups, 5 Burglaries Stir Police as Crime in County Fails to Abate

Two holdup men who last night selected women for their victims had a "fifty-fifty break," when one was forced to flee before he could relieve his victim of her money, while the other escaped with more than $500 in cash.

An armed thug leaped into a machine driven by Mrs. Charles Dethon, of 6650 Jackson street, along Sheridan avenue last night, pointed a revolver at her and commanded "Drive fast."

Instead she foiled the would-be robber by turning her machine quickly into Johnston's garage, 227 North Sheridan avenue. The thug took to his heels when two men approached.

NEGRO TAKES CASH

Accosted by a Negro in Sheridan avenue, near the high school athletic grounds, Bellevue, Mrs. Robert C. Uptegraff, of 101 Meade avenue, Bellevue, was robbed of $520 late last night, she told police. The thug examined her purse, in which were two smaller pocketbooks, one containing several rings, but the Negro took only cash, she said.

Three Negroes attacked Mrs. Henry Elliott, of 3002 Camp street, at Fifth avenue and Beechwood boulevard, early last night. One of them struck her in the right eye, breaking her glasses. She was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital for treatment.

ROB DRUG STORE

Two bandits looted the cash register of the Arsenal Drug Company, at 3836 Penn avenue, of $25, and escaped in an automobile after holding Charles and Albert Weinberg, owners, at bay with revolvers.

Three men, arrested after the attempted holdup of Charles Duff, of 7123 Lemington avenue, in front of 1217 Paulson avenue, were held for questioning in connection with the drug store holdup. They gave their names as Thomas Siciliano, 21, of 1204 Deary street; Joseph Vozzo, 21, of 1114 Larimer avenue, and Carman Scarano, 21, of 6361 Apple avenue.

JEWELRY STOLEN

Jewelry valued at $500 was stolen last night from the home of Andrew Bright, of 1620 Dellrose avenue, Carrick.

Two Negroes held up Jacob Smolowitz, of 1606 Center avenue, near his home last night and robbed him of $23.37.

The theft of three diamond rings valued at $550 was reported from the home of Mrs. Eva Suchman, at 5927 Douglas street, Squirrel Hill.

DIME THEIR LOOT

A dime was the loot of two Negroes, who early today attacked John Yakovich, 42, of 1217 Braddock avenue, Braddock, in the Dooker's Hollow subway under the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, police said.

Mose Carline, 22, and Eugene Smith, 38, Negroes, of Aliquippa, today were awaiting court trial after a hearing before Justice of the Peace Michael Kane last night in connection with the holdup of William Kladakis, of Aliquippa, who was relieved of $23 yesterday.

TAILOR SHOP ROBBED

Leo A. Buncher, proprietor of the Aiken and Forbes Tailoring Company, 5817 Forbes street, reported that thieves had entered the store and stole $4.

The home of Harry Israel, of 611 Forbes street, was entered and $12 and a $15 check were taken. Mrs. C. H. Wilber, of 531 South Braddock avenue, reported that she missed $5 from her purse, which was on a kitchen table after a man who had asked for old papers had left the house.

Thieves took $5 from the cash register in the grocery of A. Alexander, of 7004 Frankstown avenue.

Neuritis

Quick Relief with a Harmless Tablet

Never put up with pain any longer than you can help! Pain racks nerves, saps vitality. At the first sign of any touch of neuritis, rheumatism or lumbago, take a couple of Salicon tablets. Salicon almost instantly relieves any pain from headache to rheumatic limbs without any bad after effects. Does not affect the heart, upset the stomach or establish a habit. Helps also to relax taut nerves and induce sound sleep at night. As a relief for menstrual pains women find it a blessing. It's the modern pain antidote and sedative, better than aspirin. 25c, 50c and $1.25 at all good drug stores. Doctors freely prescribe it.

EVICTION CLAIM FAILS IN COURT

B. Spiegle, who conducted a confectionery store at 641 Grant street for eight years and asked $10,000 from six defendants he alleged were instrumental in his eviction to make way for the erection of the Koppers buildings, failed to impress a jury in Common Pleas Court in acting as his own attorney.

The jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendants, W. J. Halley, Jacob Gold, B. H. Cooper, A. P. Weitzel, J. D. Shaner and Samuel A. Binder. The only witness was Spiegle, who testified through an interpreter. He was aided by Judge W. Heber Dithrich. Spiegle said he had an oral lease for the property, which was sold by Binder February 25, 1927. The defense produced an agreement by Spiegle to vacate for a consideration of $200. Attorney Frederick Miller, representing defendants, waived his right to argue before the jury.

Dies in Hospital After Auto Hurts

Dusan Mrvas, 41, of 902 Soles street, McKeesport, died today in the McKeesport Hospital from injuries sustained when he was hit by an auto last Sunday. Matthew Fannel, of 427 Kennor street, Rankin, was said to be driver of the car that hit Mrvas.

WALES SPEAKS IN SPANISH

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales, who has been studying Spanish in preparation for his forthcoming visit to South America, last night addressed the Argentine Club in both languages.

He switched from one tongue to the other several times, and the general opinion was he was almost as fluent in Spanish as English. The prince said:

"The Argentine ambassador (Don Evaristo Uriburu) mastered English so well during his stay in this country that I feel it is up to me to do something in return. So I speak in Spanish."

DAVISON PLANT CONTRACTS LET

Contracts for additions to the Davison Coke and Iron Company's cement plant on Neville Island have been awarded to the Rust Engineering Company at a total cost of $100,000.

The additions will consist of six reinforced concrete cement silos with a storage capacity of 100,000 barrels, and a machinery building to house the cement pumps.

Construction work has been started and it is expected that the new facilities will be completed by March 1, 1931.

Gray Will Address Pitcairn Kiwanians

Judge James H. Gray, of Common Pleas Court, will be the principal speaker tonight at the regular weekly meeting of the Pitcairn Kiwanis Club, in the social rooms of the Pitcairn Presbyterian Church. President Charles E. Hild will preside.

'SOUP AND SOAP' RELIEF SLOGAN

"Soup, soap and salvation" are the three S's inaugurated by the Salvation Army at New Kensington.

For the past two months hundreds of children of the Second and Third wards of that borough, children of the unemployed and needy, have been taken care of.

Dinner and supper are served to them every day. When they leave school at noon they march to the army building, at Eighth avenue and Fourth street, and are fed soup, bread, milk and fruit. At five, they are given meat, potatoes, a vegetable and milk. A basket is given to their parents in the evening, supplying enough food to take care of the adults and for the children's breakfast.

The unemployed men of the borough are fed twice a day after the children leave the building. Adjutants Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bryant are in charge of that district. Col. C. B. Campbell is the divisional commander, with offices in Pittsburgh. Mrs. Bryant is known as "Captain Nell." She served the Pittsburgh Hill district as a slum officer for 14 years.

"...AND BRING A LOAF OF GRANDMOTHER'S RYE BREAD"

Mother certainly knows her rye bread. "Grandmother's Rye" won her instant approval with the very first loaf she tried.

If rye bread is one of your favorites, you'll surely like "Grandmother's Rye." It doesn't have that tough, gummy crust so common in other rye loaves, and the flavor is really different.

Try "Grandmother's Rye" for some of those "Dutch" sandwiches —you know the kind—limburger cheese, a slice of onion and a tender lettuce leaf—or any kind of a sandwich. It is baked fresh every day, with or without caraway seeds. Any A & P store can supply you.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk Going to Florida

With every day crowded as full with entertainments as a Yuletide pudding is supposed to be with plums, folks are finding a few minutes now and then to think of Florida skies. New Year's day will end the social season with the exception of some notable weddings to take place the first month of the year and a few last-minute fetes for the buds. With the decline of the social season everyone will start shopping for the annual emigration to the South.

Of course a few folks have already left for Florida. And Palm Beach always attracts the largest quota of the fashionables. Mrs. Henry R. Rea has already visited her Palm Beach home. After superintending the opening of the house, she went to Washington, where she's now visiting. The latter part of the month she will return to the resort.

The D. Grimm Renfrew, of Uniontown, are expected in Palm Beach shortly, where their mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Blair, of Pittsburgh, also has a winter home.

Mrs. L. B. Cuddy and her family are already there, established in their home on Seabreeze avenue. Her children are in school in Palm Beach, and are also members of the Private Swimming Club.

Principals Guests at Congress

Seven members of the Principals' Club, including the president, Miss Elizabeth Wolfe, were present yesterday at the Christmas luncheon of the Congress of Clubs' educational department. Four long tables and a small one were required to seat all the guests at this the largest departmental meeting the Congress has ever known.

Mrs. S. E. Weber, wife of the associate superintendent of schools, was the guest of honor, and Mrs. Mary J. Cowley, of the Board of Education, and Miss Grace Swan, local president of the Administrative Women in Education, were others present.

The principal speaker was Mrs. A. C. McMillan, president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Goodwill Industries, who told of the splendid work being done in social service and in employment at the Strip institution. Her observations were supplemented by the Rev. Albert G. Curry. Then slides were shown of the Byrd "Little America" expedition and a talk was given concerning it by George Tennant, who was chief steward with the party.

The decorations were especially attractive and appropriate. The birthday table, where 22 December-born members sat, had "Miss Merry Christmas," a doll, as its centerpiece and from her radiated long ribbons tying gifts for the guests. On the honor table was a Christmas tree and a decorated automobile carrying a spare (a check) for the Goodwill Industries. According to the custom instituted this season, the women at the birthday table contributed their ages in pennies to the department's scholarship fund.

DESIGNER PRESENTS LATEST IN WINTER SPORTS CLOTHES

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 11.—Winter sports clothes are snowing down on us, and even if we are not amongst the people who make a playground of the snowy regions, there is nothing to prevent our enjoying the costumes prepared for this purpose. The outfit that is designed for St. Moritz in Switzerland or Chamonix in France must be good looking yet sturdy enough to stand the most rigorous use. These costumes are ultra-practical in appearance and are a delightful contrast to the lovely clothes worn at night at the various fetes and dances that are so important a part of the winter sports resorts.

CHANEL IS ALSO in the sports field and so we are showing one of her new winter sports frocks created for an important client. It is of bright red jersey flannel snug and warm. Beneath the pleated skirt, which is open for a short distance at each side, are knickers of the same material buttoning snugly at the knee. The collar may be worn open as in the sketch, or buttoned up around the throat. The four patch pockets do their share in giving a decidedly sportsmanlike air to the frock.

THE LOVELY LACE frock is from Tollmann. It is a most useful dinner dress of black chenille lace over a black satin slip. The black tulle ruchings border the decolletage and skirt panels. The skirt is double with an over flounce which is moderately short in front, but trails in two points at the back.

SUSPECT SEIZED IN WIRE CUTTING

Edward Martin, 47, of Keystone Hotel, Forbes street, who, police say, admits having served 15 years in the penitentiary, was arrested in West View early today charged with larceny.

For the past several weeks county detectives, borough and township police and investigators of the Duquesne Light Company have been searching for the person who has been cutting wires in that vicinity.

Martin was arrested by Patrolman Myles Davidson, of West View, who watched the Wellington property district, last night.

At 2:30 o'clock this morning Davidson questioned Martin, who was dressed in overalls and carried a package. The parcel contained a flashlight, hacksaw, candles, washlines and two bundles of newspapers, police say.

The prisoner, according to Chief Kaemmerer, admitted to cutting public utility wires on the Babcock boulevard recently, claiming that he sold the copper.

WOMAN'S DEATH PUZZLE

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 11.—(INS.)—The body of the woman who was found in the Oakland estuary with a rope knotted around her neck today has been identified as Mrs. Gabrielle Vigh, 45, who disappeared from her home here three weeks ago.

Officers had divided opinions whether the woman was murdered or whether she committed suicide.

Dr. E. V. Tiffany, autopsy surgeon, held that the woman was dead before she entered the water.

Alameda authorities were of the opinion that she had taken her own life, as was her husband, Stephen Vigh, a machinist, who said she had been despondent because of ill health.

"Baby Bandits" Rest Hope in Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Hope for a last-minute effort to save the three "baby bandits" of Nassau County from death in the electric chair came tonight with reports Gov. Roosevelt may pass on the youths' cases. The governor is returning to New York today from a vacation in Georgia. The Pardon Board and the courts have failed to make any recommendation.

Los Angeles Docked For Overhauling

LAKEHURST, N. J., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The silver-gray shape of the naval dirigible Los Angeles will not be seen slipping through the skies again until January 15.

The ship has been put in the hangar at the naval air station for a thorough overhauling. A naval inspection board reported that although the ship was six years old, it was in sturdy condition.

Window Breaker Crashes Jail Meal

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Penniless and hungry, Ralph Clifford, 37, went to the county jail yesterday and asked what time dinner would be served. Then he called at the postoffice and broke 18 windows. He arrived back at the county jail in time for dinner.

JOURNAL STUDY COURSE OPENS

Student journalists from high schools of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County will attend the opening lecture of a new course in editorial and business procedure in publication practice today in Pittsburgh Academy. The course is sponsored by the school without cost to students delegated by faculty sponsors of student publications in secondary schools of the district.

Principals and teachers from many of the schools will be present at the opening of the new course, believed to be the only one of its kind in existence. W. C. Arther, president of the Ensign Advertising Agency and director of advertising courses at the University of Pittsburgh, is director of the new course. He will give the initial lecture today. The students will attend classes each alternate Thursday.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should try Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and help overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

THEATER NOTES AND COMMENT; GOTHAM, HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

Chinese Actors in Play By Soviet Author Talk Chinese

By GEORGE SEIBEL

NEW YORK, December 10.

ONE of the most remarkable plays the Theater Guild has put on during 12 years of venturous drama isn't likely to be played anywhere outside of the Martin Beck Theater. The reason is clear to anyone who sees "Roar China." The stage has been converted into the harbor of a Chinese city. Maybe they even have real salt water. A full-sized British battleship has its big guns trained on the city, causing nervous citizens in the audience some mental fidgets.

George Seibel

Five or six Chinese junks or sampans paddle around in this harbor of Wan Hsien. When the Chinese scenes are played, the sampans come together and their streaky red sails hide the battleship H. M. S. Europa. When the sampans sail off to right and left, the white people play their scenes on the warship.

The big thrill comes when the decks are cleared for action, cannon unsheathed, and the giant ship sails forward as if it were going to crush the audience under its cruel keel.

No wonder the audience sides with the poor Chinese who have been browbeaten and downtrodden by those Europeans for two acts.

"Roar, China!" chirks a coolie soap-box agitator, stirring up his countrymen to fight for liberty, and everybody is ready to roar with them.

LIKE "THE WEAVERS"

The play reminds you of Gerhart Hauptmann's drama of Silesian labor troubles, "The Weavers," a play that had no hero. One critic said "Hunger" was its hero; another said the Mob was the hero of "The Weavers."

Hauptmann showed the poor people getting starvation wages, and eating dog as a luxurious feast, while the big mill-owners were fat and insolent in their affluence.

S. M. Tretyakoff, author of "Roar China," shows the foreign concessionaires beating and cheating the helpless coolies. When an American is drowned, by his own fault, two innocent Chinese are strangled to "atone for the crime."

They are strangled in full view of the audience, which gasps with horror at their contortions.

Another young Chinese boy hangs himself to escape the persecution of the white oppressors.

No, it is not a pleasant play for the Tired Business Man!

WHO IS TRETYAKOFF?

The author is a Russian. No trouble to guess that. He was born at Riga in 1892. He studied law at Moscow and wrote 2,000 poems, never printed. A friend burnt them in the stove while Tretyakoff was out.

Perhaps he was a real friend.

Tretyakoff went to China in 1922 as professor in the National University at Pekin. There he wrote this play about British imperialism. He had been associated with Eisenstein and Meyerhold in theatrical enterprises.

There are 23 Chinese actors in the drama and only 15 white. Besides there are three dozen Chinese coolies and boatmen, against only 10 British tars. Many of the scenes are played in Chinese, but the audience understands them just as well.

It is a play that stirs your soul against the piracy of civilization, which sucks the blood of a simple and lowly people under pretense of bearing "the White Man's Burden."

The white man's burden plainly is Loot. And "Roar China" is an appeal to the conscience of the Western world.

NEW PICTURES TODAY: OTHERS TOMORROW

Two theaters open new bills today. "Outward Bound," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., comes to the Warner screen. It is a drama concerning life after death.

The Enright is the other theater offering a new show today. The film portion features "The Dancers," co-starring Lois Moran and Phillips Holmes. The stage presents a new Dick Powell revue, "In Florida."

FRIDAY OPENINGS

A number of new pictures open tomorrow. "The Cat Creeps," featuring Helen Twelvetrees, comes to the Stanley. It is a mystery melodrama. The Friday opening in the Penn brings "War Nurse," heralded as 'the woman's side of the World War." The Fulton will begin an engagement of the De Mille picture, "Madam Satan," co-starring Reginald Denny and Kay Johnson. The Sheridan Square will offer "Madonna of the Streets," with Evelyn Brent. Another theater beginning a new bill tomorrow is the Aldine, which will have Cyril Maude in the stage version of his stage success, "Grumpy," as its feature.

"The Fourth Alarm," a melodrama of fires and firemen, opens Saturday on the Harris screen. Vaudeville acts will be on the bill.

NEW GUILD PLAY

Harold Vermilyea, one of the principal players in the Theater Guild's new production, "In the Meantime," by Claire and Paul Sifton, opening in the Nixon next Monday, has been starred on tour by George M. Cohan in "The Tailor-Made Man." He has appeared on Broadway continuously for five or six years, appearing in "The Man with Red Hair," "The Enemy," "The Young [illegible]," "The Haunted House," "[illegible] Alarm Clock," "Captain Applejack" and "Sun-Up."

"Bird in Hand" comes to the Alvin Monday night, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. This is the comedy from the prolific pen of John Drinkwater, and comes here with the original cast that was chosen and directed by Mr. Drinkwater himself.

"Fine Feathers," with Art Gardner and Margie Bartel co-starring, will open a week's engagement in the Academy Sunday night with a midnight show.

John Wayne to Be Modern Youth in New Picture, 'Three Girls Lost'

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 11.

Plans are afoot at Fox to team John Wayne, ex-football player, and Virginia Cherrill, ex-Chicago society girl.

The two young players have just made "Girls Demand Excitement," and are slated for "Three Girls Lost." The publicity department assured me there is no connection between the pictures.

John Wayne.

It develops that "Three Girls Lost" is a story of the well-known pitfalls of the big city. There are two sub-plots, similar to M. G. M.'s "Our Dancing Daughters" series.

Direction of this drama of modern youth will be entrusted to Sydney Lanfield.

CHARGE HEAVY TRAFFIC

After the holidays, Ramon Novarro plans to hold a novel charity benefit in his miniature theater. He will ask 60 screen stars to come and pay $100 for their seats. In addition, program and flower girls will be employed to swell the sum. Entertainment is to be furnished by the film people. The plan was thought up by Ramon, Gloria Swanson and Laura Hope

Show Boat Offers New Hiller Revue

Joe Hiller presents a show revue on the Show Boat, floating night club, beginning tomorrow night. Five acts are to be featured. Entertainers will include Deloris Ferris, formerly with "Newse Moon" and other Broadway shows; Byrnes and Swanson, emcee Ziegfeld entertainers; Helena Green, personality girl, and Bernnard and Henry, heralded as the female Van and Schenk, who will appear for a third and final week. Wally Vernon continues as master of ceremonies. Music is by Jimmy Carr's Orchestra.

West View Parents, Teachers Elect

The West View Parent-Teachers' Association at its monthly meeting this week elected these officers: President, J. N. Myers; vice president, Albert Brodt; secretary, Mrs. Irvine Miles; treasurer, Fred S. Brown.

The flame of love anew with each caress.
I hope your dreams are strangely free of me,
That time will rout the futileness of pain;
I trust that you may greet me laughingly
In case our paths should chance to cross again.

You fell in love with love and I was near,
And played a part that I could never fill;
Far better then for me to disappear
While phrases still are sweet and kisses thrill;

While you still think my vows of constancy
Were from the heart—and not from memory!
—Young Man of Manhattan.

Scene

Sonny Capone, son of Alphonse Capone (one of America's bigger shots), celebrated his twelfth birthday one day last week. About 125 playmates and other children were the guests at the party. It was at the lavish Capone estate on Palm Island, Florida. After a dip in the pool and games on the lawn, the children were treated to a luncheon you couldn't afford. Then each child was presented with a two-pound box of candy. The needy ones were also given articles of clothing.

Other gifts included swimming suits, baseball bats, baseballs, lace kerchiefs, and, ironically enough, rifles.

Apparently Mr. Capone doesn't want his boy (or his playmates) to grow up and become a New York night club master of ceremonies, for which this department hustlily cheers him.

Hams Across the Sea

According to Gordon Beckles, a London dramatic critic, who recently visited this town of ours:

"New York has lost its novelty. European cities have copied its tricks and yet managed to preserve their traditional identities."

Meaning, one presumes, that New York still is original.

Haw!

Take it from Ned Williams, one of the newer and more beautiful flicker stars arrived in Chicago recently with a handsome mink coat protecting her against the biting winds as she posed for the shutter and bulb boys. There was some discussion about what to do for a novel "shot."

"Why not run over to one of the department stores and have her meet Santa Claus," suggested one of the more unimaginative cusses.

"Perhaps she has met Santa Claus," was an original comment.

"Met him hell," snapped one of the brighter boys, "Lookit that mink coat—she's took him!"

Stew Stuff

All the way from Chicago and Jerry Whalen comes this familiar quip about the two drunks who were hiccoughing their way along State St. One of them paused to inspect a billboard.

"Whatcher lookin' at?" asked the other.

"An adver-hic-tisement."

"Ladies Ready-to-Wear Clothes."

"Sabout time!"

The Irony of It

Among the few successful restaurateurs on Broadway is Charlie Journal. Starting as a bus boy, Journal now is listed high among those who pay income taxes. If Charlie didn't think you "belonged," no bribe, no matter how huge the sum, could get you in.

Joan Sawyer, they will tell you, was greatly responsible for Journal's "best break." The lass who once was a town toast refused to be the hostess at Reisenweber's—"unless Charlie is my headwaiter!" That job brought him local renown. It is safe to say, too, that Journal is one of the very few Broadway lads who have more friends than ill-wishers.

It is estimated that over $500,000 a year is spent on gifts to win the favor of maitre d'hotel men, who have the power to admit or bar the "best people" from their exclusive places.

And the same people who squander that coin to be allowed in this or that place wouldn't permit those men in their own homes.

Tee, Hee

The N. Y. Times reminds us that Charles A. Dana defined a well-trained newspaperman as follows:

"A journalist must be an all-around man . . . his education, accordingly, should be exceeding extensive. If possible, he should be sent to college. He must learn everything the college has to teach . . . he must know a great many things, and the better he knows them, the better he will be in his profession. There is no chance for an ignoramus."

Principal Kidd, who expelled us from P. S. 184 (in the 6th grade) for being backward, will enjoy that.

Imagine

They say it happened in the barber shop of the Roney-Plaza Hotel at Miami Beach last year. Four men were occupying as many barber chairs one morning. Three of them were discussing the front page accounts that day about Hyman Biller, still missing, for questioning in the Arnold Rothstein murder case.

The man in the first chair was former Secretary of State Kellogg. The second chair contained a prominent New York police official, and the third chair was filled by a detective working on the case.

Mr. Biller was in the fourth chair, almost smothered by the numerous hot towels which he instructed the barber not to remove.

Heheheh

Recently the press dept for a show made a hoop-dee-doo over the fact that a deb (from the neck up!) had been recruited from the Blue Book for their attraction. They gave her the part, as a matter of fact, on the condition that she would wire all her social friends and Berton them into attending. And then they handed her a couple of meaningless lines.

The best part of the story is that when a newspaperman (naive enough to help along the bunk) called up her dwelling for an interview, her mother answered haughtily that her doter couldn't be asked to the phone because she "had to save her voice for the stage!"

WAYNE TO ACT IN NEW FILM

WILL WORK AT LAST

The jinx that has kept Paul Cavanaugh off the screen is believed to have been beaten at last. Paramount has signed the English actor to play the lead opposite Ruth Chatterton in a picture that is temporarily known as "New Morals."

Cavanaugh has had the unusual experience of collecting paychecks from several companies without having to work for them. On his arrival in this country, he was signed on a joint contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Paramount. But he never made any pictures. Finally Gloria Swanson borrowed him to be her leading man in "Rockabye." Then she postponed the picture.

"New Morals" will be his first chance to show what he can do.

I NOTE THAT—

Gloria Swanson has finally agreed to do the De Sylva, Brown and Henderson picture at United Artists. . .At the moment only one song is planned for the film. Leo McCarey directs. . . Sue Carol and Nick Stuart have left for Chicago to be with Sue's mother when she undergoes an operation. They will not return until after the holidays. . .Douglas Fairbanks' latest, "Reaching for the Moon," was previewed for United Artists stars and officials on Sunday night. . . .Dolores Del Rio is still in the hospital, but is showing improvement. She will escape an operation.

Dolores Del Rio

SONG WRITER TURNS ACTOR

The question of what has become of the song writers is answered as far as Harry Akst is concerned.

He has been signed by Paramount to play the role of Maxi Schwartz, the song writer, in "June Moon."

This is the part that has been a show-stealer both in New York, where Harry Rosenthall played it, and in Los Angeles, where Murray Smith had the role. In every case, a genuine musician has been chosen.

Akst is making his debut as a film actor. He is a pal of Al Jolson's and a well-known composer, having contributed, among others, "Dinah" and "Am I Blue?"

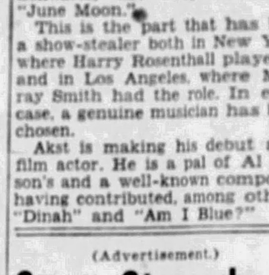
Gassy Stomach Pain Ends Quick

"I suffered for months from indigestion and gas on the stomach," says C. Bedford, of Detroit, Mich. "I got relief from the very start by taking ACIDINE. I could not eat without being troubled with gas, pain and dizziness. Since taking ACIDINE each day, I feel entirely better and have had no pains, at all."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at your druggist. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.



Muscular-Rheumatic Aches and Pains

DRAW them out with a "counter-irritant." Distressing muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness—generally respond pleasantly to good old Musterole. Doctors call it a "counter-irritant," because it gets action and is not just a salve. Musterole helps bring soreness and pain to the surface, and thus gives natural relief. You can feel how its warming action penetrates and stimulates blood circulation. But do not stop with one application. Apply this soothing, cooling, healing ointment generously to the affected area once every hour for five hours. Used by millions for over 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses.

Keep Musterole handy; jars and tubes.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole

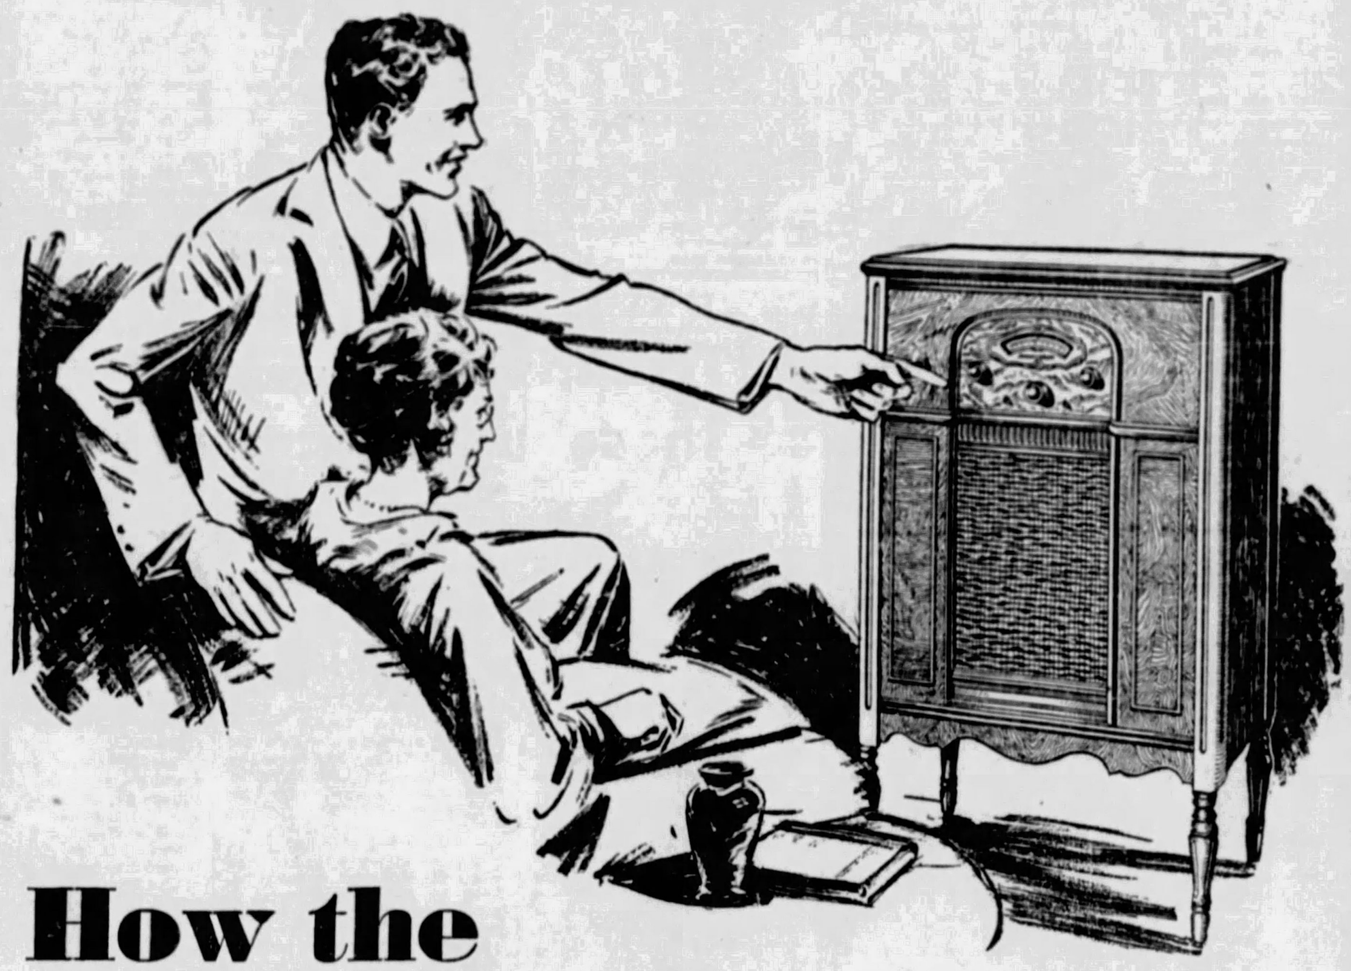
ATWATER KENT
RADIO



How the old folks will enjoy it!

Order the radio with the GOLDEN VOICE today

NOW IS THE TIME! For your whole family—or to make life more cheerful for a lonely friend.

What in the world could make anybody happier than the 1931 Atwater Kent for Christmas?

It provides entertainment for years. It brings constant joy to the owner and reflects credit on your own good judgment in making such a choice.

Hear its Golden Voice and know what TONE is. Touch its Tone Control and see how you shade the Golden Voice to your own taste and get the very best reception for your particular home. Go roaming with its Quick-Vision Dial—Atwater Kent's marvelous advance in convenience of operation.

See the home-like beauty of the new models. Read what Gilbert Rhode, famous designer, says: "It is gratifying to see that so important a radio manufacturer as Atwater Kent has issued models that are free from the over-ornateness that has heretofore made it almost impossible to place a radio in a well-furnished room."

When you sum it all up—when you remember that every Atwater Kent today is backed by eight years of radio leadership—act promptly. Many others have the same Christmas thought as yourself.

See your dealer now. He'll reserve your new Atwater Kent and deliver whenever you say.

MODEL 70. Lowboy, as illustrated above, $119. Other beautiful models, including Radio-Phonograph combination, from $125 to $195. Prices less tubes.

Prices slightly higher west of the Rockies and in Canada

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Must a Wife Drink to Be A 'Good Sport'?

Shall she learn to be a booch hound—

Or continue to be a frost?

That's Hester's problem. And the problem of many other serious young women.

Time was, when such a problem didn't exist. Drinking people were one thing . . . and respectable people quite another.

Then Uncle Sam went "dry" and suddenly it became The Thing to outsmart the law and carry a hip flask. And everywhere you go they're shaking 'em up and pouring 'em down.

But suppose you don't like to pour 'em down? Honestly don't like the taste of booze? Loathe the silliness and fussiness that comes after—the flat, empty laughter; the foolish, fumbling gestures? Suppose it makes you disgusted and mad—and you want to live decent and cool. But your husband says that if you do, you're a killjoy—

Needs Advice

And you are a killjoy. You can see it yourself. You don't fit in. You spoil the fun. And because you're "sticking by your principles," you're losing love. Well, then—? What would you do? Hester's putting it up to you. There's no use dodging the question. It's one that thousands of people, who never would have dreamed of entering a saloon, are rioting over these days. So think it over, and let's have your vote.

"My Dear Miss Martin:

"I feel the need of some advice from some disinterested person, and since you help so many people, and seem to have such a sensible point of view, I'm coming to you, in the hopes that you, or some of your readers, can help me out.

"Maybe you'll think I'm just a silly sap, and if you do, I guess most of my friends will agree with you, from the way they talk. But here goes:

Losing Friends

"I am nearly 30 years old, so you can see that I was grown up before this crazy boozing, bootlegging, racketeering age got into swing. But now I'm finding that on practically every venture for a good time, with either our married or our single friends, my husband and I are in for a real booze party.

"Back in the old days, before prohibition, none of these people thought it was necessary to drink. And we all had a good time, too. And I can still have a good time without a cocktail or two or two dozen, to start the party off. But they no longer seem to find anything worth while in an evening, unless they are half shot.

"And I am rapidly becoming a laughing stock with most of the young people we know, and I am considered a complete fool on the party.

"I am not popular enough or in demand enough to set an example of any kind. So all I get is the rats. What am I to do? Shall I give up all my social life? Shall I continue to be a frost? Or shall I come down to what the rest are doing? Shall I forget how to amuse myself without a pint of booch aboard?

"All this drinking seems to me so incredibly stupid. One drunk, tipping and rolling around may be 'funny,' and good for a laugh. But there's certainly no intelligence . . . no actual humor . . . no genuine, worthwhile wit, in such a spectacle. And when it comes to where it's not just one, but everybody, it seems to me it's just plain blah.

"Personally, I like nimble, intelligent talk. Genuine, hearty laughter. And there seems to me to be little of either in the average wild party.

"My husband, however, has more 'up-to-date' ideas than I have. And but for me, he would enjoy his 'good time' (?) with the rest. But now he claims that I 'am losing all our friends' because of my ideas on the subject of drinking. And it is quite true, I am. But in my estimation, they are good ones to lose. But it does mean a lot of quiet evenings at home, and much, much fewer invitations. I can see that.

Serious Problem

"Sometimes I wonder if this country isn't going crazy on this subject, and acting like a nation of cry babies, determined to have their own way, even if it kills them.

"All this may seem very trivial to you. But to me it is deadly serious. My husband is a good man, and true blue, but the best of men get their fill of some things, and I'm afraid that he is getting his fill of my ideas on the booze question. So it all means a great deal to me.

"Am I right, or wrong, in feeling the way I do? What would you do? "HESTER."

All right, Gang. Let's get into this riot.

What'll Hester do?

Shall she learn to toss 'em down—

Or shall she stay the way she is?

How necessary to human happiness is drinking?

And who's the real Smart Guy? The fellow who has to have a cocktail to start the evening?

Or the one who can get a bang out of life on his own power?

Prizes Bad for Winner, but Fine Boost for Losers, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Panning prize winners is a popular pastime.

It must have started long ago at the first Prettiest Baby contests, where naturally no one was satisfied with the award but the winner's proud mamma.

Bathing beauty prize winners are always a dud. The public protests that one of the many who did not win was much prettier.

Just now literary circles are in a boil over the Nobel Prize award to Sinclair Lewis.

Movie fans have a mad on because they do not agree that Norma Shearer deserved the prize for the best performance of the year.

Prize winning, it seems, is a bad break for the winner, but a fine boost for all the others, who in protest are praised far beyond their worth.

Love's Reawakening -:- Continuation of Love's Awakening

Plans for Mary's First Party Near Completion

Lillian laughed delightedly at Mary's naive question as to what I meant by my reference to cadets at the dancing party I was giving for my husband's pretty young niece. Mary flushed hotly at the laugh and Lillian made hasty amends.

"Don't be offended, child," she said. "I didn't mean to bait you. I was simply glad to know you weren't too preoccupied to sit up and take notice when fascinating young men were mentioned. 'Breathes there a girl with soul so dead, she never to herself hath said, "There'll be West Point cadets at my party."'"

She finished her atrocious paraphrase with another comfortable little laugh, but Mary had regained her poise by this time, and laughed lightly with her.

"I'm as curious as a 10-year-old about everything," she said. "And now that Noel's off my mind—I've been so worried about him—I can go on and enjoy myself with a clear conscience. I warn you, I'm going to ask 10,000,000 questions. And oh! Will you let me help plan things? I don't want to butt in, but—I've never had a party before, you know, and I'm just plum crazy."

I was nearer tears than smiles as I leaned over and kissed her, there was so much unconscious pathos in her plaint. And I wondered worriedly whether this party we had planned were not too juvenile for her. Yet her training for future stardom in Philip Veritzen's organization had isolated her and left her without friends or even acquaintances of her own age.

"Of course you shall plan it all, dear child," I said. "It is your party. There's only one thing which worries me." I hesitated.

"Tell me, quick. Nothing ought to worry you," she said impulsively.

"It's just this," I said slowly. "I'd like to give you a regular party, dinner and dance at one of what you'd call the spiffiest places in town. But there are these objections. The other girls are all preparatory school girls. I want them to have a chance to dance longer than an hour after the theater and—after midnight—I do not believe Mrs. Underwood—or the other mothers—would approve of having their young daughters at a supper club until the small hours of the morning. Yet——"

"'Yet me no yets'" Mary parodied laughing. "Can't you realize Auntie Madge, that I don't want a sophisticated, grown-up party. I'll have plenty of time for them. What I've never had is a school holiday party such as this one. I'm not so much older than Marion, after all. Won't you plan things accordingly?"

"I'll be very glad to do just that, Mary," I said gratefully. "You don't know how relieved I am. Now we'll go into an executive committee of the whole, and really plan things."

Mary flopped down at my feet and tucked her slender legs under her.

"This is the way I've dreamed it," she said, and I think Lillian psychically was aware of the lump in my throat and diverted my mind from the contemplation of Mary's former loneliness.

"You've forgotten something, Madge," my friend said didactically, and when I looked up inquiringly, she explained with twinkling eyes,—

"You haven't told her about the cadets."

"Oh! never mind them now," Mary said hastily, but I laughed and told her of Mr. Underwood's plan to invite two West Point cadets of his acquaintance to the party.

"They're from the West," I explained, "too far away to get home for the holidays. He thought they would enjoy the party, and, on the other hand they would provide the extra men. I understand no modern dancing party is a success unless there are more men than girls."

"Right you are," Mary assured me enthusiastically. "Mr. Cameron will be another extra man, won't he?"

"He'll be rated that way," I said, "unless he displaces one of the four Yale freshmen who, with Marion and her three preparatory school friends, make up the party."

"If any of those girls show any signs of preferring that conceited sap to an honest to goodness Yale boy, I'll take 'em over my knee," Mary asserted belligerently.

"I don't think you'll have to do any disciplining, except in your own direction, Mary," Lillian said drily. "If I gauge the young man correctly, he will let the schoolgirls severely alone, but he will be your shadow."

Mary flushed. "He'd better not be," she said darkly, but I caught an interested sparkle in her eyes.

"We can deal with that problem when the dance is on," I said briskly. "Just now we must plan where we'll have it."

"How about here in the hotel?" Lillian interposed quietly.

I looked at her dubiously.

"There aren't any dances given here nowadays," she said, "but the dining room was once a ball room and has one of the finest dancing floors in the city. You know it is in two sections, and the rear part of it, shut off by screens, is used only when there are a lot of conventions in the city. But I'm sure they would fix it up for us, so that we could have dinner there, a practical private room as it were. We could enter it through the library and that passage back of the office, so we wouldn't be in the public view except in the elevators. Then the regular dining room closes at 8 o'clock, which would give them time to get the floor waxed before we came back from the theater. And there's a small balcony at one end of the orchestra."

"Oh-h!" Mary gurgled. "Decorations, orchestra, waxed floor. Pinch me, somebody, so I can see if I'm awake. I'm sure I must be dreaming."

But even as Lillian and I laughed we looked at each other with foreboding eyes. If we could only keep the child from awakening to unhappiness which we were afraid Philip Veritzen was planning for her!

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Excessive oiliness of the skin is caused by eating too much fat, especially rich pastries. Drink more water and eat green salads. The skin is an eliminating organ; when it is extremely oily it is not in normal condition.

Mix two tablespoonfuls of almond meal with the top cream from the milk bottle until a paste the consistency of whipped cream is formed. You will have a superior face pack, one that will do away with roughness of the skin and which will clear blackheads from the pores. Let remain on until the mass begins to flake. Bathe with warm water and finish with a quick tip-tapping with a heavy skin food.

To the misguided lady who, believing that curves are gaining in favor, toddles about minus a brassiere of which her bulging anatomy has need, we wish to suggest that quivering flesh, boldly outlined under thin chiffons and georgettes, is most distinctly not pretty. Another girl who needs a calling down is the one who wriggles her hips when she walks. They both belong to the showoff type, a prominent sister of the cult being the girl who struts on the sands in an abbreviated bathing suit instead of keeping herself decently covered with a beach coat.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, December 12

This day's astral mutations may be manifest in the interesting breaking up of an old congestion and long-thwarting situations, to make way for a fairly fortunate reign of progress. This, however, will be in practical application of these solid prospects to one's own affairs, rather than in employment. Property, mining, agriculture and independent labor and industry should thrive. But elderly persons may suffer some physical mishap unless careful.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which stubborn old obstructions to success may be removed. It is a time for pushing in one's own affairs rather than for employers. Personal industry, labor and initiative should result in stabilizing long-lagging fortunes.

A child born on this day should be practical, resourceful and industrious and should attain a solid status on its own initiative rather than in employment of others.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Beauty of the Word Christmas

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it incorrect to write "Xmas" instead of "Christmas" on Christmas cards? A friend of mine said that she thought she remembered seeing this in your column—that she thinks that you advised against "Xmas." Did you? R.

I most enthusiastically and vociferously do suggest the writing out of that wondrous word Christmas. It is such a beautiful word, so full of sublime suggestion of the sacred and holy season that I can see no reason for abbreviating it. If you are a reader of my column you will realize that always I am against abbreviations, and especially so when they take from the word the flavor that should be in it.

Of course, I realize that the X has the old significance of the cross and the general idea of Christianity. But the haste that is evident generally when people write "Xmas," does not register cordiality, to my mind.

And the same charming custom of avoiding abbreviation, extends, too, to the word "and" in the union of Christmas and New Year's. Instead of writing the sign of "and" & it is vastly better to spell out the word. Therefore, send "Greetings for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

Costly Ornaments and Good Taste

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me if it is proper to wear bracelets over the gloves when dressed formally? I have two beautiful ones and I want them to show. F. J.

It is best form to wear the bracelet under the gloves, and to depend on showing their beauty when you take off your gloves.

Decidedly Bad Form

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it a breach of etiquette at present to have one's elbows on the table while eating? ARTHUR.

Yes.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

There Is Danger Lurking in Use of Family Towels

Everybody has an instinctive feeling that there are dangers in using a common towel. The fact is so commonly recognized that it hardly seems necessary to discuss the subject. Yet the common towel continues to be used and is an ever-present danger to health.

DR. COPELAND

Since the study of bacteriology was first undertaken, public health officials have carried on campaigns against the use of one hand towel by many individuals. In almost every public building may now be found a means of getting an individual towel, soap and drinking cup. This is well.

It was only recently that I noted an article in the American Journal of Public Health on the "Hygiene of the Towel." It described a series of studies made to determine the extent to which infectious bacteria, or germs, invaded the towel in common use. It related what occurred when such towels were used by more than one person.

The experiments were made with three types of towels—Turkish, huck and paper towels. It was found that the Turkish variety, because of its loose, flexible threads and rough but pliable exterior, is capable of removing larger quantities of the visible dirt.

It is a well-known fact that the skin, especially the skin of the hands, is one of the most common agents for spreading infectious diseases. Much used doorknobs, the common utensils of public and private use, all carry many varieties of these dangerous organisms.

It is only too clear how dangerous is the practice of using a towel that others have used. Most people today are careful in this matter. But there are always those careless persons who forget the dangers, or persons who are ignorant of them.

It is only too true that repeated drying on an individual towel is not a good sanitary practice. Most of the disease-producing bacteria, even though they are in a dry state, will remain alive on a towel for 24 hours and longer. It is, therefore, a constant source of danger. And, moreover, a person's hands may become reinfected by the organisms left on the towel by a prior use.

Whether it is for drying the face, the hands or the entire body, an individual single towel is the wisest precaution against infection of any sort. In the home, the family laundry may mount up, but there will be fewer doctor's bills in the long run. You just cannot afford to take chances, and should provide absolutely clean towels and wash cloths.

Answers to Health Queries

R. L. S. Q.—What causes enlarged veins in the hands? I have had a goiter operation and have been told that my heart is not quite normal. Would these disturbances have any bearing on the condition in question?

A.—They may. Have your doctor advise you, since he is familiar with the underlying conditions.

A. D. R. Q.—What can be done for head noises? I have been treated without results.

A.—This disturbance may come from several different things: A catarrhal condition, high blood pressure or nervousness may be at the source. If there is any tendency to catarrh it should be cleared up first of all.

Household Hints

A comfortable height for all kitchen working apparatus means comfort to the cook.

A wooden potato masher is an excellent utensil for creaming butter and sugar. Mix cake batter with a large wooden spoon, it becomes light much sooner.

When one has several house guests remaining for several meals it is often as unnecessary as it is expensive to lay a clean napkin at the place of each meal. Here a little box of paper stickers comes in handy. Paste one neatly in the corner of the napkin and write the owner's initials on it. Each napkin will be easily identified by this method.

LEWIS STUDIES NEW MAIN ST.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Sinclair Lewis, red-haired author from Minnesota, who last night received the Nobel prize for literature for 1930 before a brilliant gathering presided over by King Gustav, was studying "Main Street" of the northland at close hand today.

The Sauk Centre strife and Mrs. Lewis is expected to remain in Sweden for the greater part of the pre-holiday season. The affable, ear-gaining American, reared among the American Swedes in Minnesota, already has gained wide popularity with the natives.

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—With the Nobel peace prize for 1929 in his possession, former United States Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg prepared today for return to The Hague to resume his duties as judge of the permanent court of international justice.

Boy Given $20,000 For Collision Hurts

Adolphi Beel, 14, son of Vincent and Mary Beel, of Dresden way, was awarded a verdict of $20,000 and his parents awarded $2,000 against the Ward Baking Company, in Common Pleas Court, for injuries to the boy in a traffic collision.

Landslide Delays Train From N. Y.

A landslide at Cassandra, near Cresson, on the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, delayed the westbound New York-Cleveland Express two hours early today. The locomotive was replaced after it struck a huge boulder.

3 Meals a Day for 4 Cost $10.42 a Week

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Three square meals daily for four healthy adults for a week for a total cost of $10.42! An experiment is described by a magazine for social workers. Delicacies prepared the meals. The materials were purchased in the poor districts. Three social workers making the test gained weight, the other maintained the same weight.

Hire Jobless Actors As Fascist Boosters

BERLIN.—(INS.)—Jobless actors in Germany have found a profitable sideline. Their job is to mingle with crowds in cafes and places where politics is talked and boost fascism. Hitler is said to believe that with their smooth manners, good diction and persuasive tongues, actors make first-class spellbinders.

Gypsies Arrested In School Battle

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Police arrested a large number of gypsies, charging that they wounded gendarmes who attempted to put gypsy children between 6 and 14 years of age into schools.

TAKES WHEAT FOR DEBTS

TORONTO, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—William Wrigley, Jr., Company, Limited, has decided all money owing it in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta from December 12, 1930, to May 1, 1931, is to be accumulated to purchase wheat for delivery in May, 1931, P. A. Ross, president of the company, announced.

He said the company proposes to take wheat in exchange for its products, declaring it, rather than take cash out of Western Canada, will leave its money there in the region's own coin—wheat. Ross said the company believes wheat at 65 cents a bushel is cheap and it will make money by holding it indefinitely if necessary.

Two Boys Arrested For Stealing Auto

Two boys, one 12, and the other 13, were in the custody of Juvenile Court today for the alleged theft of an automobile which they drove through the front of a Madison avenue shoe repair shop last night. The car, owned by J. P. Jones, of 3840 East street, was stolen.

LINDSEY RESTS CASE ON BOOK

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Bishop William T. Manning may bring a copy of Judge Ben B. Lindsey's book on companionate marriage with him when he appears in court tomorrow at the trial of the former Denver judge on disorderly charges, it was learned today.

Lindsey has requested that the bishop bring with him the book, with certain marked passages, and two letters and a telegram which were sent to the bishop last Saturday by the former judge, the day before Bishop Manning attacked companionate marriage in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Manning's verbal barrage against Lindsey and companionate marriage brought the fracas in which Lindsey was ejected from the church after demanding to reply to Manning.

Lindsey said he wanted the book and messages introduced as evidence.

Golden Gate Bridge Bids Asked Feb. 15

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Directors of the project announced today bids would be received February 15 on construction of the Golden Gate Bridge, connecting San Francisco with Marin County. A $35,000,000 bond issue was voted last month to finance the project. Work is expected to start in the spring.

Johnstown Gets New Baking Firm

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Among corporations granted charters yesterday was the Growtner Baking Company of Johnstown, formed with a capital of $100,000. A. Gandolph, Johnstown, is the treasurer, and the other incorporators are G. W. Growner, Indiana, and J. H. Pond, Johnstown.

PETITION ASKS CASH FOR VETS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(Universal.)—A petition to force action on a score of bills for immediate cash redemption of World War adjusted service compensation certificates was being circulated in the House today.

Representative Wright Patman (Dem.), of Texas, started the movement by placing a petition on the desk of Speaker Longworth. Should a majority sign, it would force a vote on the floor of the House.

At the same time, Representative Hamilton Fish (Rep.), of New York, sent a letter to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, asking whether he would approve legislation raising one-fourth of the face value of the certificates.

Secretary Mellon recently wrote Senator Vandenburg (Rep.), of Michigan, in opposition to the cash payment plan now, though Fish said he gathered from Mellon's statement that he might favor a plan for partial redemption from the sinking fund of $750,000,000, created to meet the certificates when they fall due.

TO BREAK UP A COLD IN A JIFFY

Feel Like a New Person In Just a Little While

People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

KARCIS AND L. FLANAGAN IN BIG GAME

ANOTHER TRIBUTE TO the prominence of Carnegie Tech in American football and to the high ranking of some of the Tartan gridders is contained in the fact that two of the Skibo stars have been selected from a wide field of available talent to play in a special post-season game in the East. They are John Karcis, of Monaca, fullback, and Latham Flanagan, of Buchannon, W. Va., end, both of whom played their final game for the Plaid against W. & J. last Saturday will be graduated next spring.

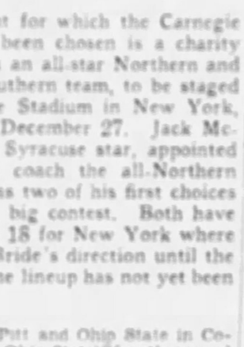
John Karcis

The event for which the Carnegie players have been chosen is a charity game between an all-star Northern and an all-star Southern team, to be staged at the Yankee Stadium in New York, on Saturday, December 27. Jack McBride, former Syracuse star, appointed to select and coach the all-Northern eleven, named Karcis and Flanagan as two of his first choices and invited them to take part in the big contest. Both have accepted and will leave on December 18 for New York where daily practice will be held under McBride's direction until the day of the game. The remainder of the lineup has not yet been announced.

THE BASKETBALL GAME between Pitt and Ohio State in Columbus next Saturday will be preceded by Ohio State's fourth annual rules meeting, to which the coaches and players of all colleges and high schools have been invited. Two of the speakers will be Dr. H. C. Carlson, Pitt coach, and Calvin Bolster, the local official, who has been selected with Frank Lane, of St. Xavier College in Cincinnati, to handle the game.

Dr. Carlson and Harold G. Olsen, the Ohio State coach, will discuss "Basketball Technique," and Bolster and Lane will speak on "Knotty Problems in Basketball Officiating." Bolster ranks not only as one of the leading basketball officials of this section but is recognized generally as one of the best in the game. A high compliment to his ability and fairness is paid by Coach Olsen, of Ohio State, who, on the occasion of every game between Ohio State and Pitt, makes a special request that Bolster be appointed as one of the officials.

THE GREAT PLAY made by Frank Carideo, Notre Dame field general, in calling for a forward pass on first down near Southern California's goal line, when all the Trojans were set for a line attack, is still being discussed as one of the smartest maneuvers ever pulled on a football field.



Greasy Neale

The unexpected movement gave the Irish their first touchdown, took the starch out of their opponents and turned the game into a rout. It was a brainy play, beyond question, yet Carideo wasn't the first to pull it. Greasy Neale, selected to succeed Ira Rodgers as head coach at West Virginia next season, got away with the same thing in this city nine years ago.

IT WAS WHILE coaching Washington and Jefferson that Neale pulled the play here, and it enabled the Presidents to defeat Pitt by a score of 7 to 0 in their game at Forbes Field on November 12, 1921. Neale had instructed his players to spring it if they got near Pitt's goal line, and they worked it to perfection, just as Carideo did last Saturday. It wasn't first down on the 1921 occasion, but it was the same unexpected play. With the ball about 10 yards from Pitt's goal, and the Panthers braced to repulse a line plunge, Kopf ran wide at end, took a forward pass from Brenckert and carried the leather into pay dirt for a touchdown and victory. The Panthers were caught completely off their guard and there wasn't a player near Kopf when he plucked the ball out of the air.

FOLLOWING THE WITHDRAWAL of the Cleveland Rosenblums from the American League, the major organization of professional basketball, because of the refusal of the league directors to lift the ban they had placed on the pivot play, the star players of the Rosenblum team have been sold to other outfits. Toledo gets the cream of the quintet, acquiring Lapchick, Barry and Dehnert, former Celtic stars who won two championships for Cleveland. Husta was sold to Fort Wayne, now leading the league.

Toledo will also retain Cookie Cunningham, former Ohio State player, who made a fine record with the Rosies during the latter part of last season. The club, now stronger than ever, made a great showing last winter under the management of Pip Koehler, former Morry star. Toledo will take over the entire exhibition arrangements of the Rosies, and its interests hereabouts will be looked after by J. J. Freund, Jr., who served the Rosies in that capacity during the last five years.

FOOTBALL IS NOT the only sport in which coaching changes are unusually numerous. Baseball coaches in the major league also are being shifted around to a far greater extent than is generally the case between seasons.

Jack McCallister

The latest change in that direction is reported from Boston, where Shano Collins, the new Red Sox pilot, has dropped Jack McCallister, former Cleveland manager and signed Rudy Hulswitt, one-time shortstop to take his place as coach and chief aide.

WHEN THE PITTSBURGH club, at the New York meetings this week, or later, succeeds in singing a new coach to succeed Max Carey it will add another change to a growing list. Charley O'Leary was dropped by the Yanks and went to the Cubs. Jimmy Burke was let go by the Cubs and hooked up with the Yanks. Since the Pirates parted with Carey, the Phils have released Fred Hunter and the Tigers have dismissed Benny Meyer. In making the latest shift in Boston, Manager Collins says he will give McCallister a scouting job if he cares to take it. Hulswitt has been doing scouting duty for the Red Sox for the last seven years.

AN ECHO OF the days of all-star professional football in this district comes in a letter which Dr. William Farrar, Pittsburgh dentist, has just received from Bill Church, once famous Princeton star and all-America tackle in 1896, who was captain and coach of the great Homestead L. A. C. pro team 30 years ago.

Church has been in the alfalfa business for many years, operating a mill in Oklahoma City, but on September 19 last fire destroyed the mill and Bill suffered a loss of $65,000. He started to organize a new company to erect a new and more modern plant, but has abandoned that plan for the present and has gone into the life insurance business.

THOUGH ALWAYS CLOSE friends, Dr. Farrar and Church were opponents as members of rival teams here in the old days of the all-star teams. After 1898 the late W. C. Temple, chief promoter of the D. C. & A. C. eleven, left that organization and sponsored a new team of stars, playing under the name of Homestead L. A. C. with Church as the playing head. Dr. Farrar, previously a star guard at the University of Pennsylvania, remained loyal to D. C. & A. C., and continued

MONTGOMERY, W. Va., Dec. 11.—(A.P.)—C. H. Martin, president of New River State School, announced last night that D. K. (Ken) Shroyer, football coach, had signed a renewal contract for a period of three years. Shroyer has been coach at New River for three years.

DRAFT DECISION UP TODAY

MIDDIES JOIN CAMPAIGN TO SELL DUCATS

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(A.P.)—The Army-Navy football game Saturday is going to be a sellout if there is any means within the powers of the various people who are handling ticket sales in New York to make it one.

With a few thousand good seats still to be sold, one of the biggest selling stunts ever to be tried is scheduled to take place with a grand windup when the Navy team, arriving here tonight, joins the ballyhoo parade.

PARADE TODAY

A parade up Broadway, in which a 300-piece Navy band and detachments from various Army and Navy units around New York will take part, is scheduled to start the program. The parade will end at Forty-sixth street and Broadway, where a concert by the band is scheduled to stimulate sales made from the 45 Army trucks which will be in the line. The Navy team is due to arrive in the midst of the demonstration and to take a brief part in it.

Whether or not the game is a complete sellout, the prospects are that it will be highly successful as a means of raising money for the benefit of the unemployed. And as a great football spectacle, the outlook is even better. Reports from the two practice fields indicate that an offensive battle is to be expected rather than a waiting game, and that it may result in a duel in which each team tries to outscore its rival.

Navy's brilliant offense, which appeared in its victory over Pennsylvania last Saturday, has continued to click. The Middie regulars have progressed regularly through their "B" team in scrimmage, while Army's regulars have not had much success in stopping the Plebes, who are equipped with Navy plays. The Army scoring machine, which functioned so efficiently in winning the Cadets a high place among Eastern teams, also has worked wherever it has been tried, both by Army regulars and Navy reserves.

RADIO FANS TO AID

Anyone listening in on the Army-Navy football game broadcast Saturday over KDKA, WCAE, WJAS and the combined networks of the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System will be asked to contribute a dollar to the Salvation Army Radio Fund for the unemployed. Contributions should be mailed to the Salvation Army Radio Fund, Philadelphia.

Basketball Rules Quiz

PLAY NO. 10

In a game between Creighton and Mississippi, Sheridan, of Creighton, has been awarded the ball out-of-bounds by the referee. He throws to the backboard and the ball goes through the hoop.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER

The ball is taken to the center of the floor for a toss and the basket does not count. If the ball had missed the basket it would have been in play just the same as if thrown into the court at any other spot. There is no penalty other than related.

Sharkey, Schmeling Bout Closing Denied

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Damon Runyon, in charge of milk fund matches, today denied that Jack Sharkey, of Boston, had been signed to meet Max Schmeling for the 1931 milk fund. Runyon said that Sharkey had shown willingness to meet the German, but that no definite agreement had been made.

SKIBO LEADERS NAMED

Byron Treon and Paul Zeigler have been jointly assigned to the varsity football management at Carnegie Tech next season.

Nick Polis Stops Tarzan in First

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Dec. 11.—It took Nick Polis, of Aliquippa, only 23 seconds to knock out Charley Tarzan, of Rochester, Pa., in the scheduled 10-round main bout of Ray Eberle's opening fight show here last night. Tarzan crumpled up before Polis' two-fisted attack at the start, and it took almost 20 minutes to revive him after the bout was over.

Frank Porto, Glassport, took the decision over Bobby Belford in the six-round semi-final.

Nick Adams, New Castle, defeated Jack O'Brien, Aliquippa, in one of the best heavyweight fights ever seen here in six rounds.

Eddie Yarocz, Monaca, knocked out Irish Malanchy in 1 minute and 15 seconds of the first round.

BENEFITS PLANNED

Amateur boxing and wrestling bouts and a battle royal and vaudeville will be staged in the armory at Coraopolis tomorrow night for the benefit of the jobless and destitute of the community. A benefit football game will be played Sunday afternoon between the Coraopolis Independents and the Ambridge Mystics. Many former college stars will play for Coraopolis.

Eastern Gridiron Officials Dine Here

Members of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Referees' Association, will hold their annual banquet at the Keystone A. C. tonight. The tip-off is that a swell time will be had by all.

NOTICE, MAJESTICS

All members of the Majestic football team are requested to report for practice this evening. The Majestics and McKeesport Olympics will clash for the Conference at Rainbow Gardens, McKeesport, on Sunday.

VETERANS LAND BERTHS; DEALS PENDING

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(A.P.)—With trading between the major leagues and the big minors at a standstill, while their representatives try to iron out the remaining details relative to a new draft agreement, most of the news coming from the major league meetings here has originated with a busy band of baseball's old timers who have been seeking jobs and getting them.

Some sort of a decision on the draft question was expected today as the minor league committee of nine and the major league representatives were to get together again after reporting back to their meetings on the progress made in yesterday's conference. It was understood that a joint meeting of the major leagues was to be held last night to hear the reports of the proposition made by the minors.

NO ANNOUNCEMENT

Although no official announcement was made after yesterday's conference, it was believed that the committees had agreed on a suitable draft price, but the minors were holding out for their proposition that they should be allowed to keep young players for two or three years before they can be drafted, and the majors want to have 15 men out on option for three years instead of eight men for two years.

The meeting of the National and American Leagues were given over to discussions of various subjects ranging from the screening of parks to curb home runs to the "chain store" system without taking any action.

But down in the hotel lobbies business was moving briskly with veterans transacting most of it. Two former Athletics catchers, Wally Schang and Cy Perkins, found places with new teams, Schang going to Detroit and Perkins to the New York Yankees. Joe Dugan, former Yankee third baseman, also signed up with the Tigers as utility man. George Burns and Chief Bender, two outstanding stars of former days, talked business with John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, and it was expected that they would be hired, Burns as coach and Bender as scout.

JOB SEEKERS FAIL

Other job seekers were old Jack Quinn, who hoped to catch on with Brooklyn, and George Sisler, of the Boston Braves, and Lu Blue, of the St. Louis Browns, both veteran first basemen. It was understood that both had been given permission to make the best arrangements possible for their services, but neither landed a new place.

Much conversation concerning possible trades among major league clubs was passed back and forth, but no deals were completed. The Chicago White Sox were the center of most of the talk. Cleveland offered the White Sox Lew Fonseca in exchange for Willie Kamm without getting any response, while Washington sought to obtain Outfielder Carl Reynolds from Chicago. Prospects were better in this line, as Manager Donie Bush showed signs of interest in obtaining Pitcher Bump Hadley, one of the players offered, and an outfielder to boot. The Senators offered Joe Kuhel, young first baseman, or Buddy Myer, veteran infielder.

Fields Beats Pirrone—Defeat by Shea Stuns LaBarba

LA BARBA, PIRRONE LOSE IN CLEVELAND

FIDEL VICTIM OF HALEY'S DECISION

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 11.—Two swarthy young Italian featherweights battled through 10 ordinary rounds in the main bout of the Cleveland News' annual Christmas Fund show before a capacity and record crowd of 11,325 cash customers in Public Hall here last night, only to have an Irish referee, Patsy Haley, imported from New York especially for the occasion, nullify the result of their labors by raising aloft the arm of Eddie Shea, of Chicago, in token of victory at the finish. Shea's opponent, Fidel La Barba, of Los Angeles, resigned flyweight champion of the world, won seven of the 10 rounds, with Shea taking only the fifth and tenth and the third even.

Last summer, at League Park here, the same Haley figured it out in his quaint manner that Tommy Freeman, a home boy, had outpointed Young Jack Thompson, and, accordingly, stripped the latter of the world welterweight championship, whereas the newspapermen and other spectators were virtually unanimous in declaring that Freeman had taken a tasty trimming.

PUT UP TAME FIGHT

The La Barba-Shea thing last night was a tame enough affair, with the crowd striking up the anvil chorus for action in the latter rounds. It was so for two reasons, Haley's slowness in breaking up clinches and the fact that La Barba, who has a lot of class, was entirely too smart for the rugged and hard-hitting Shea and made Eddie fight the way he wanted him to throughout. This consisted in the main of keeping Shea backed up against the ropes, while Fidel tied him up in clinches there and worked his own arms free to belt him cleanly to the body and head. At times, Shea managed to do some heavy counter-punching, but his spurts always were short-lived. Fidel could take the play away from him anytime he chose.

In the final round, La Barba, with his left eye, which had been cut late in the third round, puffed and discolored, played safe, figuring, no doubt, that the fight was in for him, and permitted Shea to make a belated scoring rally in which Eddie did his best work. However, Fidel's margin of superiority was so wide as to render the decision of Referee Haley a joke. Shea had his right eye cut in the fourth round and La Barba was cut under the mouth along with his eye injury. La Barba weighed 124¾ pounds and Shea 126.

FIELDS EASY VICTOR

In the 10-round semi-final, Jackie Fields, of Los Angeles, former welterweight champion of the world, who was an Olympic games teammate of La Barba in 1924, proved entirely too fast and clever for young Paul Pirrone, of Cleveland, who recently showed to good advantage in a bout in Pittsburgh, and won hands down in every round. Fields even slugged it out at times with Pirrone and took the latter's hardest blows with no signs of distress. Paul bled badly from the nose and mouth almost throughout and put in the evening absorbing a boxing lesson. James (Red) Mason, dean of boxing managers in Pittsburgh, was Fields' chief second, acting for Jack Kearns and Ray Alvis, who handle him.

Jimmy Dunn, manager of Johnny Kilbane when the latter was featherweight champion of the world, helped Joe Lewis, Pirrone's manager, in the corner. Fields weighed 146¾ pounds, and Pirrone 148¾.

Matt Brock, former boxer, refereed this one.

It remained for short, stumpy Johnny Farr, of Cleveland, to furnish the surprise of the all-star card when he laced Ray Miller, Chicago's left hook star, in the first 10-rounder. Miller, who came in five pounds overweight at 138, compared with Farr's 131¼, and had a lot of height and reach on Johnny, started out like a winner, but Farr stood up under a shellacking for four rounds and then completely turned the tables, and Miller, who once stopped Jimmy McLarnin, was glad to hear the final bell.

ONE KNOCKOUT SCORED

Although the principals in all of the bouts were offered bonuses ranging up to $500 for scoring knockouts, only one bout ended in that manner, the first, in which Marshall Couette, of Cleveland, 124¾, quit to Martin Zuniga, of Los Angeles. Mike Keller, of Cleveland, 139¾, outpunched Harold Krill, also of Cleveland, 142, in the second four-rounder, and Mickey Cohen, of Cleveland, 118, who boxes Jimmy Thomas, of the Hill, in the second bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, lost the six-round preliminary to Ollie Bartlett, a tough club fighter from Detroit, 116¾. Mickey handily outboxed Ollie for the first two rounds, but he was lured into slugging exchanges and got the works when Bartlett opened up on him with his swinging attack.

Eddie Cantor, the comedian, who is appearing in a Cleveland theater this week, pulled some of his gags in the ring before the main bout, and a three-round novelty bout between two 6-year-old Negro boys, named Ike and Mike, but speedily nicknamed Amos and Andy by the fans, entertained before the Fields-Pirrone battle.

MANY LOCALS ATTEND

Announcement was made that the gross receipts were $38,668, and the net profit of the show was $19,800, a record.

The affair was well handled and an artistic as well as a financial success, through the efforts of Ed Bang, sports editor of the News, who annually makes the matches and attends to the management of the show.

A goodly representation of Pittsburgh fans made the trip in two special cars over the P. & L. E. Railroad, returning immediately after the show. They included: John Hernon, Joe Mazer and Jules Beck, of Motor Square Garden; Police Inspector Charles Faulkner, Jimmy Rooney, Phil Yuritch, Frank Nathan, Frank Graham, Oscar Rappaport, Tom Tracey, Bob White, Ted Abel, Ben Loeffler, Tom Goslin, Frank Canbest, Milton Jaffe, Ben Serbin, Sam Margolis, Pete Hiland, J. Petrolio, Frank Petrolio, M. Schwartz, Ernest Peterson, Ed Lutz, Joseph Bohn, George Metzlier, Charles Cahill, John Duke, Jacob Schwartz, Luke Hannah, Charles Guest, Bob Woods, Bob Levy, Harry Mellon, Sam Grenet, Johnny McGarvey, John Callan, Martin Burke, Gus Camp, William Jones, George Bowman, Lawrence Kline, Al Forney, Vic List, Joe Kaplan, Sam Lakin, Earl McDonald, Sam Silverman, Matt Cavanaugh, Harry Zanisky, Sam Leff, H. G. McCullough, Jim McGinley, Mike Verosky, George McDonough and Chappie Shapiro.

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The return of Saul Adler, former star center of the original Coffey Club, to Pittsburgh for a short visit with friends brought about an informal basketball reunion at Columbus Temple during the Fintex-Ellwood City County League game. No less than six professional stars, among them three of Adler's old teammates and two of them his former opponents, were among the interested spectators.

Buckets Sandomire, now coach of Fintex; Dave Mervis, coach of the Y. M. H. A. Reserves; Buck Gefsky, coach of the Y. M. H. A. varsity; Moon Klinzing, recently signed by Fintex, and Leo Mackey, one of the greatest basketball stars turned out in this section and now rated among the best referees in the district, were among those who greeted the former Coffey star.

FORMER TEAMMATES

Sandomire, Gefsky and Mervis were former teammates of Adler on the old Coffey club quintet, while Mackey opposed him as a member of the Lafayettes, who operated on the South Side, and Klinzing was his foe as a star for the Morrys, for years Greater Pittsburgh professional champions.

With the exception of Klinzing, the entire group now is in retirement insofar as active playing is concerned. Klinzing still rates with the best in local professional circles and is expected to add considerable strength to Fintex in the County League race.

Klinzing makes his debut as a Fintex regular tonight when his team meets the Y. M. H. A. on the latter's floor in a non-league contest.

GOOD LEAGUE GAMES

Tonight's program of league games offers the followers of basketball a varied schedule of contests. In the County League, the Charleroi Merchants are the attraction of the J. J. Mieles at Columbus Temple. The Charleroi Merchants made a good showing against Fintex on the same floor last Tuesday night and they hope to upset Artie Hoffman and his mates tonight. The Merchants had an off night in their first appearance at Columbus Temple, but they look for an improvement tonight.

Two games are scheduled in the West Penn League, the Hoyles appearing on the Schneider floor, while the Penn Five is the attraction of the North Side Buicks. North Boroughs is at Homewood in a Wagner League game, while Westinghouse plays at Tarentum in the County Amateur League. The Pittsburghers play at Manchester Community in the Greater Pittsburgh loop; P. N. A. is at the L. J. Hannans in the Metropolitan League; Mt. Troy opposes Faith Chapel in the Pittsburgh Church League, and the Butler Paulists, coached by Armand Cingolani, former Duquesne University flash, entertains the Hub Club in a non-league game at Butler.

The Fintex and Mieles quints advanced another notch in the Allegheny County League race last night when they won handily. Fintex walloped Glassport, 50 to 22, while the Mieles beat Ellwood City, 38 to 18.

The Schneiders beat out St. Michaels, 33 to 28, and W. U. Hoyles tripped the Knickerbockers, 40 to 20, in a pair of fine West Penn League contests, while First Presbyterian added to its prestige by nosing out the Trinity Cathedral Royals, 24 to 21, in the Pittsburgh Senior Church League.

Goodwill bumped Caros, 32-17, in the Metropolitan League; Kingsley House nosed out Downtown Y, 34-33, in the Amateur League, and P. & A. Juniors beat out the Y. Panthers, 20-18, in the Junior League.

Fight Results

At Cleveland—Eddie Shea given decision over Fidel LaBarba, 10 rounds; Jackie Fields defeated Paul Pirrone, 10 rounds; Johnny Farr defeated Ray Miller, 10 rounds; Martin Zuniga knocked out Marshall Couette, 1 round; Mike Keller defeated Harold Krill, 2 rounds; Ollie Bartlett defeated Mickey Cohen, 6 rounds.

At Aliquippa, Pa.—Nick Pollo knocked out Charley Turner, 1 round. Frankie Porto defeated Bobby Bedford, 6 rounds; Nick Adams defeated Jack O'Brien, 6 rounds; Eddie Tarosa knocked out Irish Malarkey, 3 rounds.

At Tarentum—Frisky Kaufmann defeated Jackie Horner, 10 rounds; Red Bragan knocked out Tommy Burns, 2 rounds.

Mid-Atlantic Loop May Be Enlarged

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—A proposal to enlarge the Middle Atlantic League from an eight to a 10-club circuit is of such paramount importance, Charley Holloway, president of the Wheeling club, said last night that he has asked President Elmer Dailey, of the league, to call a meeting in Pittsburgh soon to act upon it.

Charles and Huntington have indicated their desire to join the league, Holloway said. The enlargement has the indorsement of the league rules committee, according to Holloway, a committee member.

Barney Dreyfuss Re-Elected Bucs' President

NEW YORK, Dec. 11. — Barney Dreyfuss was re-elected president of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club at the annual meeting of the directors held yesterday in Jersey City, the company having been incorporated under the laws of New Jersey.

Dr. Bertram Bernheim, of Baltimore, was electd a member of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the death earlier this year of Col. O. H. Hershman. Samuel W. Dreyfuss was re-elected vice president and treasurer and S. E Watters was re-electd secretary of the club. The other directors are Senator Frank J. Harris and Louis Bamberger, both of Pittsburgh.

HOLOHAN HELPS DUKES' RISE

By JESS CARVER

When it comes to passing about the credit for the splendid rise of Duquesne University in a football and athletic way, it seems to me that the Dukes are overlooking one of the principal reasons for the successes of the past four years.

I refer to John Holohan, the astute young graduate manager of athletics.

There is no denying that the coaching and manly influence of Elmer Layden has been of incalculable benefit. Layden is going to be a great coach, make no mistake about that, and the way he has turned out champion and near champion elevens at Duquesne during his reign here, from no better than ordinary material, has approached the marvelous.

The main trouble seems to be that Duke folks are taking Holohan too much for granted. He's in a tough spot—any graduate manager is—and he's been attending to his duties since his appointment to the position three years ago in such highly capable and efficient fashion, albeit quietly and without ostentation, that the student body, faculty and alumni are prone to forget him.

At the football banquet at the William Penn Tuesday evening he was not even called upon for a talk. Certainly, on such an occasion, the graduate manager should have been included among the list of speakers. Maybe it was because John didn't want to speak, but he should have been called upon anyway.

I'm not taking a rap at the Duquesne banquet or the committee in charge, for it was a fine affair, but I am saying that Duquesne needs to lay a few of its laurels at John's door, where they certainly are deserved.

SOUTH BANQUET TUESDAY

The South Side Business Men's Association will be host to the members of the South High football team at a banquet in the school auditorium next Tuesday night. Several county officials will attend the affair.

WILL YOU LOVE ME IN DECEMBER AS YOU DID IN MAY

DON'T blame your car if it won't start in winter as it did in warm weather. Give it a chance; give it Mobilgas!

What's more: the weather prophets predict an old-fashioned winter—the kind they used to have when the old songs were new. And Mobilgas is ready for it.

This modernized gasoline is made to start a cold motor on the coldest night—and to start it quicker. The same skill, experience and quality that go into Mobiloil Arctic are behind Mobilgas, the modernized gasoline. And all our pumps have it today.

You'll save on Mobilgas too. It will help avoid the battery-killing grind of the starter on zero nights. It will shorten the use of the choke and prevent the carburetor-flooding that thins oil to the danger point. And its price is that of regular gasoline.

Switch to winter Mobilgas for one cold night and let your car decide!

JACKETS ON ROAD

LOCAL SEXTET FACES BUSY FORTNIGHT

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Although they are not to play on home ice again until Friday, December 19, when London will appear at the Garden, the Yellow Jacket puckmen face an exceptionally busy fortnight.

The Jackets, under the direction of Coach Charles Reid, will leave tonight to do some International League campaigning in enemy territory. Tomorrow night they will meet the Tecumsehs in London, Ont., and on Sunday they will be the guests of the Olympics in Detroit.

The league-leading Bisons will provide the opposition for the local icemen in Buffalo next Tuesday, and the following night will find the Schooley skaters battling the Stars in Syracuse.

After rushing home to meet London, the Jackets will move on to Cleveland to renew hostilities with the Indians, on Saturday, December 20.

The local club is not particularly well fortified for such a long stiff test. Duke McCurry is lost to the team for three weeks with a broken rib, and Art Berlett and Mickey McGuire are not able to play at top speed because of injuries.

Last Tuesday evening, however, the Jackets were able to down Syracuse despite the fact that they were in even worse shape, due to Leo Reise's tardiness in arriving here from London. Roy D. Schooley, local president and manager, is confident that his men will be able to make their road trip a prosperity tour despite their handicaps.

Saturday—Pittsburgh Celtics at Mesta Machine; Union Switch at Pittsburgh Rovers; Crafton at Pierpoint Motors.

PANHANDLE LEAGUE.

Saturday—Herring at Bradley. Sunday—Finley Juniors at Heidelberg, 1:30; Bridgeport at Centerdale; Mediapolis at Gladden.

KEYSTONE LEAGUE.

Sunday—Shannon Finley at Morgan; Primrose at Bridgeville; Hays at Dunlevy.

MON-YOUGH LEAGUE.

Sunday—Greystones at Victory Hill; Fitz-Henry at Herminie; Mather at Mammoth; Vesta at Clarksville.

WEST PENN CUP.

Sunday—Gallatin at Cecil.

One cup tie and a host of league games should tickle the palate of the soccer fans this week end. The cup tie finds Gallatin and Cecil tangling in the cup eliminations at Cecil.

Three games will be pltyed in the Central League. The Celtics go to Mesta Machine, Union Switch clashes with Pittsburgh Rovers at Leslie Park, and Crafton hooks up with Pierpoint at Homewood.

Three big games are carded in the Keystone on Sunday. Shannon Fintex, which swamped Cecil last week, goes to Morgan to tackle Howard Mangus' team, and Hays meets Dunlevy up the river, while Primrose plays Bridgeville at the latter's grounds.

LEAVES $961,819

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Samuel Clay Hildreth, owner and trainer of thoroughbred horses, who died in September, 1929, left a net estate of $961,819. Gross assets were $1,031,062. Mrs. Mary E. Hildreth, his widow, was made residuary legatee.

to play with that team, along with Dr. Roy Jackson, Dr. Carl Williams, Charley Gelbert and others.

Church is well remembered by local fans as one of the stars of an eleven that ranked with the greatest professional team all time. Among the other famous players on the Homestead roster were George Brooke, Arthur Poe, Daff Gammons, Dave Fultz, Art Richardson, Pete Overfield, and three old Carlisle Indian stars in Art Miller and Bemus and Hawley Pierce.

Eddie Casey

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF the appointment of Eddie Casey to succeed Arnold Horween as head football coach at Harvard next season finally made good a rumor that had been in circulation for two years. It was reported that Horween would resign at the end of the 1928 campaign and that he would be succeeded by Casey, who had then been coaching the Harvard freshmen for three seasons, and a similar rumor came out of Cambridge after the fall of 1929. It develops that the dopesters had the right line on the identity of Horween's successor even though they were a trifle off on the date of the change. Casey, who coached first at Mt. Union College in Alliance, O., has all the requisites of a successful grid mentor in the major ranks, having added an impressive coaching record to a brilliant playing career. He has been backfield coach at Harvard for two years. In his playing days as a halfback at Harvard, Casey ranked with the best in the game. He was picked on Walter Camp's all-service teams in 1917 and on Camp's all-America at halfback in 1919. The other backfield all-America choices in the latter year were Bo McMillin, of Centre, at quarterback; Chick Harley, of Ohio State, at halfback, and Ira Rodgers, of West Virginia, at fullback.

Between Rounds

Ruby Lawless trims Gene Cardi, of Niles Bluffs, Pa., at Elk tomorrow night.

Larry Kaufman, of Louisville, will entertain Joe Bonito McKeesport heavyweight, at Philadelphia, in the main bout at Johnstown next Tuesday night.

Soldier Dundenski and Johnny Sill are due to work today from Detroit for their bouts at the Winter Garden tomorrow night. Dundenski beats Jackie Rodgers in the windup, sending Jackie's pedigree to the dog after his 10th arrival at the ring side. Sill, who was injured in his last appearance here, a knockout by Jackie Rodgers, is matched to meet Jimmy Hanley, of Detroit, in the semi-final.

George Franks, Homestead heavyweight, is working hard nightly at the local Y.M.C.A. in preparation for his bout with Jack Sharkey, leading contender for the Championship Ford Lewis there in Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Georgie will go on his regular schedule the evening before the match against the veteran Sharkey, but claims he was injured his last time out, in the same ring, by Ismael Rivera, the Cuban he was injured after which, on the Allen's Apple will for that reason was unable to get in top shape for Kerr to look for him. Sharkey will be in Kerr to indicate his self at Christner's express.

Irish Terrace Jordan knocks Eddie Sabatino out and Kid Kelly outs Lee Harvey in 12-round bouts in New York, while Leo Hayes escapes Bat Masters and Nick Vasos takes on Harry Kid Rose in bouts in Philadelphia.

Willie Davies, of Charleroi, and Midget Wolgast, Brownsville champion, will meet in a six-rounder bout in Toledo, Friday night of next week.

DOUBLE WINDUP IN TUBE CITY

McKeesport returns to the professional boxing schedule in Western Pennsylvania after a layoff of more than a month with a double windup card tonight, which Promoter Jim McGirr feels certain will draw out his best crowd of the year because of the interest being evinced in the home district talent competing.

Nick Perlick

Johnny Warner, of Clairton, meets Joey Dragon, of Cincinnati, in the 10-round main bout, with Nick Perlick, Glassport heavyweight, returning following an absence of several years to oppose Frank Novak, of the North Side, in the other 10-rounder.

Teddy Welsh, old McKeesport favorite, boxes Al Munro, Negro, of the Hill, in the second bout, and Steve Semich, of Homestead, and Don Frazier, of the Hill, are in the opener.

Etna Elks Stage Benefit Mitt Show

The Etna Elks Club staged an amateur boxing show for the benefit of the unemployed last night, and it proved a big success. Harry Seig, of St. Boniface Lyceum, beat Jack Rands, Willow A. C., in the best bout of the program. It was a four-rounder.

Eddie Zivic, Willow A. C., came through to win over Johnny Ungerman, St. Boniface Lyceum, while Anse Zilen, Ninth Ward Republican Club, won from Gene Judge, St. Boniface Lyceum.

Midget Golf for Cash Amateur Violation

TORONTO, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Anyone who plays in a miniature golf competition for cash prizes forfeits his amateur standing as a golfer, the Royal Canadian Golf Association ruled today.

ROCKNE, SICK AND TIRED, TO REST

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Seated on football's throne and gazing reflectively on all the trophies and testimonials of greatness he and his Notre Dame elevens have won, Knute Rockne today pondered: What price glory? What price success?

He was ill, physically and mentally weary, and wondered if it was worth it all. He was tired of football, tired of the plaudits of the crowds, and yearned to cast it all aside.

When the tumult died after yesterday's rousing receptions for the master coach and his team, back from their conquest of Southern California, Rockne held on until he could say a few words to the student body and the South Bend citizenry and then stumbled to bed.

"I wonder if it's all worth the while?" he mused. "It's all got me and I personally don't care when I see another football game again. I'm not complaining, understand me, but I'm a sick man and exhausted. My legs, which almost stopped me last fall because of infection, have swelled up again and the pains are getting worse and worse. I'm going to keep that date in New York Sunday and then I'm going to Rochester, Minn., for a thorough overhauling by the Mayo Brothers for two or three weeks."

JACKETS GET COURT

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 11.—For that the Waynesburg College home basketball games and wrestling matches this year would be cancelled because of lack of a floor was disclosed yesterday when college authorities were given assurance that the local state armory, Yellow Jacket home gym for 15 years, again will be available. It was reported the hall would not be used because it did not comply with state insurance laws.

Holiday Rum Seized In Mercer County

SHARON, Pa., Dec. 11.—Three hundred and fifty gallons of wine and a small quantity of moonshine, believed to have been made for the Christmas trade, were seized in four raids in Mercer County. John Rasiak and his son, Mike, 21, of Greenville, and Peter Savich and Sam Sira, of Farrell, were arrested.

Nemacolin Physician Heads Greene Group

SEEK ONE-MAN CAR PERMIT

Operation of one-man cars on the West Penn Railway Company line is the future salvation of the line, since labor is the biggest item of expense, an official declared.

J. M. Fritsch, vice president of the company, so testified before Examiner W. E. Bee, of the Public Service Commission, when the company applied for permission to operate one-man cars over five grade crossings of the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio Railroads, in Connellsville and vicinity. Dunbar Township is opposing the request, alleging it is unsafe.

By figures submitted, Fritsch showed that the revenues of the road operating between Connellsville and Uniontown, dropped 47.82 per cent from 1923 to 1929. The total loss in operations for the first 10 months of this year was $21,146. Elimination of a conductor, Fritsch claimed, would reduce the loss. Fritsch testified that the private automobile and miners riding in cars with friends has made inroads on the company's revenue.

Dover Merchant Dies After Taking Poison

YORK, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—James E. Crawford, a merchant of near Dover, died from the effects of poison, which he swallowed, according to the coroner, with suicidal intent. He was 36 years old. Mr. Crawford, it is said, faced business reverses. The climax of his run of ill luck came when his motor truck broke down several miles from his store. It was then that he walked home and took the poison.

Postal Clerk Jailed On Charge of Theft

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Bird Floyd Sharp, a former clerk in the postoffice at Curtisville, Pa., was sentenced to two months in the Mercer County Jail at Trenton, N. J., by Judge O. B. Dickinson in the Federal District Court here. Sharp pleaded guilty to taking small amounts of money from the receipts of other clerks. Postal inspectors said the total amounted to $400. Sharp said the total was only $32.

Precaution Saves Pittsburgher's Auto

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 11.—C. B. Hutton, of Pittsburgh, is driving his automobile because he took the precaution of shutting off the gasoline supply at the tank when he parked his car at Avella. Returning to the automobile Hutton was forced by two armed bandits, who stole his wallet and entered the car. They drove two blocks where the car stopped. Hutton recovered the machine, but the bandits fled with the wallet.

I'm 48! My Fat Is Lost I'd Hate To Tell You—

What It Cost

No doubt about it—I am 48 and never felt better in my life—I feel like 30 and you can take my word for it—It's the Little Daily Dose of Kruschen That Does It.

Once I was fat and forty—had headaches aplenty—was tired out most of the time—my liver was sluggish and my bowels inactive—I marched for a real remedy and by good fortune I found it in Kruschen Salts.

Fat isn't healthy—so physicians state and I want to say to this world full of fat people—that the Kruschen Method of losing fat is safe, sure and sensible—just cut out sweets—and don't forget to take one-half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

I wish I could induce every overweight person on earth to try this splendid method—it surely doesn't cost but a trifle—for an 85-cent bottle lasts 4 weeks and can be bought at any drug store in the world—Grow Thin—Feel Younger.

Mr. W. B. Daniels, of Richmond Hill, N. Y. City, writes, "Have finished my second bottle of Kruschen Salts—Results—Removed 3 inches from the waistline—am 25% more active—mind is clear—skin eruptions have disappeared—am 46 years old—feel 20 years younger."

A Hartford woman writes, "I'll tell the world Kruschen Salts is wonderful stuff to reduce." An Ohio woman lost 19 pounds with one bottle.

COMPANY ASKS GAS CHARTER

Commissioner S. Ray Shelby of the Public Service Commission yesterday questioned officers of the Bessemer Natural Gas Company regarding their financial ability to supply Bessemer and Hillsville, Lawrence County, with gas.

The company is capitalized at $15,000 and approval of the charter is sought. It was shown that the company has access to the gas of four wells in the vicinity and that the company's lines are within two miles of those of the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company. It was indicated that the movement of companies seeking franchise rights in supplying gas is much in evidence these days throughout the state.

Stocks Decline — Local Market Narrow

STOCK MARKET PRICES DRIFT DOWNWARD

Trading Is in Fair Volume And Liquidation Orderly; Some Make New Lows

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The stock market drifted substantially lower after holding fairly steady during the early trading today.

Selling was in fair volume, and several issues declined 2 to 6 points to new lows for the bear market. Liquidation, however, was orderly and unhastened.

Recent heaviness in some of the commodities appeared to be a depressing factor in the stock market. Cotton futures sold at new lows for the season, which came on the heels of the sag in copper and silver. Steel prices, however, seem to be maintaining their recent improvement, and stabilization of wheat seems to be progressing satisfactorily.

An adverse psychological factor, naturally, was the news of the taking over of an uptown bank by the State Banking Commissioner, but Wall Street was inclined to regard this development as a bitter but tonic pill.

Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, presented an encouraging analysis of the cotton situation, pointing out that stocks on hand throughout the world are being steadily depleted, and the reduction in the use of cotton has been much less than the reduction in spinning activity. Mr. Legge also indicated that the government would continue to hold the wheat carry-over as long as foreign prices refuse to come to the level of domestic quotations.

A conspicuous item of corporate news was the declaration of the regular quarterly dividends on the $7 and $6 preferred issues of International Paper and Power, with the explanation that there had been a substantial increase in income, so that the accruals were now being earned.

Credit conditions were little changed. Call money was rather firm at 2 per cent. Canadian exchange declined sharply, resulting in a shipment of $5,000,000 in gold from Montreal to New York.

Power Production Shows Improvement

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Electric power production, as reported by the National Electric Light Association, for the week ended December 6, maintained the improvement, as compared to 1929, shown in the previous week. Total kilowatt hours of 1,729,341,009 showed a decline from the like week of last year of only 3.9 per cent, as compared to a drop of 8.8 in the previous week, and considerably wider declines in the three preceding weeks. As compared to 1928, however, the week ended December 6 showed a gain of only 1.4 per cent, compared to a gain of 4.7 in the previous week, and 1 per cent two weeks previously.

SUGAR EXCESS 2,000,000 TONS

BRUSSELS, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The statistical sub-committee of the international sugar conference today published figures estimating that the European countries attending the meeting will have more than 2,000,000 tons of sugar more than can be consumed at the end of the present sugar year.

One of the tasks of the present conference of sugar-exporting countries is to devise some means of saving the industry from this over-production, and it is expected these countries will join in the agreement already reached by Cuba and Java for limitation of production for the next five years.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Powerful Cuban sugar interests are understood here to have proposed to the Chinese government that they be granted a 20-year sugar monopoly in China under terms which would exempt Cuban sugar from Chinese import duties.

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The sugar trust today decided to discontinue sales for the present and has refused to accept further bids of eight guilders (3.20) for superior sugar and seven guilders (2.30) for head sugar.

Mr. Dekmatel, one of the managers of the Netherlands Trading Society in Batavia, is leaving for China to defend the interests of Java sugar producers there against the possibility, rumored here, of a preferential tariff measure favoring Cuba sugar being granted by the Chinese government.

Former Kentucky Banker Bankrupt

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 11.—James B. Brown, former president of Banco-Kentucky Corporation, the National Bank of Kentucky and director and stockholder in many large corporations in the state, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in United State District Court here. No schedule was filed.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 11. — Influenced by downturns in stock market quotations and by a drop in wheat at Liverpool, grain prices showed early setbacks today. Weakness of wheat was manifest chiefly in the July delivery, which is outside of stabilization maneuvers of the Federal Farm Board allies. Opening unchanged to ⅞c off, wheat futures later recovered somewhat. Corn started ½@1¼c lower, but subsequently rallied.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Curb stocks were under pressure again today but showed some disposition to rally whenever offerings dwindled. Utilities gave ground and supporting bids for the oils were considerably under the previous close. Industrials and specialties showed some irregularity.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Jealousies Not Wanted at This Critical Time

—By B. C. FORBES—

AKRON, Dec. 10.—Are personal jealousies and rivalries among financial, industrial and railway chiefs injuring this country?

The answer would seem to be "Yes."

A FAMOUS BRITISH statesman warned the nation before the World War began that if ever war were instituted, many things might be swept away. Many were.

THE NEWSPAPERS intimate that the heads of our Eastern railway systems have failed to agree on consolidation plans notwithstanding that they have been bickering for half a dozen years and that the Administration at Washington has lately urged immediate harmonious action. I understand that one man is blocking the whole movement by demanding that his system be made very much larger than any other. The other railway heads contend that to agree to this would not be in accordance with the spirit of the transportation act, which aimed at the creation of well-balanced systems of as equal strength as feasible. Also, it is not believed the Interstate Commerce Commission would sanction any lopsided merger. If our Eastern railway magnates can't sink overvaulting ambitions and find a way out of their difficulties, if they can't agree to help themselves, they are likely to get little sympathy or little help from Washington or the public.

Mr. Forbes

TALKING ABOUT personal ambitions, Wall Street for long has seethed with stories that, instead of whole-hearted cooperation among the city's most powerful banking institutions, there has been much working at cross-purposes.

To those banking Napeleons accused of shortsightedness, and to the tremendously powerful group accused of having an ax to grind, the warning given the Kaiser is commended.

HERE IN AKRON the people openly express indignation against rubber leaders for having employed tactics which have cost the industry many, many millions of dollars, tactics which, it is declared, have been incited by personal jealousies rather than by long-headed business statesmanship.

This extract from an editorial in the Akron Beacon Journal will give you an idea of how the citizens of the rubber capital of the world feel:

"While Akron's rubber giants have been belaboring each other with price cut after price cut, at the expense of their stockholders and their own employes, a stockholder has asked that a former Akron rubber company, now located in Maryland, should be thrown into receivership because of what he declares to be 'insufficient management.'

"If this action which has just been taken by a stockholder against the Maryland company causes Akron's battling rubber barons to pause a little in their desperate sacrificing of profits, earnings and dividends to sell their tires a little farther below cost than the other fellow, it may be an ill wind that may blow Akron a little good.

"In spite of decreased income, passed dividends and wage cuts, no stockholder has yet attacked the management of any of the huge Akron companies because of the misuse of its stockholders' money. That it has just been done elsewhere is vindication of the fact that it might be done in Akron if those now at the helm of the city's greatest industries continue to ignore ordinary rules of common sense in business and do worse than give their products away merely that they may feed an ancient grudge.

"Warriors in the heat of battle are often likely to forget from whom is derived the sinews of war that enable them to fight.

"When prices are slashed so viciously that a company consistently sells its goods lower and lower below the actual cost of manufacture, it is not strange that its stockholders begin to inquire: 'If these men cannot or will not operate our company on business principles, is it not possible to find someone else who will?'"

THAT IS plain speaking, isn't it? Unless American finance and industry prove able to solve, or at least greatly mitigate the employment and other serious economic problems afflicting this country, the public may by and by indulge in plain speaking, not to say action.

There are at this critical time more important consideration at stake than petty personal jealousies and vainglorious ambitions.

Johnson Reinstated By Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange has reinstated Alexander B. Johnson, member representing Throckmorton & Co., who was given a year's suspension last June. The reinstatement becomes effective December 12.

Johnson was suspended June 11 as a result of violation of the rules of the stock exchange by an employe of the investment trust which Throckmorton & Co. formerly sponsored.

IDLENESS LAID TO LACK OF EFFICIENCY

Marked Progress in Trade Humanization Seen in Coming Business Era

By MERRYLE RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The waste of the manpower of the country, with many employable men and women out of jobs, constitutes an indictment against the efficiency of business management in the large.

Progressive business leaders are more concerned with the problem of putting men and women back on the job than with any other phase of management. If other important companies would follow the leadership of the Procter & Gamble Company and guarantee employment to efficient workers for 48 weeks a year, so doing would perhaps do more than anything else to break down the hesitancy of consumers to go into the market to buy merchandise freely. I find enlightened managers more alert to these innovations for improving industrial relations than ever before, and believe that in the coming period marked progress will be made in humanizing business.

Mr. Rukeyser

Stability of employment cannot be considered as an isolated phase of management. It must be part and parcel of a broad-gauged, well-thought-out program of business planning and co-ordination.

SHOWS SOLUTION

Henry P. Kendall, president, the Kendall Company, who has found a formula for making profits in the textile trade even when the industry as a whole is greatly depressed, is one of the creative business leaders who in his business practices is pointing the way to a more civilized basis for using man-power in the nation's economic machine. He has no patent medicine formula, but believes each executive must adapt general ideas to his own special problems.

Mr. Kendall attempts to apply the standard of stability to all phases of business.

The mandate of the times is in favor of lowering operating expenses through heightening efficiency. The worst way to get down expenses is through adding to the ranks of the unemployed, for such methods merely enlarge the vicious circle of depression.

STUDENTS PICK STOCKS

A class of college students in a course on business cycles, after some research, voted on the stocks most likely to lead the next bull market—when, as and if. The 15 favorites in order of the number of votes received follows: United Aircraft, Radio, General Motors, United States Steel, American Can, American Telephone and Telegraph, General Electric, Allied Chemical and Dye, Anaconda, American Tobacco, Aluminum Company of America, Commercial Solvents, Electric Bond and Share, Houston Oil and Sears Roebuck.

The season for annual financial reviews is almost at hand. Here is my capsule summing up of the year in retrospect: Nineteen thirty has proved an excellent year for miniature golf courses, red apples and Wall street bears.

EXCHANGE LOAN RATIO DOWN

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Total borrowings by members of the New York Stock Exchange against stock collateral on December 1 amounted to 4.06 per cent of the market value of all shares listed on the exchange on that date. This compares with 4.65 per cent on November 1, a decrease of 0.59 per cent during the month. On December 1, 1929, this ratio stood at 6.32 per cent.

The market value of all shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange on December 1 totaled $53,311,859,703 against $5,025,710,617 on November 1. During November, borrowings of members decreased $393,875,085 to $2,162,249,002 at the end of the month. As of December 1 there were 1,309 issues, aggregating 1,296,204,094 shares listed on the exchange, against 1,316 issues, aggregating 1,296,845,244 shares, November 1.

Pennsy May Sell Roads To Taplin

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

INDICATIONS OF MORE CLOSE relationships between the Taplin interests and the Pennsylvania Railroad can be seen from statements made before the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday. W. S. Bronson, counsel for the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad, told the commission that the Pennsylvania, under certain conditions, had agreed to sell its interests in the Wabash and Lehigh Valley railroads to the Taplins.

This follows the statement by Gen. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, that he would fight the commission's order to sell this stock to the last ditch. Apparently the condition is that, if the Pennsylvania must sell these holdings to someone, it will sell them to the Taplins, who have been working in co-operation for the past year.

If this sale should be made and if it should receive the approval of the commission, the formation of the fifth trunk line system under the head of the Wabash would be assured. This would be a further step towards the consummation of the commission's railroad merger plan. The commission would not be likely to object unless it should decide that the Taplin interests are too closely affiliated with the Pennsylvania to insure unrestricted competition.

Relationship Peculiar

FOR THE PAST year it has been increasingly apparent that the Taplins are working in harmony with the Pennsylvania. They controlled the Pittsburgh and West Virginia until its recent sale to the Pennroad Corparation, an organization, formed by the Pennsylvania and still closely affiliated with it. A short time ago the commission refused to give its permission to the Pittsburgh and West Virginia to acquire control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie. The indirect control of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia by the Pennsylvania was given as one of the principal reasons.

The Pittsburgh and West Virginia again appeared before the commission yesterday with a request for the right to take over the Wheeling and Lake Erie. It claimed that the Pennsylvania's domination of the Pennroad Corporation no longer existed and stated that Pennroad would resell its holding in Pittsburgh and West Virginia to the Taplins if the commission should find such a step desirable.

Sale to Help Consolidation

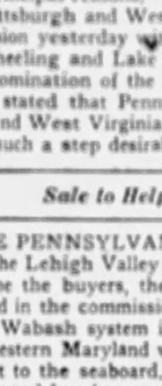
IF THE PENNSYLVANIA should be forced to sell its holdings in the Lehigh Valley and the Wabash and if the Taplins should be the buyers, the formation of the Wabash system, proposed in the commission's plan, would be virtually assured. The Wabash system includes all these roads. In addition the Western Maryland would be needed to give the system an outlet to the seaboard. The Baltimore and Ohio controls this line and has been ordered to dispose of the stock by the commission.

While the commission cannot order the Baltimore and Ohio to sell the stock to any particular organization, the group being formed by the Taplins would afford the most logical market.

Stock Exchange Topics

Stock Exchange Sends New Questionnaire To Members.

The New York Stock Exchange, it is learned, has dispatched anew a rather special questionnaire to its members firms, the purpose of which seems to have taken on a little mystery, judging from discussions heard around Wall street. The new questionnaire, though the actual form has not been seen, is understood to call for extensive data covering daily transactions of each firm over a period of several months. Included in the data sought is a report on the total of daily sales by each house, the total amount of stocks on hand at the opening, the amount of stocks purchased the same day, and the total of stock delivered.



Some thought the purpose was probably to determine the character of the selling. But it was pointed out that such a record might not prove an infallible guide, since, as an example, a wealthy individual might sell against his box on a given day and not actually deliver, the stock until several days later. Such a transaction, unless otherwise indictated, would really look like a short sale in its initial phase.

Westinghouse Electric yielded precipitately to new levels under a steady barrage of selling yesterday. The bulk of the offerings which forced Westinghouse back so sharply was reported coming very largely from three large wire houses. At the bottom prices of the day, Westinghouse, which has seemingly lost much of its speculative attraction, was selling at the lowest levels reached since the early part of 1928. The company reported net profit for the first nine months this year of $11,352,244, equivalent to about $4.25 a share on the combined common and preferred stocks.

Floor flashes identifying active buyers and sellers indicated that the bear element was decidedly more active yesterday than it has been at any time in the last fortnight. It was evident that speculative forces arrayed on the side of the decline had awaited the publication of the steel tonnage figures as a signal for a renewed and aggressive attempt to bring out fresh liquidation. At any rate the appearance of steel figures was quickly followed by heavy selling around the room which names mentioned in floor flashes aptly suggested was for short account. Steel shares were a special target of such selling with Steel common and Bethlehem being forced back rather easily.

The increase of 157,873 tons reported by the Steel Corporation in the total of unfilled orders on its books at the end of November, was the largest gain reported for any month this year. The biggest previous monthly gain was reported in the closing month of 1929 when an upturn of 291,848 tons was shown. The market, however, did not appear ready to respond to anything that might be considered bullish news yesterday. At all events the pick-up in steel orders, though much larger than had been forecast, did not serve to check the flow of selling that had been on the market through the forenoon. Subsequently Steel common yielded to within a fraction of the year's low register about a month ago.

The financial community was more than a little interested in the reason back of the decision of directors of American Water Works in placing the company's common stock on a straight cash dividend basis. Heretofore the company had been making disbursements at the rate of $1 a share in cash and one-fortieth of a share semi-annually in stock, the latter equivalent to a 5 per cent annual stock basis. The board decided upon discontinuance of the stock payments, and the substitution of a regular $3 cash rate. Utility companies making stock payments have generally explained their course in the past as intended to permit them to retain their cash to finance expansion of their facilities on a most economic basis.

Declaration of the regular quarterly dividend due at this time by New York Central tended to help rails for a spell yesterday, but found an offsetting influence in the weekly report on carloadings which set forth another substantial decline compared with the previous week. Central subsidiaries declared their regular payments due at this time also, while the Indiana Harbor Belt Railroad, controlled by Michigan Central now a component part of the New York Central under long term lease ordered an extra payment of $8 a share in addition to its regular disbursement.

TIGER HEART -:- By Robert Terry Shannon

Connie Refuses Demands Of Extortionists

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

On the eve of her marriage to handsome Jim Tracey, vivacious Connie Calvert, rich society girl, receives a letter which causes her to leave her palatial home in Connecticut on a mysterious automobile drive to New York. Jim sees her. Connie stops at a cheap restaurant on the West Side and waits for someone. The letter threatens to expose Connie. A man approaches Connie and introduces himself as Duke Garson. He tells Connie her late father was married twice and that she has a half-sister, Kitty, living in poverty among gangsters. Connie asks to meet her. When she does, Kitty tries to blackmail her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VI.

The words of Duke Garson, harsh and cruel, beat upon Connie like blows. These people—Kitty and Garson—had lived their lives in a fiercer environment than her own. Their words, their thoughts, were like weapons. From the beginning they had put Connie on the defensive.

The shock of discovering this unknown half-sister, coupled with this brazen attempt at extortion, disorganized Connie temporarily. Against their hard, cold attack her carefully cultivated social self was confused and hurt. Yet, behind everything, an instinct of fair play told her that Kitty Calvert had right on her side.

"What I can't understand," Connie said to Kitty, "is how you think mere money is all that matters. The money is the least part of it."

Connie Questions Duke

"Oh, don't hand me that!" Kitty retorted. "I noticed that you objected to loosening up with any dough yourself immediately."

"What I said was that I didn't have any large amount of money myself to give you," Connie told her, recovering some of her own coolness. "All I have is an allowance, the rest of the property belongs to my mother, and even that probably doesn't amount to as much as you think."

"You think a lot of your mother, don't you?"

"Of course I do—she's old and she's sweet and innocent."

"Well, I had a mother, too, and she was young and innocent when your father met her. You can't pull that sentiment stuff on me."

"Then I'm to understand that you want only money—nothing else?"

"You said it."

"How much money do you want?"

Kitty made a quirk again at the corner of her mouth and turned to Garson.

"Suppose you talk cash to the lady, Duke. You're my business representative, you know."

Garson looked at Connie with a curious, studying expression. Steadily she returned his gaze.

"You think we're pretty cold-blooded, don't you, Miss Calvert?"

"I certainly do," Connie told him frankly. "Furthermore, I don't exactly understand what connection you have with all of this. Are you her lawyer?"

Garson smiled with an expression of superiority.

"No, I'm just one of the bright and shining lights of Tenth avenue. Kitty is a friend of mine—that's all. You see, a lot of us down here belong to the same broad fraternity. People like you call us the underworld. We are a hard lot, Miss Calvert, but occasionally we happen to have justice on our side. This is one of those times. We don't have to be crooked in this instance; that's why I cut in—to steer Kitty right. Left to herself, she'd probably commit technical blackmail—which would be very foolish.

Interested in Him

Increasingly, Connie was becoming conscious of the pervading flow of Duke Garson's personality. Even in the midst of this unexpected crisis in her life, she could sense a strange charm about him; but it was his mind rather than his masculinity that affected her. She could tell that he was on the border line between her world and this darkened existence that surrounded them. She was in no mood to respond to the glamor of any man, but even so, she sensed a mental quality in the man that stirred her with odd interest. He was, by several degrees, brainier than most men in her set. She wondered if he was a crook. But crooks, she had imagined, did not possess his easy fluency of speech.

"Who are you, and what are you?" she asked him, with sudden, frank impulsiveness.

He moved his hand slightly, a repressed gesture that seemed to dismiss the question.

"Oh, I belong to the avenue—that's all. I happen to know a few more words than some of the others because I've read several books, but we're all one big family around here, so to speak. Kitty's a pal of mine, and the rest doesn't matter."

"I see," Connie murmured. "All the both of you want is just a lot of money, isn't it?"

"Not a lot," Garson corrected her. "I should think a hundred thousand dollars would be satisfactory."

Connie Refuses

The sum was grotesquely impossible. Kitty and Duke Garson had, by far, overestimated the cash Connie might command. Whatever sympathy she had for Kitty was beginning to be obliterated by these demands. Abruptly, she turned her gaze from Garson to the girl.

"I should think," she said coldly, "that you would realize that this is sheer nonsense to think you can squeeze that much money out of me. In the first place, I haven't got it, in the second place, I can, if I like, be as cold blooded as you are."

"You probably take after your father," Kitty said, her eyes level.

"Perhaps we both do," Connie replied. "I want to be fair with you. Why can't you—why can't we—stop all this mercenary discussion and face the facts? I think life has played an infernal joke on both of us. We're not enemies—we're sisters. This has all come on me so suddenly that I'm upset, naturally. Don't you think it possible that we could get together without being disagreeable? I want to do whatever I can to help you—"

Garson answered for Kitty.

"The only thing you can give Kitty is money, Miss Calvert. You are sisters by the accident of having the same father, but in no other sense. The sum we mentioned was quite reasonable. If Kitty cared to go to court, she'd probably get much more. Why beat around the bush?"

A stubbornness, deep and fundamental, rose up in Connie.

"I won't pay," she said, firmly.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Sax Appeal

Under-sized Mr. Pinkham opened the front door of No. 37 Factory street.

Except for the numbers, all of the 50 houses on this street were quite alike, built and owned by the Machine Shop Company.

A young man, not much larger than Mr. Pinkham, nodded and started to go in.

"Jest a minute, Ferd," Mr. Pinkham said, stepping out to the porch and closing the door. "What's the matter? Isn't Sue home?" Ferd Higson asked.

Heretofore, for more than a year, Ferd had been in the habit of walking into the house, past whoever happened to open the door for him.

"She's home, Ferd, but I want to ask you something."

"Gee, Mr. Pinkham, I'm kind of broke today—"

"I don't want to borrow anything—that is, I could use a little spare change until Saturday, but what I want now is to ask you your intentions."

"My intentions?"

"Yes, your intentions, comin' here, you know."

"To see Sue, of course."

"I mean, what's your intentions—do you plan to marry Sue or just to set around and smoke my tobacco and lunch offen Ma's pies an' things and take up Sue's time."

"Why—er,—why, now, Mr. Pinkham——"

The door opened briskly and Sue Pinkham stepped out.

"Now, Pa, ain't you ashamed, buttin' into our romance like this? You know darn well what Ferd's intentions are — he intends to marry me right away," Sue said, sliding one hand under Ferd's arm, as if to prevent his escape.

"You—uh, why—" Pa Pinkham stuttered and stared in surprise, as well he might, for he had been ordered by Sue to ask Ferd this very question when he came to the door.

"All right, Pa, you meant well—go on in. Me and Ferd will take a walk," Sue said.

Ferd Surprised

Sue and Ferd walked down Factory street. At the end of the street a bridge crossed the canal and on the other side were willows and old logs, a rather nice, quiet, cool place to sit of a summer's evening.

"You mustn't mind Pa, Ferd," Sue said.

"He kind of surprised me."

They sat on a willow log and Sue gave Ferd a hug.

Sue was large, even buxom, and had a pretty complexion that rather off-set her very firm, almost protrusive chin and muscular shoulders.

"You know how old folks are, Ferd—nosey. I hadn't told him we intended to be married next month. I suppose I should have told him."

"Huh?"

This was news to Ferd—startling news.

"We should have told the folks, shouldn't we of Ferd?"

"Why—uh—"

Ferd paused to cough.

He really couldn't find words for this startling announcement that he was to marry Sue Pinkham next month. It was already the last week in May.

Sue gave him another hug and hopped up.

So Ferd Higson and Sue Pinkham were married and moved into No. 32. They started paying the instalments, or at least Sue did.

"It's perfectly lovely, living here so close to the factory, Ferdy," she had said after they moved in. "There's no car fare to pay and no lunch rooms to make rich. You can walk acrost to your lunch here."

Saturday morning, as the second whistle was blowing and Ferd got up to take his hat and hurry across to the shops, Sue gave him a hug.

"Our first pay-day, Ferdy. Ain't that swell—you'll come right home with the pay envelope and hand it to me, the way Pa always does for Ma."

"Er—why—sure, Susie dear," Ferdy mumbled.

And so things jogged along at No. 32. That is, they jogged along for Ferd. Same old job at the same old bench, testing pigment grinders.

Wife Objects

Same lineup on Saturday; same little manilla pay envelope, in the corner of which was typed, "F. Higson, $47.50;" same short walk out of the shop yard and up Factory street; same path around to the side door where Ferd scraped his shoes and entered to be greeted with the same outstretched hand of Sue.

And the same squawk from Sue: "It's time they paid you more, Ferd."

Also the same nervous reply: "Guess they'll give me a raise in a few months."

Some of the boys were going to organize a machine shop band. Ferd used to play a saxophone in a sort of a way. If he hadn't sold his saxophone to buy himself new clothes for his wedding, he could have joined this band.

"I can get a good sax for 5 bucks down and only 5 a month," he said to Sue.

"There ain't no sax that's a good sax. If they was 5 cents down and 5 cents a year I wouldn't let you have one of the fool things," Sue said.

A little later Ferd informed Sue that one of the men at the office had a good sax he was going to give him because this man couldn't play it on account of tooth trouble.

Ferd brought it home.

A week later Ferd saw a new rug in the hall.

"Ain't it pretty!" Sue cried. "I was awful lucky, I sold that fool saxophone the feller give you for $6 and bought the rug."

"You go buy that sax back. It's mine, you ain't got any right to sell it," Ferd yelped, speaking right up for the first time.

"Listen to me, Ferd Higson I'm a good wife to you and I'm running this place and if you ever talk back to me I'll slap your ears down—now shut up!"

Ferd looked at her, at her hard, glassy stare, her flushed face and protruding jaw.

He shut up.

But Saturday he didn't walk up the path and hand Sue the pay envelope.

Sue learned he had sneaked his best suit to the shop, dressed up in it and gone to the station with his pay envelope. She learned more than that. Ferd had not only gone away from there, but for a month and a half he had had a friend fix up some phoney pay envelopes and type them with the name and amount, when in reality Ferd had received a five-a-week raise!

Ferd went west and in a quiet town got work as a painter because he had had to learn about paint pigments in his old machine shop job.

One day he went over to Stoughton, a suburb of this small city, to do some painting. He had two helpers. He sent them up the ladder and he took the easier work of starting the window trim from the long cool side veranda.

A window was opened and in a case, opened, reposed a gold saxophone. It fascinated Ferd. He leaned it and stared at it. He stared long and hard and he did not notice that he was being observed through a partly open inner door.

Nor did he hear footsteps at the right, along the carpet. The first thing he knew strong arms hauled him through the window with a jerk.

"I—I was just admirin' that saxo—"

Sees Wife

Ferd choked and almost froze with horror.

Sue was standing over him!

He leaped up, but she reached out and held him.

"Ferdy—oh, Ferdy—I bought it for you—I knew I'd find you some day. I nearly died of loneliness and heartbreak. Ma inherited this little farm here and I came out, and now she's gone and I'm all alone and the good Lord just sent you to me."

Ferd opened his mouth, blinked, closed his mouth and tried to back away.

"Ferdy—it's your saxophone I bought it for you. I done wrong by you back home—now you can live here and I'll set you up in your paintin' business and you can play the sax all the time and we'll be awful happy, Ferdy."

Sue actually wept with joy as she kissed him.

AUNT BELLA'S VESTPOCKET GUIDE FOR THE PUZZLED CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS

By AUNT BELLA

(Miss Santa Claus.)

Some thinks Xmas is a lot of hooey, and I do not intend to get in no arguments over this happy Yule season. My job is to snoop around and see what is available in the various shoppes and marts and then come clean to my vast army of readers and admirers with the "dope," as they call it. (An old turf expression, as I recall. Oh, dear! Horse races is my favourite sport of Kings). Well, let me start off my Christmas shoppers' information bureau gossip with a little friendly chat. For the men let me suggest the Bumblebee tie pin—a novelty, very realistic and interestin'. Denotes the wearer as a human, a nature lover. Land sakes! The feller at the haberdashery who showed it to me stuck me unawares with the pin point and I thought I was stung by a bee. We had good fun, him and me. And 'fore I got out of the shoppe I had stuck him twice. Upper right is a Gentleman's Hangell, which can be stood on a table or floor to accommodate an entire wardrobe. Very snappy I think—ideal gift for a batchelor if you ast me. I am always interested in pets and I think a Pomeranean dog, like above, is O. K. for a lady. I'd like to have one myself, and what higher recommendation can Aunt Bella give? I am sincere when I say Three Cheers for the Pomeranean, man's best friend. To the lower right is a thing they showed me at the hardware shoppe when I asked to see their Christmas suggestions. I couldn't quite get the man's explanation as we was clownin' around quite a bit. I think he said it was some kind of a gadget for Winter sports. Well, that's all for today. Call me up some time, dearies. Aunt Bella will do anything for a friend.

Tax Reduction

In Cutting the Millage Mayor Kline's Administration Has Given the Citizens a Very Acceptable Christmas Gift.

In reducing the city tax rate the administration has given the citizens of Pittsburgh a fine Christmas gift.

Praise is due Mayor Kline, City Treasurer Schooley, Controller Kerr and the Council.

It was not easy, in the face of the demands for improvements and unemployment relief, to cut the levy; and it is greatly to their credit that they did not take the easy way, but sought diligently and successfully for other sources of revenue.

Pittsburgh sets a splendid example for other cities. It has taken the leadership in a matter which, if the movement spreads, may be productive of widespread good. Only yesterday Calvin Coolidge said in his daily message to the Sun-Telegraph that nothing would so encourage business as a reduction in local and national taxes.

It was a happy coincidence that Pittsburgh's City Council reduced the tax rate within a few hours after receipt of the message.

The city's action raises the hope that the County Commissioners, too, may do at least a little something to lighten the load of the county taxpayers.

Welcome

The Thoughtfulness of Capt. Carlson, of the State Police, In Sending Troopers Here Is Appreciated.

There have been times when the sending of state troopers into the county would have been resented by the local authorities as implying that they were negligent or inefficient.

It speaks well for District Attorney Park that he has shown no such feeling in regard to the troopers whom Capt. Carlson, commandant of the state police quartered at Greensburg, has assigned to duty here to help combat banditry.

Capt. Carlson was not asked to send the troopers here. did it, unsolicited, of his own initiative. District Attorney k takes the sensible view, in which citizens generally will cur, that it is an excellent thing for the county detectives have the help of the state police.

The troopers are needed and are welcome.

Capt. Carlson's thoughtfulness in sending them here is appreciated.

Brighter Coal Outlook

Greater Activity In the Mining Industry Is One of the Things Most to Be Desired for Local Improvement.

President Robert M. Lamble told the Coal Mining Institute of America at the opening of its convention here yesterday that coal industry shows signs of improvement.

one of the things most to be desired for the improvement of business in the Pittsburgh district.

The coal business has been depressed so long that it has come to be known as "the sick man of American industry."

To meet wartime demands mines were opened for which there was no need when peace returned. Overproduction and cutthroat competition resulted. Coal has been sold for less than it cost to produce it.

The coal business has been "flat on its back"; so it could scarcely make any move except in a rising direction.

Favorable news items in respect to the industry are the reports that a certain grade of steam coal has become scarce in the Pittsburgh district and the price has advanced, and that Senator Davis is preparing legislation to stabilize the industry.

If the thousands of idle miners in the Pittsburgh district could be put back to work at fair wages, the effect would be almost immediately beneficial to other kinds of business.

Thinking of Traffic

There Is Hope for Decrease In Auto Accidents In the Attention the Rising Generation Is Paying to Safety.

The trial of the two men accused of killing a child and ring four others by driving an automobile recklessly in n street last July directs attention to one side of the traffic situation in Pittsburgh as it affects children—the gloomy side.

The essay contest for school children conducted by the Better Traffic Committee, in which prizes are to be awarded at a great public meeting in Carnegie Music Hall tomorrow night, directs attention to another side—the bright side.

Stimulated by cash prizes totalling $1,400 and scholarships of total value of $700 offered by Pitt, Carnegie, Duquesne, Mt. Mercy and Pennsylvania College for Women, the school children of the city have submitted 70,724 essays.

That means there has been a great deal of hard thinking by the pupils about Pittsburgh's traffic and street safety problems. The boys and girls have proposed ways through which accidents may be prevented and traffic congestion relieved.

There is assurance of improvement in the attention that the rising generation is paying to the subject.

Thompson in Jail

His Imprisonment Again Disproves the Cynical Saying That Millionaires Can Successfully Defy the Courts.

J. V. Thompson, the Uniontown coal millionaire, has at last been committed to jail for contempt of court.

He is being treated very pleasantly in prison, it seems. He is not under close restraint, according to Uniontown reports, but has a comfortable room and dines with the warden's family. If the reports are true, he is being shown favoritism. But after all he has not been convicted of a felony and he is an old, old man. The important thing is that he is in jail.

It is important because it disproves, just as the Harry F. Sinclair case did last year, the cynical saying that millionaires can successfully defy the courts.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

We ALL Believe in Santa Claus!

Little Boy Blue, come blow your pence!
SOME girl is waiting, in wild suspense.
Send her a jewel, a book or a song—
Whatever you send her, it's sure to be wrong!

Even the "only girl in the world" is just a catalog number on a man's Christmas shopping list in these days of canned holiday shopping.

A man will generously and joyously GIVE a woman anything on earth he can afford, from a limousine to his love—unless she happens to ASK for it, first.

* * *

Many a popular bachelor, glancing over his holiday tokens from the dear girls on Christmas morning, wonder why God gave women so much heart and so little common sense.

Underneath all our modern cynicism and sophistication we ALL believe in Santa Claus—and that some day, somehow, somewhere, our dreams will come true. That we shall find the perfect woman, the ideal man, the everlasting love, the glamorous success or the heart's content we have always been searching for. That life's a Christmas tree, that Fate is Santa Claus—and that some day he'll surely get around to US!

* * *

It must be an awful shock to Santa Claus, to discover that the dear old lady, whose day he was planning to brighten with a pair of bed-slippers and a box of peppermints, wants a box of rejuvenating cream, a hundred imported cigarets, and a book on sex appeal.

Christmas Day, like the first kiss, is somehow always just a little disappointing. The sweet-heart part of either is that ecstatic, anticipatory moment—"just before!"

Some men observe Christmas—and others just close their eyes and cross their fingers, until the danger is past.

Isn't It So?

It's not called a joyride unless somebody is killed.

Sometimes a jump in time will save nine—weeks in a hospital.

Sometimes when a man is in the public eye he's just a cinder.

THE BATTLE OF PHYSICISTS

By Archibald Henderson

The outstanding figures of the modern world in science are not physicists in the old sense, not mathematicians in the conventional sense, not astronomers in the sense of mere observers of the stars and planets. They are physicists who see processes of nature, not so much in laboratories as in equations, not so much in experiments as in equational representations of those experiments.

The supreme figures in contemporary science are mathematical physicists, astro-physicists, geophysicists. Pre-eminent figures in this new hierarchy of science are Henri Poincare, J. Willard Gibbs, Albert Einstein.

The world of reality has not changed; we still live in a universe, in which huge masses of matter are scattered about in an apparently haphazard scheme, yet all moving majestically, in response to mysterious laws which govern them.

Things are as substantial as ever; a rock will hurt your foot, if it is big enough and you kick it sufficiently hard. As Jeans says, stones must always remain substantial bodies, just because they and their class form the standard by which we define the quality of substantiality.

The real battle in science, today, is between the physicists of the laboratories and the physicists of mathematical bent. The former resent the invasion of the mathematicians, and prefer to carry on their experiments in the spirit of a Faraday or an Edison.

They study nature itself; find what actually happens in the laboratory; and accurately describe the results. They then proceed to embody these results in technical, descriptive papers, and apply the results, if available, in industry.

The mathematical physicist, whether he is studying the atom or the new planet X, is concerned primarily with interpretations of the physical phenomena which are observed in the laboratory. He is the Clerk Maxwell to Michael Faraday, the Michael Pupin to Thomas Edison.

He invents the ether to carry light waves; just as the geographer invents imaginary parallels of latitude and meridians of longitude. He is concerned with the interpretations of his equations, once he is sure that the equations will preserve the realities — or as we say, save the phenomena.

Newton had his equations of motion in inter-stellar space. He interpreted them in terms of physical force; bodies pull each other, literally, in accordance with a law; directly as the product of their masses, and inversely as the square of their distance apart.

Einstein has his equations for the same motions; but the motions, as he interprets them, are not due to the effects of physical attraction or pull. Space is conceived to be of a peculiar, crinkly nature; and bodies merely fall through space, following as it were the line of least resistance, picking out the easiest way through the irregularities and obstacles in a complicated space-time universe.

The mathematical formulas are the representation of the laws of physical behavior. These formulas do not and cannot tell us that a body is a certain thing; platinum or wireless waves or light quanta.

It simply tells us how the body acts. Mathematical formulations of physical laws are criteria of manners. They are the rules of behavior, the codes of conduct, of physical phenomena. Mathematical equation embody the laws of physical etiquet.

After all, then, we can interpret these equations in any particular imaginative way, consistent with themselves. The equations show that light consists of particles, since under this interpretation the equations are satisfied, and the truth is not violated.

We may, with equal plausibility and logic, interpret light as consisting of waves—since the equations lend themselves equally well to this imaginative interpretation. All such interpretations are equally suggestive, helpful and logical. But none of the interpretations possesses any unique or absolute validity.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I don't like sentimentalists.

I don't like people who sugar-coat reality with sweet phrases—who slobber and simper instead of Facing Facts.

If I had to take my choice between working with a cynic and working with a sentimentalist, I'd choose the cynic every time.

The cynic is a sour cuss and often warped. But at least he's honest, according to his lights. And he has a certain courage. He doesn't try to duck life. He looks it square in the eye. His conclusions may be wrong, but at least he knows both sides of the story. And if you're working with him you don't have to putter and pretend. You can spit it all out—

But not so with the sentimentalist. He's always ducking. He's strong on pretty palaver—but don't try to pin him down.

He'll slip out from under—he'll dodge and evade—and all the time, he'll be saying Just the Loveliest Things! Saying Lovely Things is the best thing the sentimentalist does. They're the protection for his cowardice and the alibi for his laziness. For the sentimentalist is always lazy and cowardly at heart. He doesn't want to think about things as they really are.

Things are too horrid. They frighten him. And, besides, they demand direct action. And he detests direct action. For you never can tell where you'll end, if you start direct action. Maybe people will laugh at you. Or maybe—frightful thought!—you may even have to change yourself. For Truth is a boomerang. If you are going to face facts about the other fellow, he may retaliate by facing facts about you! No, no, dearie—better let well enough alone.

Like Minnie, who shows up regularly every Monday morning with the shiner which her old man gave her on his Saturday night jag. And Ed Beels, whose wife bullies him until he's only half a man.

And Marcia Wilson, whose whole life has been a futile sacrifice to her mean-minded moocher of a mother. And the whole tribe of sloppy enthusiasts who are always insisting that there's Nothing Wrong With God's Country.

Every one of these people are miserable in some way. And every one of them could mend their miseries, if they'd admit them and go after them. But try 'n' make 'em do it! Instead they go meeching around, wearing Brave, Bright Smiles and pulling platitudes. Like Marcia, who reminds you that, After All, One Has Only One Mother. As if one mother were not, frequently, more than enough!

But of course the sentimentalists are immensely popular. They get all the votes. They get the votes because their technique makes life comfortable for the rest of us. IT'S SO MUCH EASIER TO SAY SOMETHING PRETTY THAN IT IS TO DO SOMETHING SNAPPY.

Being in Love

What is being in love?
Why, it's simple indeed;
It just means that you move
At an airplane's top speed
With your thoughts in a daze
Through a perfect world's ways.
On a sudden you find
Folks who use to be bores
Have grown witty and kind,
And you chat at their doors
While the universe glows
With the color of rose.
You are brave, you are strong and a great diplomat;
You arise with a song.
Pat the dog, stroke the cat.
What is being in love?
It's what makes the world move!

Text for Today

I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the Almighty.—Revelation, i:8.

The Mysterious Ant Eater

Was He Especially Created to Eat the Ant? Or Did Evolution Produce Him.

THE GREAT BRAZILIAN ANT EATER. CAN YOU EXPLAIN HER?

This strange creature, dwelling in the wet Brazilian forests, was lassoed on a Brazilian cattle ranch as it walked about with young ant eaters clinging to its back. The ant eater mother carries her young ones as the American opossum carries hers.

Brazilians treat ant eaters tenderly, never shoot them, capturing one occasionally for zoological gardens.

The greatest danger in tropical countries is the ant, and the greatest blessing is this creature, especially designed to devour ants and keep down their numbers.

Without it the armies of ants, numbering billions, able to strip a huge tree of every green leaf in a single day, would destroy the forests and the fields.

Looking at this creature, with long, strange head and the long, sticky tongue that goes down into the ants' nest, where the ants stick to it, you wonder how such a strange being came into existence.

According to the fundamentalists, it was created with the other animals on the same day.

And you will admit that the fundamentalist had logic on his side when he said: "The Lord having created the ants, and knowing how rapidly they breed, quite naturally said to Himself, I must now create something that will keep the ants from increasing too plentifully and destroying everything in the Garden of Eden. Consequently He made the ant eater to eat the ants."

This seems perfectly reasonable and you can imagine what fun little Cain and Abel could have had watching the ant eaters breaking into the hard shell of the ant nest with its powerful, thick claws, plunging its long, sticky tongue into the home of the ants and sweeping them down into its throat by the thousands.

Evolutionists tell you that the ants are a product of evolution, and the ant eater likewise.

One, the ant eater with the longest nose and the stickiest tongue, survived, and his young ones had even longer noses and stickier tongues, and so the real ant eater of today came into existence.

That will not satisfy many that will say: "It would have taken a million years for such an ant eater to come up through evolution. Why didn't the ants eat everything up before the ant eaters got started?"

We admit that it is too much for us, and that we are appalled by the supreme ingenuity that made too many ants and created the ant eaters to control them; made too many fish and provided sea gulls and sharks to devour them, and made too many inferior human beings on the earth and provided highly civilized white human beings to control them by shooting, gassing and bombing them.

It's all a mystery.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Tenement mothers are facing an increasing problem in combatting the swarms of gim-crack hawkers who infest the poorer districts. Settlement workers, too, have discovered that such peddlers are large contributors to juvenile delinquencies.

In the crowded Ghetto, aside from the hodge-podge of corner candy stores, are the roaming apostles of indigestion with baskets and portable carts aswirl with lollipops, dabs of ice cream, hokey-pokey, candied apples, sugared fruits, salted pretzels. And so on.

These salesmen are shrewd in their grasp of child psychology. They know how to appeal not only to palates but to vanity. The child who spends the most pennies becomes hero of the block. He is praised and flattered and shown especial favors.

Many receive suggestions to steal pennies with which to buy goodies. Thus harrassed parents find offsprings purloining from their saving banks and stealing things in the neighborhood to exchange for confections. Later they are likely to fall into hands of Fagins and become accomplished thieves.

Pick-pockets and other petty thieves are recruited from sidewalks in congested areas. They begin sneak thieving at the suggestion of conscienceless rascals. In this way the notorious Lefty Louie, Gyp the Blood, Dago Frank and Whitey Lewis began their infamous careers.

Children who should be reading story books or playing healthful games enjoy following the peddlers around and quite a number graduate from cigarets to heroin. It is but fair to say all vendors do not belong to this category. There are some trying only to make a decent living.

There is for instance Old Pushkin, a hunch-back with a pawky nose and indigo stippled chin, who prides himself on his clean and sanitary edibles. He gathers the children on street corners and tells them ancient Russian fables that point out worthy morals.

The new Waldorf will house 3,000 patrons. There will be 210 rooms and floor clerks and more than 600 bell boys. Already the riveting has ceased, tra la, tra la!

A Fifth avenue window reveals a life-like dummy of a collar ad, gentleman in full evening dress, reaching for his hat, stick and gloves on a table. Silhouetted through a door which a stiff-necked butler holds open is the hood of a limousine. I went on wondering how such a scene offered sales suggestions. Yet when I got home I took a peek at my dress suit to see if it was not about ripe for the ash can. Slick, the window dressers!

If it were not for Fannie Hurst's inevitable red tam, few would recognize the novelist today. From a genial plumpness she has all of a sudden grown astonishingly thin. Long walks and careful diet brought the change.

Ed is the regal vizier of one of the town's smartest restaurants, the sort decorated with French academic palms for his culinary knowledge. He rushes here and there greeting new arrivals with heel-clicking bows and lifting silver lids of dishes with a grandiose pother. Yet after midnight the other morning I saw him drop into a ride-the-pony lunchroom, prop his tabloid against a gummy-necked catsup bottle and cry: "One up on black java and a raw meat twister!" And did he eat!

Incidentally, this gentleman has for 20 years retired at 4 o'clock and arisen at 3:30 a. m. to market for personal selections of meats and vegetables. He sleeps from 2 until 6 afternoons.

Among Napoleon's gifts was his ability to drop to sleep anywhere any time by merely closing his eyes. The only place I was ever able to sleep outside of bed is in the New York subway. In a few minutes I begin to yawn and in 10 minutes am invariably asleep with my head parked on a neighboring shoulder, breathing gently down his collar. Something in the muginess invites drowsiness. I am told the late Mayor Gaynor, suffering from insomnia, used to find relief only in long subway rides.
